YANKS HAMMER WAVERING AXIS FLANK IN SICILY

Smash Along Coast Towards Messina.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 30 (AP).—A mighty American offensive against weakening northern sections of the German front slammed forward today over the rugged highlands of Sicily toward the Messina strait.

Spurred by "keep striking" orders of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., the doughboys knifed into axis positions and threatened to beat in the doors of axis defenses hinged on San Stefano on the north coast and Catania on the east.

The Americans advanced in "several places" yesterday, a terse official announcement declared, while Canadians in the center drove ahead and British troops fought successful small engagements below Catania.

Bomb Ports, Ships, Airdromes.

Aloft, allied air power struck against ports and roads in Sicily, shipping in the Tyrrhenian sea, and at airdromes in Italy near Naples and Rome.

San Stefano, already strategically outflanked by American capture of Nicosia, 19 miles inland, still was officially in Nazi hands, but United States troops were near its gates.

If the Germans can hold San Stefano temporarily, their hastily revamped Mount Etna line is expected to run from there to Troina, 11 miles east of Nicosia, then south to Regalbuto, which is menaced by the Canadians, and thence eastward along the north bank of the Dittaino river to the Catania plain.

May Hit Behind Mount Etna.

Strategic possibilities are opening up ahead of the Americans if they can sustain the pace that swept all western Sicily clean of axis resistance and then rolled back the German right flank in the east.

With the British engaging the largest portion of the German army on the Catania plain and the Canadians crashing thru a series of rearguard actions by the 15th German armored division, the Americans are in position to swing back of the enemy around the north side of Mount Etna's two mile high crater.

The Canadian 1st division, with battalions drawn from nine well-known regiments, was pounding on past Agira, central town of the Mount Etna line captured Wednesday. Agira is 10 miles south of Troina.

Possibility of Last Ditch Stand.

Somewhere between Troina and the Messina strait there was a possibility the Germans might make a last ditch stand in formidable mountain positions to compare with their immovable opposition to the 8th army on the east coast.

Day and night air blows pounded the axis reënforcement ports of Messina and Milazzo in Sicily.

R. A. F. Beaufighters attacking a convoy off the Italian coast left a merchant ship sinking.

Flying Fortresses smashed airdrome installations at Viterbo, 50 miles northeast of Rome, meeting only light anti-aircraft fire, United States medium bombers hit the airdrome at Aquino near Naples.

Four allied planes were lost in the far ranging attacks, and one enemy plane was destroyed, headquarters said.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S CHAIR GOES TO ITS OLD CHURCH

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 30.—The chair in which St. Augustine, the first archbishop of Canterbury, sat when he met the Welsh bishops will be returned by the Canterbury city council to the Church of Stanford Bishop in Herefordshire where it came from originally. The archbishop of Canterbury ordered its return after the bishop of Hereford asked for it.

The relic escaped destruction about 103 years ago when the Hereford church was being renovated. Workmen were about to break it up for firewood when a sexton begged them to give it to him for use in his garden.

St. Augustine's chair stood under an apple tree until 1900 when a connoisseur bought it for presentation to Canterbury.

"Forts" Batter German Plane Factory Again

BULLETIN.

LONDON, July 31 (Saturday)—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers, carrying the allied aerial smash of Germany into its second week, smashed at targets in the German homeland again last night, it was announced today. The targets were not immediately identified.

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—Flying Fortresses, making the sixth American assault on Germany in seven days, today battered a German plane factory at Kassel. This was their second attack on Kassel in a week. They scored "good bombing results," said a war bulletin, and, together with their fighter escort, knocked down 52 German fighter planes. Eleven Fortresses were lost.

Among the Fortress crews were Lt. Robert Leimbeck of Chicago, Sgt. Vincent C. McGinnis of Freeport, Ill., Sgt. Robert H. Harms of Crescent City, Ill., and 2d Lt. Richard Bohney of Schererville, Ind.

In coördinated assaults, United States medium bombers raided enemy air fields at Woendsrecht, Holland, and R. A. F. bombers attacked the Schipol air field at Amsterdam; the Courtrai and Coxyde fields in Belgium, and the air field at Poix and a power station at Yainville, France.

Last night the R. A. F. sent approximately 800 planes to blast Hamburg with 2,300 tons of bombs in the seventh attack on the city in a week. Raising the total of explosives dropped on the second largest German city since Saturday night to 6,900, the raid gave Hamburg the title of most bombed city on earth.

SEEKS CONTROL OF NATION BY NEUTRAL GROUP

Balks at Allied Push Thru Land.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, July 31 [Saturday].—The end of the Italian war crisis may be but a matter of hours, according to a report current in diplomatic circles here early this morning.

The government of Pietro Badoglio, this report said, had submitted to both belligerents—Germany as well as the allies—a request for the "neutralization" of the peninsula under the control of a neutral commission of military experts acceptable to both parties.

In exchange for the acceptance of such an agreement the Italian government would superintend the immediate withdrawal of all German forces on the peninsula, would guarantee the disarmament and destruction of coastal fortifications and the demobilization of its armed forces, it was said.

Would Concede Sicily.

The allies would be conceded the occupation of Sicily for the duration, but could not use the Italian mainland for military operations against the German positions either in the north or in the Balkans.

An allies' refusal of this project could have far reaching effects—possibly precipitating the immediate downfall of Badoglio as one of the first consequences. That much, it is understood, was intimated in the communication of the terms to both sides.

[Marshal Badoglio, urging Italians to be patient, said last night: "Italy can not now get out of the war honestly and safely without the exercise of great wisdom and cunning. This requires time." His broadcast was quoted by BBC whose broadcast was recorded by NBC.]

New Invasion Fears.

BERNE, Switzerland, July 30 (AP).—The Italian people, torn between the desire for peace and the regulations of a new government outwardly insisting on war as usual, heard a new warning tonight to prepare for a possible allied invasion of central Italy, border dispatches said.

The 5th army commander issued a proclamation advising of the danger of an allied invasion in Latium, Tuscany, and Umbria. He announced that assumption of power by the military authorities in this area to suppress rioting did not alter the alert of July 15 declaring a state of emergency in the event of an enemy landing.

[The German radio last night said that Germany was "looking with particular interest toward northern Italy," hinting at full scale occupation of the area.]

Two new classes were called to the colors by the Italian government.

Blue Network Sold; Comply with FCC Rule

New York, July 30 (AP).—The Blue Network Company, Inc., first coast to coast hookup in the history of radio to be offered to the highest bidder, was purchased for 8 million dollars late today by Edward J. Noble, business man and owner of a New York local station, from the Radio Corporation of America.

Edward J. Noble.

A brief statement from RCA said: "David Sarnoff, president of RCA, today announced that an agreement had been reached to sell the Blue network for 8 million dollars cash to Edward J. Noble, former under secretary of commerce.

"This move comes a year and a half after the Blue was organized as a separate coast to coast network and in conformity with the new regulations of the FCC relating to ownership of more than one network by any single organization. RCA remains owner of National Broadcasting company which will continue to operate the 'Red' network."

Retains Executive Staff.

In an accompanying statement Noble, who is chairman of the Life Savers company, a candy manufacturer, said that he would dispose of broadcast station WMCA, New York, as soon as a buyer could be found. He added that Mark Woods, president of the Blue since its separation from NBC on Jan. 9, 1942, together with Edgar Kobak, executive vice president, and the present staff would continue as the operating force. He also said there would be no change in policy.

When the Blue started out on its own it comprised 115 stations, but since has grown to 159.

While a part of NBC, it became somewhat of a secondary unit of the parent chain. A separate company, it began an aggressive campaign to build up its sponsorship to the point where it soon started to show a profit, at the same time intensifying competition in the network field.

Outgrowth of FCC Inquiry.

The separation and subsequent sale were primarily an outcome of the federal communications commission investigation into chain broadcasting that brought about the promulgation on May 2, 1941, of new rules for chain operation.

The Blue first was set up Jan. 1, 1927, after the formation of the NBC Red chain the previous November, on the plea of a group of stations not in the Red hookup for some form of network affiliation.

The two chains were operated as one company until the separation, when the Blue's business organization and office staff of 500 or more were segregated from NBC. War priorities prevented the network from developing its own studio facilities in New York, Chicago, and Hollywood, so it continued to use those of NBC on a rental basis.

The Blue also assumed ownership of stations WJZ, the New York key, and WENR, Chicago, both 50,000 watts, as well as KGO, San Francisco, 7,600 watts, as an integral part of the network.

ORDNANCE EXHIBIT HAS SPECIAL PLANS FOR FINAL THRONGS

With only two days remaining to see the ordnance show in Tribune Square, large crowds are expected at the exhibition today and tomorrow. Special arrangements have been made to handle the throngs of visitors until the closing tomorrow night.

Comdr. Thomas Poulter, former research director at Armour institute, addressed 600 engineers who toured the show last night. He listed great advancements in research made during the war, and predicted they would bring vast changes in peace time living conditions.

Earlier in the day seven labor union leaders visited the ordnance show. They said danger of slackening production in war plants would be reduced if all workers could visit the show and see the finished weapons they help make.

GALBRAITH, LATE OF OPA, BOBS UP IN LEND-LEASE!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Dr. James K. Galbraith, the former Princeton university economics professor who quit as a top deputy of office of price administration last month under fire from congress, now makes his headquarters in the lend-lease administration offices.

Dr. J. K. Galbraith.

Hearing of the professor's new affiliation, a reporter called his office in the lend-lease bureau but was told by the girl answering the phone he was too busy to talk to the press. Presently a high lend-lease official got on the phone and the following conversation ensued:

Official—You asked about Mr. Galbraith?

Reporter—Yes, could you tell me what his new job is?

O.—All I can say is that he is hanging his hat here.

R.—Just what is his job?

O.—He doesn't have any.

R.—Who hired Dr. Galbraith?

O.—Nobody in particular. He's just here, that's all there is to say.

Whistle Unites Officer Father and Navy Son

BY FOSTER HAILEY.

[Correspondent of the New York Times.]

AN ALEUTIAN BASE, July 25 [Delayed].—Occasionally, amid the mud and blood and tragedy of war, occurs some small incident of human relationship that warms the heart, bringing reaffirmation of the truth that the really fundamental things of life are home, and family, and love instead of hate.

One occurred at this base the other day when Lt. Col. Kenneth Fogle, assistant chief of staff to Maj. Gen. William O. Butler, commanding officer of the 11th air force, met his son, George, a gunners' mate in the navy.

"I knew he was up here," the colonel said, "but he had no idea I was within 10,000 miles of this place."

Family Whistle.

"I had asked the navy to let me know when his ship came in. The other day I got a message that she was standing in the harbor. I went down to the dock and got the yippee boat [a harbor patrol vessel] to take me out. She was underway, so I told the man at the wheel to just follow her in.

"There were a lot of sailors on deck and I couldn't pick out George; we were about 100 feet away. I was just thinking that I might try whistling our call—it's a sort of family whistle we use only between ourselves—when he whistled it at me. It came across the water as clear as a bell."

You can picture the meeting—The father khaki-clad, officer's cap, leather flight jacket, silver oak leaf of a lieutenant colonel, wings of the air force, scrambling up the ladder to the destroyer's deck; the son in navy blue, watch cap, dungaree trousers, blue zipper jacket, standing at the top of the ladder, grinning down at him.

How Son Enlisted.

There was the question of why the son of a West Point air force colonel should be serving in the enlisted ranks of the navy.

"It was his own idea," the colonel said. "I was down in Florida when his mother wrote me George wanted to enlist. This was before Pearl Harbor. She sent me the papers to sign. I wanted him to go into the air corps, but he said he'd rather not. 'I want to do this on my own, dad,' he wrote me."

Pope Donates $40,000 to Fix British Churches

LONDON, July 30.—Pope Pius XII., one of the first to deplore damage to churches in the recent allied raid on Rome, has directed that $40,000 of Holy See funds be donated for the restoration of Roman Catholic churches destroyed or damaged by enemy bombs in this country, it was revealed today.

DAYS OF HORROR ON 'POTATO HILL' TOLD BY YANKS

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NEW GEORGIA, Solomon Islands, July 29 [Delayed].—The veterans of Potato hill came out today.

You have never heard of Potato hill? Neither had I until a few days ago. It was a little, muddy mound, deep in the steaming jungles of New Georgia near a junction of native trails leading to the Munda air fields and the Lambeti plantation. On its top was a small patch which formerly was a native yam garden. That is how it got its name.

But to the veterans of Potato hill, it was a small portion of hell, where they lay dug in for five days and four nights of a living nightmare, while Japanese mortars and machine guns raged at them from three sides. And occasionally from behind them.

No Hot Food in a Month.

As they came down a trail today, the men still were living their experiences. They were unshaven and filthier than you would think men could be and more tired than you would think possible. They had eaten their last hot food and drunk their last clean water exactly 30 days ago. They had left many comrades behind them.

They told me their stories while waiting for their boats to come in. Over us was a constant scream of shells, our artillery engaging a Japanese battery. We could hear heavy machine guns and mortar shells, too, but the men did not pay much attention—they had lived too long with the mad roar of war in their ears and brains.

There was mild looking Frederick H. Brock, 29 years old, a school teacher from Homer, La. He went in as a sergeant and came out holding down the jobs of acting battalion adjutant, battalion sergeant major, acting operations officer, acting company commander, intelligence sergeant, and leader of a communications platoon.

Heroes of the Hill.

Then there was an Irish sergeant, Francis Casey, 29, a Bristol, Conn., woodworker, who made 22 patrols deep into Jap territory and emerged with two bullet holes in his helmet, two thru the heel of his right shoe, one thru each sleeve, a shrapnel tear thru his trousers, and 17 dead Japs to his credit.

There was Sgt. Clifton Lamb, 33, a husky toolmaker from Meriden, Conn., whose work on Potato hill belied his name. There was Corp. Frank Witkus, 27, of Kearny, N. J., the lucky man. There was Staff Sgt. Richard Hawley, 21, whose light machine gun sang a death chant for 44 Japs the night of July 17 on Potato hill.

Perhaps the story begins best with Sgt. Brock. He left his grade school on May 14, 1942, for the army. Before the dawn of July 6, he landed in New Georgia as sergeant of headquarters company. For three days, the outfit fought to the Bairoko river, 2,000 yards from the beaches.

Straight Into Guns' Muzzles.

But let him tell it:

"Next morning we moved slowly forward, west of Bairoko river. First, my responsibility worried me, but I got used to it and held down

M'ARTHUR'S AIRMEN OUTSHOOT BIGGER U.S. AIR FORCE IN EUROPE

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[Correspondent of New York News.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, July 30.—American airmen, backed up by Adm. William Halsey's naval forces, are gradually wrecking the remains of the Jap navy and air force in the South Pacific.

Since Gen. MacArthur's offensive began June 30, American airmen have destroyed 452 Japanese planes, probably shot down 37 more, and damaged 33. The extent of these aerial achievements is best realized by comparison with the American air force operating in the European theater with several times MacArthur's personnel. During June United States planes over Europe shot down 271 enemy aircraft, losing 82 bombers during combat. MacArthur lost 107 planes from June 30 thru July 29, but only 19 were bombers, the remainder being fighters.

The month's war of attrition against the Japs has cost them three cruisers, 15 destroyers, one aircraft tender, one sub chaser, nine merchantmen and at least 70 barges.

TANKS AND FIRE THROWERS AID PUSH ON MUNDA

Yanks Repulse Jap Attack, Advance.

ALLIED HDQ. IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 31 [Saturday] (AP).—Aided by tanks and flame throwers, American troops yesterday pressed closer to the vital Japanese airdrome at Munda, New Georgia, after hurling back a counter-attack.

This was the first mention of flame throwers in this area.

Dive bombers, escorted by fighters, also assisted the advancing Americans, attacking enemy installations at Munda point and gun positions at the Munda supply base at Bairoko, 10 miles north.

Offensive on Schedule.

Introduction of the flame throwers in the jungle around Munda marked the start of the second month of the offensive in the central Solomons. American troops closing in on the air base had the assurance of Gen. MacArthur that the campaign there is progressing satisfactorily and according to plan.

Allied warplanes made widespread sweeps against enemy shipping and ground installations. At least 11 barges were destroyed.

Four engined bombers raided the Buin-Faisi area in the northern Solomons, starting huge fires on the Ballale airdrome.

Japs Make Two Raids.

"Twenty-five enemy fighters were airborne in the area but avoided combat," a war bulletin from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said.

Six enemy bombers and 19 fighters attacked the allies in the Garoka area near Bena Bena, New Guinea. The attack was ineffective, the announcement said. The Japanese also sent dive bombers against allied positions in the Bobdubi area, five miles southwest of Salamaua, but caused little damage.

Allied bombers, in sweeps along the New Britain coast off Cape Gloucester, destroyed four barges.

Fleet of Barges Sunk.

In the Solomon sea, a two engined bomber on reconnaissance, attacked and stopped a large enemy barge loaded with timber.

Light surface units, probably torpedo boats, surprised and sank a fleet of seven loaded barges in Vitiaz strait between New Guinea and New Britain.

Other allied attack planes silenced an anti-aircraft position at the Cape Gloucester airdrome and started fires in the camp area at near-by Dorf point.

Greater Blows Hinted.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—Navy Secretary Frank Knox indicated today that the present American strategy of limited island advances in the Pacific is only a preparation for powerful and decisive thrusts against the strategic strong points of the Japanese empire.

ZEAL BLAMED FOR DELETIONS IN F. D. R. TALK

BUENOS AIRES, July 30 (AP).—The United States embassy has informed the Argentine foreign office that part of the text of President Roosevelt's Wednesday night speech was suppressed by orders of an Argentine postoffice employe, it was learned tonight.

The employe, attached to the press control office, ordered a United State news agency to eliminate the President's references to the "criminal and corrupt" fascist regime and his statement that Mussolini and his collaborators would be punished "for their crimes against humanity."

Officially it was explained that the measure was the result of "excessive zeal" on the part of an Argentine subordinate despite prior orders that the text of President Roosevelt's speech should not be altered in any way. The Italia Libre association of Argentina, composed of anti-Fascists, today called upon the new Italian government to make peace and oust the Germans.

At Seattle, the University of Washington seismograph recorded earth tremors about 9 p. m. Wednesday.

LANZA BELIEVES GERMANY PLANS NO. ITALY STAND

Doubts Allies Have Power to Hit France in South.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military affairs.]

At the end of June, Germany estimated that the allies had about 20 divisions assembled in northwest Africa for invasion purposes. Of these they have by now located 13 in Sicily, leaving seven still in Africa. This is too small a number for any major expedition. Unless they are reënforced, the Germans are relieved as to immediate fear to southern France.

Proposed defense line.

Germany may therefore temporarily spare say 10 divisions, out of 17 which she said she had in southern France, for use elsewhere. They might go to northern Italy. Germany stated that she already had 15 divisions in northern Italy. These were presumably to back a proposed defensive line across the north end of the Italian peninsula. This points to a line 140 miles long, from near Spezia to Rimini—the one which Germany proposed to Mussolini. Italy's refusal to withdraw to the rear of this line brought about Mussolini's downfall.

May Take Northern Italy.

If Italy drops out of the war, exclusive of German divisions sent from Germany directly to Italy, over 20 divisions appear to be near-by ready to seize the proposed line, and with it northern Italy.

The Brenner is one of many passes along the 240 mile Alpine boundary between Italy and Germany. It is a good pass, but the others have been crossed by armies during centuries; the last time between 1915 and 1918. If Switzerland remains neutral, the line of the Alps would be 100 miles longer than one across the head of the Italian peninsula.

Withdrawing to the Alps would involve abandoning the Po river valley. This is one of the most fertile areas in the world, and useful to Germany for its food products. It is a most difficult country to campaign in, favorable to the defenders.

Better Transport Facilities.

Northern Italy enables Germany to move troops back and forth between southern France and the Balkans, over excellent roads and railroads. It avoids having to send them all the way around Switzerland.

It is true that if the Germans hold a line across the Italian peninsula they will have to defend the sea coast from the French border to Spezia. But if they retire to the Alps, they will then have to defend the border from Switzerland along France to the sea.

It is improbable that Germany would abandon the Po valley, unless the Italian army turns against Germany, and is strong enough to overwhelm the strong forces Germany already has there.

Nazis Must Watch Turkey.

In the east Mediterranean, the 20 divisions of the allies are in Cyprus, Egypt, and Syria. They threaten the Balkans. Germany also has to watch Turkey, reported to have about 25 divisions who might join the allies.

Exclusive of the garrisons in Crete, and a few other islands, there appear to be at least six German divisions near Salonika, and anywhere from 15 to 30 Italian divisions scattered around. If the Italians pull out, the six German divisions would obviously be too small to meet an invasion.

Hungary and Rumania have some 25 available divisions. If they stick with Germany, they could replace the Italians in the Balkans. Germany is believed to have about 40 divisions in her general reserve in Germany. It probably wouldn't send more than a few of these away unless it were absolutely necessary. For until the 20 allied divisions, now in the Levant, and the much larger number in the British Isles start their invasions, Germany is compelled to watch over a wide territory.

FIRE 'BLOWOUT' HURTS THREE IN INSURANCE UNIT

Three members of the Chicago fire insurance patrol were injured in a "blowout" that followed a fire yesterday afternoon in a three story business and apartment building at 5856-58-60 State street.

Fireman Henry Roehr, 52 years old, 10053 South Carpenter street, suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis, and Fireman Gerald Bresnahan, 43, 6506 South Peoria street, a fractured ankle. Both men were taken to St. Bernard's hospital. Fireman John Dwyer, 45, 11749 South Wallace avenue, was treated at the hospital for a burn on his left hand. The men were blown thru the second story floor by the pressure of heat and smoke.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan estimated the loss at $10,000. He said the fire was thought to have started on the rear porch of one of the 16 apartments occupied by Negro families. Smoke and water damage was reported in a liquor store, mattress factory, and watermelon shop on the first floor.

TWO MEN ROB LUNCH ROOM.

Two men took $15 from the Gage Park lunch room, 5304 South Western avenue, while one threatened Mrs. Alice Brashearn, the owner, with a pistol, she reported to police yesterday.

GIVE NO HAVEN TO AXIS CHIEFS, NEUTRALS TOLD

Warning Is Issued by President.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—President Roosevelt today delivered a stern warning to neutrals not to offer haven to axis leaders who may be seeking shelter against the wrath of their own people and the just retribution of the allies.

At the same time the President told his press conference he is willing to deal for peace with any one in Italy—king, premier, or mayor—if they are not members of the Fascist government.

In London, the British government promptly associated itself with the President's views, and it was stated officially in that capital that soviet Russia also approved.

[Dispatches from London said the Russian government had sent notes to Turkey and Sweden warning them not to give asylum to Mussolini.]

May Be Aimed at Spain.

The warning to neutrals that the United States would regard the granting of asylum to axis leaders as inconsistent with the principles for which the allies are fighting was made in a formal statement, inspired by reports that Mussolini and his closest followers were seeking refuge in a neutral country.

While the warning was not directed at any specific countries, it was considered as aimed at Spain, whose leaders owe a debt of support to Mussolini and Hitler, and possibly at Switzerland, which has offered haven to political refugees down the years of European conflicts.

Mr. Roosevelt noted that one day Hitler and his gang and Tojo and his gang may be seeking to escape justice as Mussolini and his gang are now reported to be doing.

President's Statement.

The President's formal statement detailing his position follows:

"On Aug. 21, 1942, I issued a statement to the press in which, after referring to the crimes against innocent people committed by the axis powers, I stated: 'The united nations are going to win this war. When victory has been achieved it is the purpose of the government of the United States, as I know it is the purpose of each of the united nations, to make appropriate use of the information and evidence in respect to the barbaric crimes of the invaders, in Europe and in Asia. It seems only fair that they should have this warning that the time will come when they shall have to stand in courts of law in the very countries in which they are now oppressing and answer for their acts.'

"On Oct. 7, 1942, I stated that it was 'the intention of this government that the successful close of the war shall include provisions for the surrender to the united nations of war criminals.'

Wheels of Justice Turn.

"The wheels of justice have turned constantly since those statements were issued and are still turning. There are now rumors that Mussolini and members of his Fascist gang may attempt to take refuge in neutral territory.

"One day Hitler and his gang and Tojo and his gang will be trying to escape from their countries.

"I find it difficult to believe that any neutral country would give asylum to or extend protection to any of them.

"I can only say that the government of the United States would regard the action by a neutral government in affording asylum to axis leaders or their tools as inconsistent with the principles for which the united nations are fighting and that the United States government hopes that no neutral government will permit its territory to be used as a place of refuge or otherwise assist such persons in any effort to escape their just deserts."

The question of peace negotiations in Italy was raised when Mr. Roosevelt was asked if he was willing to deal with the government of Marshal Badoglio, successor to Mussolini as premier. The President replied that he did not care so long as negotiations were not with a member of the Fascist party.

Coming Home Soon

Lt. Blair Walliser of the coast guard, who spent three days and three nights off Gela, Sicily, during the invasion, will return to his Chicago home Tuesday, his mother, Mrs. S. W. Walliser, 2912 Commonwealth avenue, said yesterday. Lt. Walliser was a producer of radio shows on station W-G-N for 14 years before being commissioned in the coast guard last year.

Mrs. Walliser said she has been informed that her son, who is now in Washington, D. C., was one of the first veterans of the Sicilian invasion to come home. Lt. Walliser was deck officer during the embarkation on the coast guard transport flagship which participated in the Gela landing.

MAYOR REMINDS WPB OF PROMISE ON DIVERSION AID

Mayor Kelly sent a reminder yesterday to Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, that Chicago is waiting for action on a promise made in Washington, D. C., 10 days ago, that a government engineer would be sent here to set a date for an increase in diversion from the lake.

"The city and sanitary district authorities have had no word from this engineer, and I am writing to tell Nelson that we want the engineer here," Kelly said. "My letter also will check on the promise that priorities would be granted to complete the south side filtration plant to such an extent that it can coagulate and settle water to remove approximately 70 per cent of the pollution."

Residents of Illinois river communities are aroused over stagnant river conditions and are demanding a greater flow of water to carry away pollution, Kelly was told yesterday by State Representatives Paul Powell of Vienna, and Henry Knauf of Ladd.

Workers Relieving Nazi Aerial Defense Soldiers

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 30 (AP).—German soldiers manning anti-aircraft guns and other aerial defense installations within Germany are being relieved by workers and will be sent to the fronts, Berlin dispatches said today. The move reflects again the Nazi effort to get the most out of available man power.

ITALY SUBMITS PEACE TERMS, BERNE REPORTS

Seeks Rule by Group of Neutrals.

ies of Italy, many of them crowding into the areas between Milan and the Swiss border. Thousands of Milan residents have left the city to find refuge in less exposed localities.

There were reports that rioting and demonstrations in the north had begun to ebb as newspapers appealed to the Italians to avoid "supplying the enemy with another weapon." Most workers were reported returning to their jobs in Milan and other northern industrial cities where police and army control was tightened.

Some factories, it was reported, were halted for a half hour each today while the workers held an arm-folded strike to remind the government of the people's desire for "peace and liberty."

British Cabinet Stands By.

LONDON, July 31 [Saturday]—(AP).—British cabinet members and heads of the fighting services have been ordered to stand by over the week-end for war developments apparently in connection with riot-torn Italy, it was learned early today.

The London Daily Mirror carried a banner headline saying "Italy may be out of the war tomorrow."

Prime Minister Churchill's official family was called into a hurried consultation just after midnight Thursday, generating conjecture that Italy had approached the allies with a white flag.

However it was understood late last night that nothing was known in the capital of any Italian approach for an armistice.

No. 10 Downing street kept silent, as is usual when big things are in the wind, except for the bare disclosure that Churchill summoned the war cabinet members from sleep in the middle of the night for one meeting shortly after midnight and then conducted a second session by daylight.

Hints at Developments.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden gave a tipoff in the house of commons that the government was expecting an imminent turn in events. He said the war cabinet decided at a meeting yesterday against authorizing a war debate at present, but he added:

"Should there be some marked change in the situation—and weekends do sometimes produce changes in situations in Europe—we would, of course, reconsider our attitude."

[Other London dispatches said the British government was keeping Moscow fully informed of all moves in the Italian situation.]

Nazis Prepare Northern Line.

MADRID, Spain, July 30 (AP).—German troops, getting ready for an eventual collapse of Italy, were reported tonight hastily consolidating their positions in Italy's Trieste doorway to the Balkans.

Italians in Spain said Berlin had ordered Germans in Sicily to "hold that line" at all costs to enable the Germans to gain time and territory behind the Po valley in northern Italy—while Italy is still an ally.

The German purpose was described by these Italians as twofold: To shut the land route into the Balkans, and to take the naval base at Fiume where five Italian submarines already are under German guard. A continental dispatch said the Germans had taken Pola on the Adriatic coast also.

In the Trieste region there appeared to have been little resistance to the German occupation. The inhabitants of the area and the Italian forces themselves are accustomed to the Germans moving thru on their way to the Balkans. But railroad men in the area were reported making life difficult for the Germans by sabotaging rail lines.

[Paul Archinard, NBC reporter in Berne, Switzerland, said that five Italian divisions left the Balkans today for northern Italy. He also reported Balkan insurgent groups were "picking off" Italian garrisons along the Dalmatian coast in Jugo-Slavia.]

ADM. DOMVILLE RELEASED FROM BRITISH PRISON

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—Adm. Barry Domville, retired, former director of British naval intelligence, who has been detained in Brixton prison under defense regulations since July 1, 1940, was released today.

Domville and his wife were arrested July 8, 1940. He was taken to Brixton prison and she to Holloway prison. She was released after 16 months' detention. Charges against them were not disclosed.

The admiral, who retired in 1936, went to Germany in 1937 to shoot chamois with Heinrich Himmler, head of all German police organizations, and twice before that he was a guest of Adolf Hitler. He was chairman of the pro-German organization, "The Link," but long ago announced it had been dissolved.

MARINE LEADER AT SOLOMONS GETS PROMOTION

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—Alexander A. Vandegrift, who commanded the marines at Guadalcanal, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant general and appointed commanding officer of the first marine amphibious corps, the marine corps announced today.

Vandegrift, who was a major general when the marines landed in the Solomons in August of last year, is the second marine ever to attain the grade of lieutenant general. The other is Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, now commandant of the marines.

Larry Rue Praises English for Holding Onto Freedom Under War Regime

Hails Ration System

Altho England has granted almost absolute powers to its ministers under pressure of total war, it has preserved its principles of democracy, declared Larry Rue, London correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, now home on leave. He spoke yesterday before the Union League club.

England's ministers, Rue pointed out, can throw any one in jail, even Winston Churchill, on suspicion of action against the country. They can confiscate any property, or put any person in any job that may be deemed necessary to help the war program. Yet the exercise of this unlimited authority is jealously guarded by the ministers and by the people, and England has preserved the fundamental freedom it had before the war.

Rue praised the fairness and efficiency of the British rationing system, giving credit to the business-like methods adopted by Food Minister Woolton, who, he said, had done a colossal job in the way a business man would have been expected to do it.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent was in Amsterdam when the Germans dropped paratroops on that city. He watched from the roof of his hotel the capture of the airport near the city which, he said, the Germans were using in six or seven hours after the first Nazi soldiers dropped from the sky.

Reverse Route to London.

Realizing he could not get to London direct from Holland, Rue started in the opposite direction, crossing the Dutch border on a German army pontoon bridge, the only one connecting Germany and Holland, and reached the British capital by way of Berlin, Milan, Italy, and Paris.

Ru arrived in London just after Dunkirk and just as France was signing the armistice. He found a tenseness, but also confidence on the part of the British that they could eventually win the war. The beginning of bombing by the Germans took away much of the tenseness, British morale being better under actual punishment from the luftwaffe [Nazi air forces], Rue said, than it had been when the country was waiting for invasion.

Rue was in his London office in the early hours of the morning when the first bomb fell on London. He described his visit to the bombed spot only a short distance away, wading thru broken glass in the street almost ankle deep to reach the fire then burning.

Censor Steps In.

He described his return to the office, the column story he wrote, and the headlines he imagined he could see following its receipt in Chicago, only to be called by the censor to say there was no fire, no bombing—and no story.

It was not until Coventry was blitzed, Rue said, that correspondents were permitted to tell where England had been struck by the German bombers. No fire could be described until the fire was over, and fires were going almost continuously in London then.

The German bombing, Rue insisted, has done London some good, for hundreds of old and unsightly buildings have been destroyed. In spite of the ruin of some historic structures, London will be a more beautiful city when it is rebuilt after the war, he asserted.

The Tribune correspondent said the war had almost completely erased class snobbery in England. The girls from Mayfair and the East End work side by side in the factories, eat the same rations, and share their lives in many other ways. Class privileges also have been abolished in the army and all officers now must win their commissions "the hard way" by working up thru the ranks.

Yank-British Relations Cordial.

Answering a question following his talk, Rue said the British people and the American troops "got along fine after they threw away their instructions." The British people had been issued instructions on how to treat American soldiers and the American soldiers had been issued instructions on how to conduct themselves toward the British, with the result that "they were fighting like hell at first." But, Rue said, when both sides ignored their instructions and used common sense in the treatment of each other cordial relations soon developed in almost every location where American soldiers were quartered.

Churchill is as popular as ever, if not more so, Rue said in response to another question, but it is doubtful if his party could obtain a majority in parliament in the event of an election. Anthony Eden [foreign secretary] would be his natural successor, Rue said, if anything happened to Churchill, but Ernest Bevin [minister of labor] is a strong man due to become stronger as the war progresses and in the peace that will follow.

Col. M'Cormick Presents 'Real American'

To carry on as an American abroad year in and year out against the European social system requires exceptional powers and Larry Rue has those powers, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, declared yesterday in introducing THE TRIBUNE'S London correspondent, now home on leave, to members of the Union League club.

Protrays Class System.

"We have many problems in this country and one of them is the problem of expatriates," Col. McCormick said. "The word is generally understood to mean millionaires who left their own country and live on the fringe of European society. It is a broader word than that. Many Americans leave this country to earn a living abroad.

"They do not find the hospitality that we extend to all. They do not find the pioneer spirit which still rules among us. They find a people who have been in place for centuries, a thoro caste society with an hierarchal position for every one in it. They are called upon to accept this arrangement and, as a condition for being held above the lower classes, they are called upon to accept a position below that of the upper class.

Praises War Correspondent.

"Salesmen are the lower middle class; office managers upper middle class. Our diplomats are allowed to hobnob with the aristocracy on terms of inferiority."

In Europe, Col. McCormick pointed out, news men call at back doors and use the back stairs.

"Too many Americans abroad accept that status and come to feel privileged to be in it and more or less look down upon us," he said.

"That description obviously does not fit your speaker today. He comes from the west, where patriotism is at its peak. He went abroad in the last war as a flyer, and nobody can look down his nose at an aviator.

"To carry on as an American abroad year in and year out requires exceptional powers, and Larry Rue has them. Back in 1921, during the Russian famine, without even a passport, he went all the way up the Volga river into communist Russia. What is more remarkable, he came out again.

Used Plane to Hunt News.

"Before the days of flying instruments, before the days of airworthy airplanes, in quest of adventure and news, he flew all around the Mediterranean, all over the countries that have been fought upon and will be fought upon, giving himself a background such as few men possess.

"When he was in Morocco, in the Moroccan army, and became tired of the chow in that army, he walked out one night thru the Moroccan front line, crossed No Man's land, and into the Spanish lines.

"A man with that much courage will always have the courage to tell the truth, no matter how much pressure is put upon him to dilute it."

HITLER'S GIFT TO BENITO: SET OF NIETZSCHE!

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—The Berlin radio announced today that Adolf Hitler had sent Benito Mussolini the complete works of Nietzsche, specially printed and with a "cordial dedication by Hitler" as a 60th birthday present. The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said the books were delivered by Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring. Presumably Mussolini was in custody when the present was delivered.

It was from Nietzsche, German philosopher who preached the creed of a super race, that Mussolini borrowed his motto, "Live Dangerously."

Nietzsche, who died in 1900, wrote: "I am writing for a race of men which does not yet exist—for the lords of the earth." Nietzsche predicted great dangers for the 20th century, which he said would be the classical era of great wars and revolutions. These he welcomed as a means for masculinization of the world. Fascists and Nazis have drawn on his works to support their tenets.

YANK BOMBERS IN BURMA BLAST JAP HELD BRIDGE

NEW DELHI, India, July 30 (AP).—A United States air bulletin said today that bombers of the 10th United States army air force yesterday attacked a railroad bridge over the river My in Burma. Both east and west spans were blasted to the river and damage was inflicted on the central span. This bridge is located 25 miles west of Mandalay and its destruction will delay rail traffic on a branch serving Monywa and towns to the north, between the Irrawaddy and Chindwin rivers.

Other bombers blasted railroad installations and a factory at Tangon. The factory as well as the rolling stock was destroyed. Bombs also were dropped on mills at Myingyan. On July 28 heavy bombers attacked a 300-foot ship near Port Blair in the Andaman Islands. Near hits were reported. All our aircraft returned safely.

FRENCH GIVE UP THEIR 'PRIVATE' SHANGHAI AREA

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokio radio yesterday said Vichy's consul general in Shanghai had handed over the keys of the French concession to representatives of the Japanese sponsored puppet government of the city. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The puppet government recently concluded an agreement with the Japanese ending extra-territorial rights in the Shanghai international settlement and restoring administrative rights to the Chinese.

Handing over of the 94 year old French concession was one of a series of moves by axis controlled diplomats to carry out this agreement.

WAR BULLETINS

ALLIED.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 30 (AP).—An allied war bulletin said today:

Patroling continued on the front of the 8th army with successful small encounters.

The Canadians advanced farther against strong opposition.

The line of the 7th army advanced in several places.

ALLIED AIR.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 30 (AP).—An allied headquarters air report said today:

On the night of July 28-29 our bombers attacked the air fields at Monte Corvino and Capodichino.

Attacks on Italian air fields were continued yesterday when heavy bombers raided Viterbo and medium bombers raided Aquino. The target areas were well covered by bomb bursts.

Light bombers carried out attacks on enemy positions in Sicily and on the port of Milazzo.

Road communications on the island and shipping at Messina and Riposta were attacked by fighter bombers.

Our fighters maintained their patrols over allied shipping and land forces and carried out an offensive sweep over Sardinia.

As a result of attacks on enemy shipping in the Tyrrhenian sea by torpedo carrying aircraft a merchant ship was left in a sinking condition and two naval vessels were left on fire.

One enemy aircraft was destroyed during the day's operations. Four of ours are missing.

MIDDLE EAST AIR.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 30 (AP).—A middle east air announcement said today:

R. A. F. Wellingtons attacked enemy shipping in the harbor of Alimnia, an island near Rhodes, during the night of July 28-29. Smoke was seen rising from a merchant vessel after the attack.

Yesterday our Beaufighters attacked five enemy schooners near Paros Island, damaging all five.

From these and other operations all our aircraft returned safely.

GERMAN.

The broadcast German war report yesterday as recorded by the Associated Press said:

On Sicily German troops in the central sector of the defense front repulsed attempts at a breakthru and inflicted losses on the enemy. Off the south coast of the island one enemy transport of 8,000 tons was so heavily hit with bombs that its total loss can be reckoned with.

In the Atlantic the air forces sank a 10,000 ton merchant steamer. Two other large ships were heavily hit.

ITALIAN.

Following is yesterday's Italian headquarters report as broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press:

In Sicily, defense troops were still being heavily engaged by renewed violent enemy attacks.

In the waters east of Sicily our torpedo boats repelled an offensive thrust by enemy torpedo boats against our convoys.

Enemy raids over some localities of Lazio and Campania caused small losses.

Our fighters shot down a twin engined plane over Naples.

Illinois Flying Instructor and Cadet Are Killed

Augusta, Ga., July 30 (AP).—Aviation Cadet Eskel L. Sims Jr., 21 years old, of Brevard, N. C., and James P. Morris Jr., 31, civilian flying instructor of Freeport, Ill., stationed at Georgia Aero Tech here, were killed yesterday in a crash, Bush field public relations announced tonight.

Navy Lieutenant Dies in Crash.

Norfolk, Va., July 30 (AP).—Lt. [j. g.] Joseph M. Gallano, St. Paul, Minn., was killed last night when a navy land plane which he piloted crashed near Lynnhaven inlet. His next of kin was listed as his mother, Mrs. Teresa Galarneau, St. Paul.

Giraud-De Gaulle Row on Army Rule Again Flares

ALGIERS, Algeria, July 30 (AP). — The dispute between Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud over the fusion of their armed forces was reported today to have broken out again, and more violently.

A long session of the French National Committee of Liberation, which the generals head as co-chairmen, was said to have been the sounding board. A Frenchman familiar with the situation gave this account

The basic disagreement of De Gaulle and Giraud pivots around the question of creating a commissariat of defense in which a military chief will function.

Giraud opposed bringing this office into existence and he objects to having De Gaulle occupy the post.

A majority of the committee members appear to be backing De Gaulle. They take the position that recent military and political developments, particularly the invasion of Sicily and the resignation of Mussolini, brought the invasion of France much closer and, therefore, they feel that the fusion issue should be resolved immediately.

The idea of De Gaulle's supporters is that it would be confusing if not dangerous to land two distinct French armies in France.

The committee already has agreed to have Giraud as commander in chief. No decision has been reached as to whether the commander in chief's powers would be subordinated to those of the proposed commissioner of defense.

British and American intervention last month in behalf of Giraud appeared to complicate the problem.

If the commander in chief has no responsibility to the French national committee, he said, it is considered useless to appoint a commissioner of defense.

FINDS GERMANS LACK BRAINS IN SICILY INVASION

Official Report Says Foe Had Planes, but—

BY RELMAN MORIN

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 30 (AP).—The German air force suffered from a shortage of brains, not planes, in the opening stages of the invasion of Sicily, official reports showed today.

They fell down on reconnaissance, thus missing the chance to hammer the weakest link of the allied invasion chain—the moment of landing. They failed to cover the axis ground forces or to impede the advance of the allied troops.

But more important, the Germans failed to appreciate and to counter the strategy and tactics of the allies before the invasion.

Expected Enemy Air Fleet.

It was obvious that in the whole stretch of the Mediterranean from Haifa to Gibraltar, there was only one point where the allies could attack under cover of a fighter umbrella. That was in Sicily.

Consequently, we expected to find Sicily literally jammed with German and Italian fighters and particularly fighter-bombers.

There were about 400 enemy aircraft on the island at the moment of invasion. It was not a weak force as judged by German air force standards in the days of 1939, but it was not strong enough to deflect modern allied strength. That was the number one error.

Error Number Two.

Error number two appeared when the Germans apparently failed to note and prepare a counter for the allied pattern of air strategy, altho it had been patent for days.

Allied heavy and medium bombers began working on Sicilian air fields. They had a first priority. Second came Sicilian ports and embarkation points.

The object was to render the air fields useless, giving succeeding bomber raids greater freedom. Secondarily, it was to dislocate the machinery whereby the axis could reinforce Sicily.

500 Allied Fighter Planes.

In preparation for this campaign, fighter aircraft were poured in from Malta, only 40 miles away. It has been disclosed that more than 500 fighters were sent to Malta. Extra air fields had to be built. Where was German reconnaissance?

The big bombers, American Flying Fortresses and Liberators and the R. A. F. work horses, the night flying Wellingtons, carried a tornado of high explosives to the axis air fields in southern Sicily.

One by one the fields were knocked out. German and Italian fighter and bomber aircraft retreated. To complicate the axis problems, raids were directed against Sardinia.

Shoot Up Port Cities.

As axis fields were blotted out, bombers and fighter-bombers began blasting and shooting up the Italian port cities and harbor towns.

This pattern eventually spread not only all over Sicily but also to the Italian mainland. By the time the invasion ships were ready to sail, air superiority over the entire region had been secured. The pattern, Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder said today, was "exactly the same as in Africa."

DUTCH TELL RESCUE OF 500 FROM TIMOR UNDER GUNS OF JAPS

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 30 (AP).—Aneta, the Netherlands news agency, today told of the hazardous rescue of more than 500 Portuguese priests, nuns, government officials, and natives from Japanese held Timor by allied warships.

"The Japanese had strong forces on Timor," Aneta related, "and the warships were in constant peril of air attack while making their way to the rendezvous where the refugees were waiting."

Among the refugees were Msgr. Jaime Goulart, apostolic administrator, and Atty. Gen. Noronha. "The refugees have been settled in a former military camp," Aneta said.

In London on Wednesday Vice Adm. C. E. L. Helfrich, commander of Netherlands forces in the Southwest Pacific, said that last September a Dutch destroyer had made three hazardous trips to Timor to rescue 952 persons.

16,000 SEE 'MEET YOUR NAVY'; NEW STAR TAKES BOW

An audience of 16,000 last night witnessed the all-star navy production, "Meet Your Navy," presented in the Chicago Stadium under the sponsorship of the Cook county council of the American Legion. Proceeds went to the Chicago service men's centers.

Frank Roane, Richmond, Va., an unpublicized Negro sailor from the Great Lakes naval training station, received one of the biggest rounds of applause for his singing of "De Glory Road." Other entertainment was contributed by Lt. Comdr. Robert Montgomery, ex-movie hero who was master of ceremonies; Lt. Comdr. Edwin Peabody, banjo artist who was musical director; John Carter, opera singer; a WAVES choral group of 70 voices, and a marine corps drill team from Navy pier.

Among the guests were Mayor Kelly and Rear Adm. John Downes, head of the 9th naval district.

Crash Kills 5 RCAF Men; 4 Die in 2d Plane Mishap

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—Five Canadian airmen were killed in a crash of their plane near Estevan, Sask., close to the North Dakota border, R. C. A. F. headquarters in Winnipeg announced today. The pilot and three passengers were killed in a plane crash near Paulson, Man., flying field, 55 miles northwest of here, it also was announced.

War in Russia Is 'Heavy Work' Now, Germans Told

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—The German radio, in a report on fighting on the Russian front, told its listeners at home tonight that the war "has turned into heavy work" and that no more special war bulletins could be expected. Such announcements were a feature of the German high command during the period of lightning war.

REDS SCORE NEW GAIN AT OREL TO TIGHTEN CLAMP

Win 20 More Villages from Germans.

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—Slithering thru muddy fields and forests, Russian troops gained another six miles around Orel today and wrested 20 villages from stubborn German defenders fighting on orders to "prevent the complete defeat of the Germany army."

Altho spearheads of the soviet advance on the semi-circular front around Orel have reached within eight miles of the city, the front is irregular. Daily announcements of gains from two to ten miles presumably are part of the operations to straighten the lines and tighten the clamp on the important Nazi base.

Slay 4,000 Germans.

After a special Moscow bulletin had announced the six mile gain, the soviet midnight war announcement reported at least 4,000 axis troops were slain near the key German base on Friday. Among them were fresh Nazi forces ferried by air transport from Germany and France.

Mainly on the Orel front, the Russians announced the destruction of 57 German tanks and 58 planes in the last two days.

In addition to the advance toward Orel, Moscow's midnight war report told of minor Russian successes both north and south of the bastion around Belgorod, in the Donetz basin, on the Leningrad front, and northwest of Moscow in the Kalinin sector.

Nazis Fighting "to Death."

Nazi forces holding a precarious grip on Orel are battling tenaciously under orders "to fight to prevent the complete defeat of the German army," Moscow dispatches reported.

Soviet intelligence reports said Adolf Hitler had placed Field Marshal Model in charge of the 2d tank army defending Orel, replacing a Col. Gen. Schmidt, and that Model had issued the "fight to the death" order.

However, Berlin reports said Russian attacks at Orel, Leningrad, and other points on the 1,800 mile front had weakened. German "naval forces" were said to have shelled the Russians on the Mius front near the approaches to Taganrog, damaging an armored train.

Nazi General Reported Slain.

MOSCOW, July 30 (AP).—A Tass news agency dispatch from Geneva said the Germans had announced the death from wounds of Maj. Gen. Hunersdorf, described as chief of headquarters of the German armored tank army. It said he was wounded in battle in the Belgorod area.

REP. WILL ROGERS IN BRITAIN.

LONDON, July 30 [AP].—Rep. Will Rogers Jr. [D., Cal.], has arrived in Britain by air and will tour British plane factories, United States air bases, and American troop encampments. He said he expected to remain in this country about a month.

DENIES BRITAIN WON'T HELP U. S. CONQUER JAPAN

Consul Says His Country Suffered There, Too.

A denial of the charge that Britain plans to let America fight the Japanese war almost alone after hostilities end in Europe was made at the Executives' club luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday by Wilfred Hansford Gallienne, British consul general in Chicago.

Wilfred Gallienne.

"In England," he said, "we resent a little your idea that the Japanese war is your private war. We have suffered ignominiously at Japan's hands and we are as anxious for her complete conquest as you."

Question from the Floor.

This was in answer to a question from the floor as to whether Britain's promise to prosecute the Pacific war at America's side was made with tongue in cheek. Instead of delivering a set speech, Gallienne devoted his whole period to answering questions.

In response to queries about lend-lease, he described the workings of reverse lend-lease—British provisioning of American troops, servicing of American ships, and the exporting to America of British tools.

"Reverse lend-lease runs into the billions, too," he said. He stressed the gratitude of the British for American lend-lease.

In answer to a question as to what steps had been taken to eliminate jealousies and animosities between American and British soldiers, Gallienne said crisply: "No steps." He said the mutual respect of the soldiers of the two nations made all such measures superfluous.

Drafting of Boys for Mines.

Gallienne also told the club that Britain now is considering the conscription of boys of 16 and 17 for work in the coal mines. He cited this as an example of the willingness of the country to take even the most drastic measures when the efficiency of her prosecution of the war is at stake.

Asked if he thought the four freedoms could be put into practice, Gallienne replied: "I don't know, but we ought to try."

Used Tires and Tubes Rationed to Canadians

OTTAWA, Ont., July 30 (AP).—Effective midnight tonight, used tires and tubes may be purchased in Canada only with a tire ration permit similar to that required for new tires, Munitions Minister Howe announced today.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—Lapel buttons to signify service in the army will be awarded to all persons honorably discharged, the war department said today. The buttons, now being manufactured, picture an eagle within a circle. They bear no lettering.

CHICAGO PRIVATE ONE OF 3 DESERT THIRST VICTIMS

Pvt. John Kunysz, 34 years old, who lived at 3850 Diversey avenue, was one of three soldiers who died of thirst while their platoon was lost early this week in a desert in California, his family has been notified.

Pvt. John Kunysz.

Kunysz, who entered the army in July, 1942, is survived by his widow, Helen; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kunysz, two sisters, Wanda and Irene, and a brother, Kazimier, all of Chicago. The funeral will be from the chapel at 3601 Diversey avenue Monday at 9:30 a. m. to St. Hyacinth's church, where services will be held at 10 a. m., and burial will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery.

The platoon of 39 men became lost last Saturday while on a march from a supply depot 30 miles southeast of El Centro, Cal., and was not reported found until Tuesday.

CHINESE BATTER JAPANESE LINES NEAR HANGCHOW

CHUNGKING, China, July 30 (AP).—A series of Chinese attacks on Japanese garrisons near Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, were disclosed by an army spokesman today. He said the Japanese had suspended passenger traffic on the Shanghai-Hangchow railway to facilitate the movement of troops to reënforce different garrisons.

Chinese troops at one point along the railway have cut traffic from Hangchow to the north, he said. They also were reported to have driven back a Japanese thrust from Wukang, northwest of Hangchow.

The spokesman said the Japanese have legalized enlistment in the Japanese army of subjugated peoples and that they hope to enlist large numbers of Koreans and Formosans.

DAYS OF HORROR ON 'POTATO HILL'; TOLD BY YANKS

Under Jap Fire for Month in New Georgia Jungle.

the job until we were relieved. On July 11 and 12, we advanced slowly against strong opposition and night harassing.

"On June 13 we took Potato hill. It was tough. We went right into the muzzles of Japanese machine guns and drove the Japs out of their pillboxes, getting most of them before they could get away. The communications leader was killed and I took over his duties.

"Don't let anyone tell you that hill wasn't tough to hold. The Japs attacked every night, but the biggest was on the night of July 18. We fought like crazy men, never thinking we could hold out. Next morning, 101 dead Japs lay around us."

Story of an Irishman.

Then Casey told his story. He landed on New Georgia on July 1 and with a lieutenant and three other men headed into the jungle.

"We hadn't gone 400 yards when snipers began working on us," said Casey. "Then grenades began to come from behind. Suddenly, a Jap officer stood up on a ridge 50 yards ahead and shouted to us in English, 'Retreat.' Our lieutenant told him to go to hell and then fell with a bullet thru his leg. We decided to break thru toward the beach. The other three men cleared the way ahead of me with tommy guns and I dragged the lieutenant out. I took two bullets from a Jap light machine gun thru the heel of my right shoe and two thru my helmet without a scratch.

"Next day, the five of us pushed thru to Bairoko river. Jap machine guns pinned us down, but we managed to crawl away and hid for the night among the roots of banyan trees, returning to our lines the next morning. The next day we went back. A mile in, we found a Jap bivouac area with still smoking cigaret butts. As there were only five of us, we ducked into the bush. We ran smack into 25 Japs. Apparently they thought we were part of a large force because they fled. We got a couple with our tommy guns and then lit out in another direction."

Patrols 22 Days in Row.

For 22 days Casey made patrols, feeling out Jap strong points, bivouac areas, and ammunition dumps. His tommy gun, now battered and red with rust, had accounted for 17 Japs during the patrols.

Lamb's story is next. This huge chap was behind a heavy machine gun when the Japs tried to retake Potato hill before dawn July 18.

"We were trying to catch a little shuteye when they hit," he said. "The first thing I knew, a Jap grenade lit on the parapet beside the gun, and blew up the gun's water jacket, ammunition chest, and ammunition belt. I shifted belts quickly and opened fire. With the cooling system gone, the gun got hot as hell, but I got five Japs within 10 yards of me and must have seriously discouraged the others."

Knocks Out 12 Japs.

Manning another heavy machine gun nearby was Sgt. Charles Bogan, 26, of Castor, La.

"I was sleeping, too," said Bogan. "Then the man on a gun near me heard the Japs coming and yelled. Just as he yelled, the Japs killed two gunners in a foxhole with him. Then, the yellow rats charged at his gun, apparently failing to see mine. Twelve came within 10 yards of me and I opened with 200 rounds. Next morning, we found seven dead Japs in a row and five others knocked into bushes."

Corp. Witkus deserves the nickname, "Lucky Man." He was a mortar gunner who, on the night of July 16, was sent to the crest of Potato hill to spot the fire for a mortar behind him. He at first directed the fire from a foxhole where two other Americans lay, but when a Jap 90 mm. mortar answered, he decided to go back down to his mortar for orders. Just after he left the foxhole, a mortar shell hit it directly, killing the two men still in it.

Halted by a Dud Grenade!

"No sooner had I arrived back at our mortar than a Jap grenade landed right in the mortar hole," he said. The three of us there thought our numbers were up, but the grenade was a dud. We lay beside it all night, afraid the concussion of other shells would set it off. About dawn we were ordered to fire our mortar. Figuring such a close blast would set off the grenade, I threw it out. It never did go off."

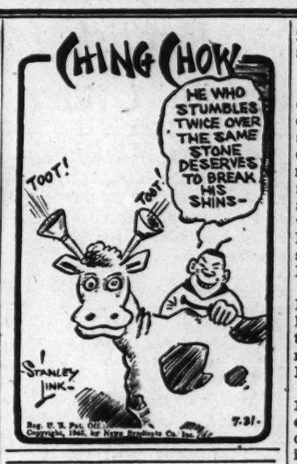
Sergt. Hawley, who came from Middletown, Conn., was manning a light machine gun on Potato hill the night of July 17 when 44 Japanese rushed him, hurling grenades. Hawley said:

"Eight grenades landed within 10 feet of the parapet. Three landed right beside my gun, killing one of my gunners. The Japs were within 30 feet when I managed to crawl back to the gun and open fire. The next morning I found 10 within 10 feet of the parapet, all dead, and 34 bodies back a little ways. 'Old Betsy' sure was shooting straight that night."

Youth of 25 Old and Worn.

The last man I talked to was 2d Lt. Donald Gordon, 25, of Canton, O. When his company went in, he was a platoon leader. Today, he is company commander because he is the only officer left. He is very young in years but he was an old and wornout man today as we sat on the beach and talked. He told his story, slowly and haltingly. His mind was far away, back there in the weird, green jungles of New Georgia.

The veterans of Potato hill came out today. I watched them climb into landing boats and head back for Rendova Island for a rest and some hot food. They came out today, but a few days from now they will land again on this beach, cleaned up and with some of their aging weariness gone. Then they will head back toward the jungles and the Japanese again.



Aussie Minister Praises Roosevelt, Churchill Aid

SYDNEY, Australia, July 30 (AP).—H. V. Evatt, minister for external affairs, said today that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are "greatly attached to Australia" and "both are doing much for us." Evatt has been away several months visiting London and Washington.

"Pick up a few boxes of Wheaties on your way home, dear. You don't need the ration books for that."

— and you don't need to suppress that desire for a second helping of Wheaties, either. Which is a good thing all around, when you consider that famous second helping flavor which has helped to make Wheaties America's favorite whole wheat flakes. Add all the fine whole wheat nourishment of Wheaties to the milk and fruit that go so naturally with it and you really have something. In fact, you have a "Breakfast of Champions," than which there is nothing whicher.

"Wheaties" and "Breakfast of Champions" are registered trade marks of General Mills, Inc.

F. D. R. PROPOSES 3 MONTHS' PAY FOR WAR VETS

Outlines Plan to Meet Discharge Problems.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Payment of three months' base pay—not to exceed a total of $300 plus family allowances—to soldiers, sailors, and marines on discharge at the end of the war was proposed today by President Roosevelt.

The proposal was contained in a report on demobilization and readjustment for the post-war period, prepared by the defunct national resources planning board. Mr. Roosevelt announced he would send the report to congress when it reconvenes after a summer vacation in September.

In making the announcement Mr. Roosevelt was seen as following thru his attempt in his radio address Wednesday night to head off a flood of bonus payment bills which have been expected to sprout in congress.

In general the program of the planning unit resembled that outlined by the President Wednesday. Observers doubted that congress, which killed the NRPB which was headed by the President's uncle, Frederic Delano, by cutting off its funds, would give serious consideration to its program.

Six Point Program.

Mr. Roosevelt cautioned that while he approved of the objectives of the report, he was not prepared to give a blanket indorsement to details of the program.

The report offered a six point program for demobilization of veterans to be handled by a central administrative agency. The program follows:

"1. Three months' furlough at regular base pay not to exceed $100 a month, plus family allowances.

"2. Beyond that time, if necessary, unemployment insurance for 26 weeks for those who register with the United States employment service.

"3. Special aid and counsel regarding readjustment and rehabilitation.

Resumption of Education.

"4. Special provision, including tuition and allowances, for those who wish to pick up the broken threads of their education or follow some special course of training.

"5. Veterans' credit for old age and survivors' insurance on the basis of service in the armed forces.

"6. Opportunities for agricultural employment and settlement to be provided for a limited number of qualified service men. But, in general, agriculture should not be looked on as a dumping ground for the industrial unemployed, since the problem is broader than that of agriculture alone."

The planning unit said a high national level of productivity of between 100 or 125 billion dollars a year should be maintained after the war in order to continue the present high level of employment and provide for the most efficient shift of workers from war to peace industries.

The President scoffed at charges he was playing 1944 politics in his Wednesday night broadcast. The charges were made by Republicans who demanded space on the government's official news lines to the armed forces in order to present their accusations that he was bidding for the soldier vote.

The chief executive, with a laugh, brushed aside a request for comment on what his questioner called the "speculation as to the political portent" of his address in which he outlined the demobilization plan of benefits.

35 WOMEN JOIN PARK POLICE TO FILL MEN'S JOBS

Thirty-five service guards proudly donned women's police blue uniforms yesterday for graduation ceremonies at the park district administration building, 425 East 14th street. Beginning Monday, they will patrol the lake front and parks, assist children and pedestrians at boulevard crossings, and direct spectators at special events where large groups gather.

This is the third and largest class of graduates since women were taken into the auxiliary of the Chicago park district police in May of 1942, to replace men who had entered the army and navy. In the group are six mothers of soldiers, three graduate nurses, one widow of a park district policeman, three actresses, two models, and one song writer.

Acting Chief Peter P. Annen awarded the certificates. Sgt. Robert V. Keleher and Sgt. Walter J. Balcom directed the two weeks' training course.

HUGE SHIPYARD SHUT BY STRIKE ON RACIAL ISSUE

Baltimore, July 30 (AP).—Several thousand workers left their jobs at the Bethlehem Steel company's big Sparrows Point shipyard today as the result of a controversy over attendance of Negro students at a training school for riveters, and the yard was ordered closed until Monday.

A spokesman for the company issued this formal statement:

"The Bethlehem-Sparrows Point shipyard closed at noon today and will remain closed until Monday morning because of an issue arising from racial matters."

The spokesman added that conferences were held thruout the day by L. F. Rye, conciliator for the United States department of labor, officials of the company and representatives of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO). They hope to reach a settlement before Monday the company representative added.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. W. Hartman, 2516 Ridge road, Evanston.]

THE QUESTION.

What was your greatest embarrassment as a hostess?

WHERE ASKED.

Kemper Insurance building, 4750 Sheridan road.

THE ANSWERS.

Luella Spannagle, secretary, 1459 Victoria street—My ex-fiance had been spending Thanksgiving day in our home for years. Last holiday I invited my present fiance. It was one of the most uncomfortable times I've had when we had to find room for both of our guests at the dinner table.

Ruth Howe, secretary, 1758½ Juneway terrace—Before our special guests arrived I thought I'd hide the out-dated hall tree in a closet. When we showed our guests the house, one commented on the closet space. She opened the door and there, more conspicuous than ever, was the hall tree.

Mrs. Carl E. Schmidt, chief clerk, 8018 Kilpatrick avenue, Skokie—About a month after we were married we were showing our wedding gifts. I told our guests I liked the sterling salt and pepper shaker, but wished I had something to match it. After they had left I remembered that they had given me the set.

Claire Fleming, department supervisor, 5410 Kenmore avenue—Everything about the dinner that I had prepared seemed just perfect. I was feeling quite proud of myself when the good homemade mushroom soup was served. As I buttered a cracker, it snapped. I snatched at it and upset the whole bowl of soup.

Mrs. Evan J. Alex, chief clerk, personnel department, 4947 Greenleaf avenue, Skokie—The first guest to call at our home after our wedding was the minister. He put his derby hat on the window seat. My husband sat right on it. Our guest went home bareheaded and we didn't think we had made a very nice impression.

Patricia Yount, underwriter, 4235 North Hermitage avenue—In our conversation at the dinner table we started to talk about rationing and points. Without thinking, I said I didn't know what we'd be eating for the rest of the week, because I had used up all of our points. I think it made none of the guests more comfortable.

GLENCOE MAN ACCUSES PAIR OF EXTORTION

Lt. John Warren, in charge of the confidence detail of the detective bureau, began search last night for two men whom Robert L. Burel, 60 years old, 544 Park avenue, Glencoe, accused of attempted extortion. Burel said the men represented themselves as policemen and "arrested" him in the washroom of a loop restaurant Tuesday for alleged indecent exposure in the presence of a youth.

After Burel, an employe of the ordnance department of the 6th service command, refused to bribe the men into changing the charge to disorderly conduct, he said he was accosted by them again the next day in the Morrison hotel. This time he gave them a check on an Atlanta [Ga.] bank for $500. Shortly afterward he directed the bank to stop payment and made a complaint to the First district police.

According to Burel, one of the confidence men was between 45 and 50 years old, with a light complexion and wearing a gray suit. The other, he said, was between 30 and 35 years old, had a medium complexion and always smoked a cigar.

HUNDREDS VIEW CEREUS ENDING YEAR LONG NAP

Several hundred Chicagoans crowded into the yard at 7544 Eggleston avenue Thursday evening to witness the blooming of a cereus plant, which bursts into flower only one night a year. The 25 year old plant, owned by Harry Bayley, is 4 feet high and sometimes produces as many as seven blossoms in its annual one night of beauty. The crowds viewing the event were attracted by the strong, heavy aroma that filled the neighborhood for a radius of several blocks as the bud began to open after dusk. By midnight the flower was in full bloom, after which it slowly closed again for another year of sleep.

Parolee Is Held to Jury in Safety Council Theft

Carlyle Brown, 25 years old, a paroled convict, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of stealing $2,052 worth of movie projectors from the National Safety council last July 3. He waived examination before Judge Victor A. Kula in Felony court, who fixed bond at $10,000. Brown was brought back from San Francisco Thursday. He formerly was a clerk for the safety council.

GLOBAL GROUP ORGANIZES FOR CAMPAIGN IN U.S.

Aims to Get America Into 'Security' Setup.

New York, July 30 [Special].—The initial step in expanding the United Nations association "into a body of national scope working for the entry of the United States into a permanent world organization for collective security" was taken today when permanent officers were named at a meeting here.

The group, which was chartered a year ago at Washington, D. C., elected Melvin D. Hildreth, Washington attorney, president; James T. Shotwell, the historian, chairman of the board of directors, and Hugh Moore, president of the Dixie Cup company, an executive committee chairman.

Chicagoan Included.

Other officers include: Victor Elting of New York, vice president; Denison Bingham Hull of Chicago, treasurer of the so-called Republican post-war policy association, secretary, and George W. Morgan of St. Paul, Chester H. Rowell of the San Francisco Chronicle, William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kas., Gazette, and W. W. Waymack, editor of the Des Moines, Ia., Register and Tribune, honorary vice presidents. Clark M. Eichelberger was named executive chairman.

Moore, in discussing the association's program, stated that in addition to the congressional speaking tour it is now sponsoring in support of the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution for post-war collaboration, the association's efforts would be devoted to organizing branches about the country, issuing publications and establishing a speakers bureau.

He declared the association's chief work would be "to coördinate on a national basis the work of local united nations committees as well as other organizations in the field to prevent duplication of effort." This work, he said, will be financed on a membership and contribution basis.

Writing the Peace Now.

Both Moore and Eichelberger emphasized the association's work would be conducted on a nonpartisan plane because of the "urgency of writing the peace while the war still is being waged."

The organization's program states that "a positive post-war program set up now will help to sustain the fighting spirit of liberty-loving peoples until victory is won.

"We support actual organization of the united nations as quickly as possible, positive indication by the United States congress and the executive that the United States will join a world organization which provides for [1] police power to prevent or suppress aggression [2], peaceful settlement of disputes, and [3] coöperation among nations in improving the standard of living of all peoples. . . . Establishment of Democratic regimes in those areas where the united nations aids in reconstruction."

Other officers of the group, named by eight or 10 charter members who attended today's organization meeting, are: Henry A. Atkinson, New York; William Emerson, Boston; Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, New York; Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, New York; George Fielding Eliot, New York; Frederick C. McKee, Pittsburgh; Malcolm W. Davis, New York; Mrs. Dana Converse Backus, New York; Dr. Frank C. Boudreau, Monroe E. Deutsch, Miss Emily Hickman, John I. Knudsen, Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron, Philip C. Nash, and Bishop G. Ashton Oldham.

FORT SHERIDAN'S STAFF TO MARCH FOR GEN. AURAND

Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, chief of the 6th service command, today will review troops of the army service forces stationed at Fort Sheridan for the first time since he took over the command last Sept. 8. Because of war time restrictions, the public will not be admitted, but civilian employes will be guests of the commanding officer.

Passing in review before Gen. Aurand at 3:45 p. m. will be members of the staff of Col. John T. Rhett, post commander; army nurses, service companies, medical companies, ordnance automotive companies, a company of WACs, and several hundred men who are at Fort Sheridan attending the school for cooks and bakers.

After the review Gen. Aurand will talk to the service forces and post's civilian personnel about the importance of their jobs in the war. The army service forces are the men who do the housekeeping jobs in camps, posts, and stations, and keep supplies rolling to the air and ground forces in the combat areas.

Besides the service forces, Fort Sheridan also houses an anti-aircraft training school which is attended by several thousand men.

COASTAL TOWNS IN ENGLAND FEAR A NEW INVASION

But It's in Shape of a Holiday Influx.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 30. — Residents and local authorities at coastal towns in north and south England were alarmed today at the prospect of an invasion this week-end by armies of holiday makers whom they will be unable to accommodate or feed. With the August bank holiday — last public holiday of the summer — falling on Monday and many businesses and factories closing down for the entire week-end, the rush to the coast threatens to set a war time record.

At Brighton, 50 miles from London, residents were said to fear a minor famine. The town already was crowded to the limit and more visitors were coming in on every train. Hotel accommodations were virtually unobtainable. Hundreds of families, some as far north as Glasgow, Newcastle, and Leeds, were scouring the streets for rooms. Long queues formed outside restaurants and many people went foodless after a hungry wait.

Housewives Complain.

At Southend, an equally popular resort for Londoners, housewives were reported complaining at having to waste hours daily in queues, competing with holiday makers to purchase necessities.

From Clacton on the Sea, 60 miles north of London, come reports that the town was fuller than at any time since early in 1940. The local food office issued thousands of emergency ration cards to visitors but store owners declared they do not have sufficient stocks to go around.

Similar stories of overcrowding and fears of food shortage have come from rural districts within a 25 mile radius of London.

Police Called Out.

Police had to be called out at Paddington depot to control crowds departing to the west yesterday. Long queues formed for trains and many left, packed end to end, with more than a thousand passengers.

Authorities at Waterloo depot, which serves the south as well as the west part of the country, were expecting a repetition of the scenes of the last week-end, when the sale of tickets to many resorts had to be completely suspended.

Meanwhile, a railway executive committee reiterated a warning to the public to "stay put," as no extra trains were to be run.

Gets $400 a Month

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30 [Special].—Mrs. Paula Thorpe, wife of Carlyle Thorpe, race horse owner and business man, was granted temporary alimony of $400 a month and $5,000 attorneys' fees in Superior court today in her suit for separate maintenance. Her appearance followed her recovery from a collapse in the courtroom corridor.

Mrs. Thorpe, who described her husband as a "millionaire," said he had an income of $50,000 a year, and listed as part of his assets the Stanway stables housing 28 race horses and brood mares, several ranches and $50,000 in cash. She had asked $1,000 monthly and $15,000 attorney's fees.

At the close of the hearing, counsel for Thorpe filed a cross complaint for divorce charging Mrs. Thorpe with misconduct and naming three John Does as co-respondents. In her original bill of complaint, Mrs. Thorpe had charged on numerous occasions Thorpe brought girls into their home to entertain friends and often they remained overnight.

Courtney. Henrick is a graduate of De Paul college of law. He is married and lives with his wife and three children at 5749 North Maplewood avenue.

BIG NAVY PLANE RIDES WAVES 42 HOURS; FLIES ON Transport Is Repaired at Sea After Motor Fire.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—Forced down at sea, a naval transport plane rode 20 foot waves for 42 hours until repairs were made, then flew on to Honolulu under its own power.

The navy, releasing the story today, said the plane was operated for the transport service by Pan-American Airways, thus disclosing for the first time that Pan-American is engaged in transport flights in the Pacific.

Carrying a crew of 10, and 8 passengers, the plane was forced down several hundred miles from Pearl Harbor. All except two of those aboard became violently seasick and the first officer had to make the repairs because the engineering officers were too ill to take over.

Crew Puts Out Flames.

Piloted by Capt. John H. Hamilton of San Francisco, Cal., the plane developed motor trouble while en route from an unnamed Pacific island to Honolulu. The port motor began blazing, but the flames were stopped before the ship alighted on the swells.

Hamilton radioed for a new motor to replace the one which had forced the landing and for a bag of cement to plug a bad leak in the hull.

The repair equipment was flown to the disabled plane by another naval air transport service ship piloted by Gordon F. Maxwell of Oakland, Cal., assistant chief pilot.

Other Planes Stand By.

Meantime, other planes circled over the disabled ship, to provide aid if necessary.

But it wasn't needed. First Officer William Saulsberry, under direction of First Engineer David E. Weeks, made the necessary repairs.

When a destroyer came up over the horizon to offer assistance Lt. Comdr. Thomas C. Peifer of Spartanburg, S. C., en route to Honolulu, remarked: "Wouldn't it be a hot one if it turned out to be my new destroyer?" It was.

Archbishop Spellman Visits French Guinea

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—The Brazzaville radio said today Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York had left Brazzaville and is visiting French Guinea on the west coast of Africa. It said he would return to the United States from there. This was the first report concerning his whereabouts since the announcement Tuesday from Pretoria, Union of South Africa, that he had left there.

U.S. BLIMP SHOT DOWN BY U-BOAT; ONE SAILOR LOST

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—A navy blimp was lost in the Atlantic recently after being damaged in a fight with a surfaced submarine, the navy reported today. It was the first airship ever reported so destroyed.

One man of the crew, which ordinarily numbers seven enlisted men and four officer pilots, was lost.

The navy did not say what eventually happened to the submarine.

"The United States nonrigid airship K-74 was lost at sea recently as the result of a gunfire attack by a surfaced enemy submarine," the navy report said.

"The K-74 was fired on while attacking the submarine, and, as a result of a hit, was forced to make a landing on the sea."

The airships began to go into action in the early months of last year when U-boat forays off the Atlantic coast were reaching their peak.

NANCY ASTOR FINED; TRIED TO BUY COAT IN U.S.

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—Nancy Astor, American born wife of a British peer and a familiar figure in the house of commons but not in police court, paid $24 in fine and costs in her first appearance in Bow street today, on a charge of violating rationing regulations.

The Virginia born member of parliament pleaded guilty, but her attorney read a statement in which she said she was ignorant of any violation when she wrote a letter to Lunsford P. Yandell, an American Red Cross employe, asking him to have his wife look into the possibility of buying a fur jacket and other garments for her in the United States.

Magistrate Harold McKenna, agreeing she had acted in ignorance, said he fined her with regret.

SHAFER CHARGES FIELD IS EVADING MILLIONS IN TAX

Plans Action in Congress to Force Payment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Battle Creek, Mich., July 30—Rep. Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] tonight announced he will call upon congress to force renegotiation of contracts under which Marshall Field III. of New York and London, dilettante experimental publisher, is avoiding payment of millions of dollars of taxes.

When congress reconvenes in September and begins consideration of extension of the act which permits renegotiation of contracts, Shafer disclosed he plans to address the house and demand that Field be forced to pay what is rightfully due the treasury.

Shafer, a member of the powerful military affairs committee, said he plans to give the house evidence that Field has been aided in his tax dodging efforts by ranking New Dealers as payment for his support of New Deal policies.

Millions Involved.

"I am going to follow thru on the Field schemes to escape just taxes which I reported to the house last April," Shafer said. "I will insist that army contracts by which he is escaping millions of dollars in taxes be renegotiated and the Field pockets be emptied of millions of dollars which should be in the United States treasury.

"I am going to ask the house how long Field can get away with his tax dodging. I do not care what Field does with his own money in experimental publishing but he must not finance these experiments with the people's money."

Shafer explained that Field is taking advantage of loopholes in the present tax laws in order to avoid payment of taxes and make up for losses of 6 to 7 million dollars a year he is incurring in his publishing ventures—a Chicago newspaper, which does not own its own plant or building, and PM, a New York radical publication.

Taxed as One Unit.

Field has taken advantage of the fact that two or more businesses, owned by one person and operated as individual enterprises or partnerships, are taxed as one unit, Shafer said.

"Field is purchasing for cash, which he inherited from the mercantile millions massed in Chicago by his grandfather, corporations now enjoying swollen war profits," Shafer explained. "Owners of these businesses are willing to sell because they have a low tax base and would have to turn over most of the profits to the treasury.

"Field changes the corporations he buys into individual ownerships or partnerships and offsets their large profits against the heavy losses he is incurring in support of the New Deal. He thus diverts millions which should go to the treasury and help support the war for which he beat editorial drums in his papers."

Last April Shafer told the house that Field has purchased the Delta Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, Wis., and the V & O Press company of Hudson, N. Y., both of which had war contracts. Shafer said today that Field had tried to purchase a number of other manufacturing companies which held large government contracts and may have been successful in adding to his corporations.

"Field is now collecting corporations as he once collected horses to escape taxes," Shafer said. "In former days he wrote off the losses of his racing stables where he now writes off his publishing losses.

Seeks Renegotiation.

"I have been informed that prominent New Dealers are helping him buy corporations which will help him get out of taxes. I hope to be able to present evidence to congress that at least one prominent midwestern New Dealer, who has profited handsomely thru his connections with the New Deal, has advised Field in his tax dodging ventures."

Shafer said he will press for renegotiation of the contracts held by the corporations Field has purchased. Renegotiation of the contracts, he said, would force Field to return swollen profits to the treasury and boost his tax payments.

He said congress should also take steps to plug the loophole by which Field and a few other wealthy men have been able to escape taxes. Tax laws could be amended, he said, so as to prevent the offsetting of profits of one venture against losses in another.

Shafer said he favored renegotiation of contracts rather than employment of taxes as a means of curbing excessive war profits. From April 28, 1942, to May 1, 1943, renegotiation of contracts brought the return of 2 billion 800 million dollars of excessive profits, he said.

OPA GETS COURT ORDER AGAINST 'A' CARD DRIVER

New York, July 30 [Special].—The district office of price administration today obtained in Federal court a temporary order restraining Norman C. Norman from using his A gasoline rations. The OPA appealed to the court after Norman had flouted the OPA and ignored a summons to answer charges that he had violated the pleasure driving ban.

The order was signed by Federal Judge William Bondy and arguments on a motion by the OPA for a temporary injunction will be heard Tuesday by Federal Judge Simon F. Rifkind. According to the OPA, the order will prevent Norman from using his car between now and the time he appears in court Tuesday.

Norman was cited for violation of the pleasure driving ban on July 16. He ignored a summons by his local board which thereupon revoked his gasoline ration book until Dec. 31, but he refused to surrender it.

CHARGE MARINE TAKES FEES FOR 'SWEARING IN' 5

'Officer's' Pay $370, It Is Alleged.

There was nothing Charles A. A. Corey, 42 year old justice of peace at Woodstock, McHenry county, Ill., wouldn't do for the marine corps. He was in trouble yesterday for doing too much.

Charles A. A. Corey.

A marine in the last war, he came home injured. When war neared again he got his two sons into the corps, altho one was only 16 years old. Both are believed to be in the Southwest Pacific.

All last summer he wrote letters to the corps asking that he be permitted to rejoin. At last, in September, by special dispensation of President Roosevelt, he was reinducted as a sergeant. He went to San Diego for training, then was sent to Milwaukee as a recruiter.

Charge He Poses as Captain.

The trouble came when news got around at Woodstock that Corey was a sergeant. Yesterday a federal grand jury indicted him for operating a private marine corps intelligence office at Woodstock all last summer. The jury had two complaints: Corey posed as a captain; and he "swore into" the marine corps five townspeople as marine corps intelligence officers, taking from the five $370.

Assistant United States Atty. Francis J. McGreal said actually "Capt." Corey had "commissioned" 12 townspeople who paid him a total of $800.

McGreal said that Corey told his 12 "officers" that their duty was to guard against sabotage in the Woodstock area. They were to tell no one of their jobs. Commissions and pay, he told them, according to McGreal, were delayed in Washington, but "that's the way things are in the capital." He said he was acting directly under Lt. Col. Chester L. Fordney, marine corps head

"Officers" Become Suspicious.

When Corey was reinducted as a sergeant, the 12 "officers" became suspicious. One, John W. McConnell, lumberman, came to Chicago and asked Col. Fodney about Corey. The colonel investigated and had Corey arrested at Milwaukee. He was discharged in January and the case turned over to the federal bureau of investigation.

The indictment charged Corey received $90 from McConnell, $100 from Leo Randolph, health department inspector; $120 from Fred Fall, variety shop owner; $25 from Donald A. Schmidt, a war plant worker, and $35 from Edward T. Locke, a grocer.

Another man, Robert W. Linville, 26, of Dayton, O., also was indicted by the jury for impersonating an officer. His indictment charged he, a corporal and absent without leave, posed as the air forces' youngest major and during a brief visit in Chicago wooed a Wave at Great Lakes, an air line hostess and a loop secretary, obtaining $1,215 from the secretary. His arrest came after he walked into a military police office and demanded and obtained an escort on a tour of taverns.

$12,806,424 GOAL FOR COMMUNITY AND WAR DRIVE

The goal of the first united Community and War Fund campaign of metropolitan Chicago has been set at $12,806,424, it was announced last night by Aubrey H. Mellinger, president of the fund, after a meeting of the board of directors.

Mellinger explained the united campaign has been formed at the request of business leaders and citizens who have felt the pressure of too many public appeals for money. T. H. Beacom Jr., chairman of the committee on admissions and finance, estimated that a united campaign will use for operating expenses 2.7 per cent of the money raised. Individual campaigns in the past have needed approximately 10 per cent.

The budget for the united drive sets up $3,943,000 for the Community Fund, $4,000,000 for the United Service organizations, $3,763,424 for national relief agencies, $250,000 for affiliated suburban charities, $350,000 for administrative and campaign expenses, and $500,000 for emergencies.

River taxi service on the Chicago river was instituted at 11 a. m. yesterday, with two boats shuttling between the Michigan avenue bridge and the North Western station. The operators said last night they were pleased with patronage and interest.

Coöperating in the venture are Clyde Erzinger, 10 West Elm street, who is operating a 30 passenger cruiser, and Arthur Agra, 1356 Sunnyside avenue, and Albert Borgstrom, 1441 Olive avenue, who are operating a 28 passenger vessel.

Under present plans the service will be provided from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. each day except Sunday, when the boats will be operated from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. During rush hours a boat will leave each dock every 15 minutes. Between rush periods boats operate every half hour. Rush periods are from 8 to 9:30 a. m. and from 4 to 6 p. m.

U. S. INDICTS 13 FOR VIOLATING BANKRUPTCY ACT

Indictments charging three court-appointed bankruptcy trustees and 10 others with violations of the national bankruptcy act were returned yesterday by the federal grand jury in Chicago. The indictments climax a two year investigation of the dispersal of several million dollars thru liquidation of bankrupt property in federal court.

Harold Block.

Julius Zittenfield.

Two former trustees are charged with filing false reports in bankruptcy cases under their jurisdiction, which resulted in the embezzlement of a total of $3,425.23. The third trustee is charged with the direct embezzlement of more than $2,000 from a bankrupt estate.

The trustees accused are Harold Block, 32 years old, 7652 Calumet avenue; Arthur C. Wick, 40, of 3629 Monticello avenue, and Henry Henry Walter Mitchell, formerly of Chicago but now living in Waukegan.

Among others named are: Julius Zittenfield, 50, of 65 West Madison street; Nathan Denenberg, 32, New York, and Seymour Mazursky, 30, of 4248 14th street, former partners; Mary T. Cernocky, 52, of 1426 Milwaukee avenue; Sam Savage, 47, Willow Springs, and Peter A. Lepo, 33, of 4347 South Maplewood avenue, who are also named in another indictment charging perjury; John J. Zimmerman, 34, no address; William Krause, 49, of 6436 North Whipple street, and Max Levin, 47, of 2649 Division street, partners who were named in one indictment.

Michael Sherling, 38, of 4947 Quincy street, an auctioneer's employe, also was indicted on a charge of concealment.

Federal Judge William H. Holly set the bond in each case at $5,000. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, or $10,000 fine, or both.

Fire Truck Sirens to Start Wailing Again Tomorrow

Sirens on Chicago fire trucks will be back in use tomorrow, Fire Commissioner Corrigan said yesterday. Their use was halted because the department feared their sounds would be confused with air raid warnings. Now the city has its large air raid sirens, which produce a signal which won't be confused with the fire department sirens.

EX-BANKER HELD WITH 3 IN SWAP OF DEFENDANTS

Cited for Contempt; Tells of Bribe Attempt.

Because two young boys "kidded" a pair of girls, 18 and 19 years old, on the lake shore at 53d street last Sunday, Edgar Morgan, 70, of the Hyde Park hotel, retired banker and rancher of Blue Rapids, Kas., was arrested, accused of indecent exposure, and now faces jail for contempt of court.

According to testimony in Judge Leon Edelman's court yesterday, a 25 year old Negro, now a fugitive, was induced without Morgan's knowledge to appear in court in Morgan's stead when a disorderly conduct charge was called against him Monday. This Negro, Park Policeman William F. Katelhut, and J. H. Coleman, Negro professional bondsman, 3746 South Park way, face contempt charges with Morgan.

Thought Banker Nude.

Judge Edelman gave all the defendants until Aug. 12 to show cause why they should not be punished and jailed. He ordered all to appear in room 915 City Hall on that date, after he had heard the developments leading up to Morgan's arrest, as follows:

Bunnie Lydon, 19, 3010 West 55th street, a student at De Paul university, and Jule Kliver, 18, 5752 South Mozart street, saw Morgan lying on a rock in the sun when they arrived at the lake front to swim, they later told Park Policeman William Brown.

The girls said they thought Morgan was entirely without clothing but accused him only of lying quietly in the sun and thought nothing more about it, they said, until two 13 or 14 year old boys came along and "started kidding" them about it. Then they told Policeman Brown.

Original Booking Changed.

Brown turned Morgan over to Katelhut, who was in a squad car. The latter said the girls refused to sign a complaint against Morgan, so he took him to the Hyde Park police station and booked him first on a drunk and disorderly charge and then changed this to disorderly conduct.

Morgan denied to Rudolph Dvorak, assistant operating director of the Chicago Crime commission [appointed by Judge Edelman to get the facts], that he took off his trousers. He said he removed his shirt but only rolled his slacks up to the knees; he had been ill, he said, needed sunshine, and did this to get as much as possible.

Morgan said he had done nothing wrong but was fearful at the girls' charges and offered the policemen $5 each to let him go.

"Told Not to Appear."

This was refused, however, he said; he was taken to the station and there Coleman, the professional bondsman appeared. He continued:

"I gave Coleman $20 at the station. He said he would arrange a $50 bond for me. He came to the hotel with me; I cashed a check for $50 more and gave him an additional $40—$60 in all. Then both he and a desk sergeant in the station told me I need not appear in court on any charge."

Katelhut had an excellent record on the park police. He is 44 years old, married, and has been on the force since June 24, 1924.

Morgan, who produced records he has never been arrested and does not drink, has been living in the Hyde Park hotel with his wife and daughter, Gwendolyn.

FINE 2 FORMER WPB OFFICIALS ON FRAUD COUNT

Washington, July 30 (AP).—Heavy fines were levied today against two former war production board officials who conspired to defraud the government by engineering a private machine tool transaction while ostensibly engaged in WPB work.

Robert B. Rhodes, who was chief of the used tool section of the WPB, and Ralph L. Glaser, former assistant chief, were fined $10,000 each after pleading guilty. Each also was fined $5,000 for falsely claiming government expenses while they traveled on the deal. They received suspended sentences in addition.

Three defendants pleaded nolo contendere to the conspiracy charge. Louis E. Emerman, Chicago machine tool executive, was fined $10,000; Frank L. O'Brien Jr. and Clarence J. O'Brien, $7,500 each.

Judge Bolitha J. Laws said Rhodes and Glaser each profited $15,000 by obtaining an option to buy tools from Emerman for $70,000, and selling to the O'Briens for $100,000. This was done "with knowledge of all of the defendants," he said.

AURORA COURT HOLDS TRIO FOR STEALING AUTOS

Joy rides in stolen automobiles carried Paul Crandall and Leah Jane Jones, each 17 years old, before Justice of the Peace Victor W. Johnson in Aurora yesterday. They were ordered held to the grand jury, along with Eugene Hankes, 28, accused of accompanying them on one car stealing expedition. Bonds were set at $2,000 each.

Crandall, who lives on Mitchell road, Aurora, admitted in court that he stole automobiles in Aurora on July 19 and 24. He came to Chicago last Saturday and picked up the Jones girl in a movie theater. Crandall said they stole a car in Chicago, drove to Aurora, and on Tuesday, with Hankes accompanying them, stole another automobile.

Hankes, who lives at 842 Gillette avenue, Aurora, denied the charge. The Jones girl gave her address as 106 North Clark street, Chicago.

Husbands Jailed

KATHRYN M'CLARY.

Two husbands behind in payments to their divorced wives were jailed by Circuit Judge Denis J. Normoyle yesterday.

Clifford M. Westfall, 31 years old, a war work welder, was committed for contempt of court for nonpayment of the $745 he promised his ex-wife, Freda, 29, on May 19, 1942, when she divorced him on ground of misconduct. Her attorney, Harry X. Cole, told the court Mrs. Westfall, also a war worker, came back on vacation from her war job in Los Angeles to prosecute her former husband. Westfall's attorney, Thomas J. Sullivan, said his client has remarried, has one child and another on the way, and needs his $280 a month for the new family.

Harold T. McClary, 36, manager of a string of liquor concessions, was jailed for lack of a $1,500 bond to prevent him from leaving the court's jurisdiction. His former wife, Kathryn, 29, of 5538 North Paulina street, testified under questioning by her attorney, Sol R. Friedman, that when she asked him to pay on his $350 arrearage recently he told her he'd leave town unless she had her $100 a month alimony cut to $20 a month.

CENSUS SHOWS MILITARY DRAIN ON MIDDLE WEST

Washington, D. C., July 30 [Special].—How the growth of the military services is draining away the man power of the agricultural states in the middle west faster than that of the industrial states was disclosed by civilian population estimates made public today by the census bureau.

Of the five states in the Chicagoland area, Iowa showed the greatest numerical and percentage decline in civilian population between April 1, 1940, and last March 1. It has lost 242,824, or 9½ per cent. Illinois was second numerically with 238,704, but Wisconsin was second in percentage of population with 5 per cent.

Following are the new and the old figures:

State.	April 1, 1940.	March 1, 1943.	Decrease.
Illinois	7,882,054	7,643,350	238,704
Wisconsin	3,137,101	2,967,973	169,131
Iowa	2,537,008	2,294,184	242,824
Indiana	3,424,319	3,406,237	18,082
Michigan	5,250,636	5,269,416	*18,780

*Increase.

Michigan's estimated increase of 18,780, or ½ of 1 per cent, was credited to the influx of war workers to the Detroit area.

And what is food? . . . Food is the production of this great planet which we know as the earth. It is composed of vegetables, fruits, meats, poultry, game, and fish. Some grow, some ripen, some blossom, some run, some fly, and others swim; but all are God's creation for food. Only the flowers are there to beautify the whole ensemble.... Now it is the duty and the work of the human being to assemble, choose, mix, and prepare, and with the aromas, which more or less are of the flower family, all are united in the pot to complete the masterpiece and delicacy in this preparation which we call food. . . . Wines, cream and butter are the ingredients to complete and facilitate the success of a perfect cuisine. . . . And that, mes amis, is how I have spent my lifetime as a Restaurateur: perfecting the art of cooking so that diners all over the world may enjoy the best of God's creation—good food.

ACT TO EXHUME BODY OF HEIRESS IN DEATH PROBE

Inquiry by Grand Jury to Follow Autopsy.

New York, July 30 [Special].—The district attorney's office today moved to exhume the body of Mrs. Janet Snowden Gill, 30 years old, an oil heiress, who was found dead June 1 after a plunge from a 16th floor suite in the Savoy Plaza hotel.

It was learned authorities were at Ferncliff cemetery in Westchester county supervising the exhumation under an order obtained from a Supreme court justice. Officials said an autopsy would be performed.

Grand Jury Probe Planned.

An official of the staff of District Atty. Frank S. Hogan admitted Hogan was acting on information that the death of the society woman was not suicide, as it originally had been listed by police.

Asked whether the exhuming of the body was a necessary prelude to a grand jury investigation, he said, "It is for no other purpose."

Her husband, Capt. William Sherman Gill, a former theatrical booking agent now attached to army intelligence, was in the hotel suite when the nude body of Mrs. Gill crashed onto a 5th avenue extension.

Wife Depressed, Says Husband.

The couple had been estranged and Gill said then that he and his wife, the daughter of the late oil millionaire, James E. Snowden, had decided on a reconciliation. The couple have three children.

Capt. Gill told the police his wife had been depressed and nervous and had consulted physicians regarding her condition, but he declared she had been happy and doubted she would have killed herself.

In 1938 Mrs. Gill married Don Francesco Caravita, prince de Sirigno, an Italian. The union lasted only five days. When the couple parted she said she had married the prince out of spite over having loved and lost another man.

She sought an annulment of the marriage on the ground she had misrepresented her age and the prince had misrepresented his purse. The application was denied by Supreme Court Justice George M. Taylor Jr., who found it "very sketchy, incredible, and insufficient."

Then she went to Hollywood, seeking a film career, and engaged Gill as her business agent. She obtained a Mexican divorce from the prince in 1934 and married Gill a few days later.

FEAR MORE BLASTS IN GRAIN ELEVATOR FIRE IN SECOND DAY

New explosions threatened momentarily last night to increase the $600,000 damage caused by the fire that followed a blast in the midwest elevator of the Norris Grain company at 5556 Shields avenue early yesterday. Three men were injured.

Firemen twice brought the fire under control. A second blast rocked the neighborhood soon after the fire fighters brought it within bounds, the resulting flames necessitating several calls for additional equipment.

Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney said it may be necessary to keep his forces at the scene a week before the fire is finally extinguished. He was told by fire adjusters that in similar grain elevator fires elsewhere water poured in the storage bins caused the grain to swell and generate intense heat, touching off successive blasts as the water penetrated deeper.

3 ADMIT KILLING DETROIT NEGRO DURING RIOTING

Detroit, Mich., July 30 (AP).—Prosecutor William E. Dowling said today that three of four young white prisoners held by police have told him "a story of cold blooded murder" of a Negro during the race riots here June 21.

Confessions of Aldo Trani, 16, Armendo Mastantuono, 20, and Anthony Saraceno, Dowling said, accounted for the slaying of Moses Kiska, 58 year old Negro who was shot as he waited for a street car on June 21.

Dowling said this was the way he got the story from Trani and Mastantuono:

"Trani and Mastantuono were out driving and stopped at one of their favorite hangouts, a pool room.

"They saw the two other youths, whom they said they knew as 'Bob' and 'Blackie.' The four of them got in the car and decided to 'go and get us some Niggers.'

"Mastantuano had a rifle. At Mack and Chene streets they saw Kiska waiting in the street car zone. Trani said to his companion, 'give me the gun.' He leaned out of the car and fired. They saw Kiska topple over. They drove away, and then separated."

Formal charges against the three were withheld as Dowling continued questioning the fourth prisoner.

Hundreds File Complaints on '42 Property Tax Bills

Something like a last minute rush has developed at the offices of the county board of tax appeals, with hundreds of taxpayers daily filing complaints on their 1942 tax bills. Monday will be the last day for making complaints. It has been estimated that more than 15,000 cases will be heard by the board members, James J. McDermott and John Toman. Most of the taxpayers are owners of small properties who say that their bills are "just too high."

HOW MUCH LONGER FOR HITLER?

Revolts and upsets often come explosively and do their work in a few hours. Mussolini apparently was all right Monday, July 19, when he met Hitler at Verona. By Sunday he had toppled. Adolf was probably in one of his best furies. This conversation and others may come out in the state trials. None of these Nazi and Fascist gentlemen should be disposed of without first getting his full story.

How secure is Herr Hitler himself? Both he and Mussolini fixed it so they derived their authority from themselves. Laws were emanations of their will. That's a disadvantage when things begin to go wrong. Then a man looks for a background and hasn't any. Hitler, as the autumn of 1943 approaches, could find about him several things to remind him of the summer of 1918.

We do not know much about the submarine campaign, but have been told that new methods of defense have greatly reduced sinkings of cargo vessels and greatly increased the sinkings of U-boats. In the other war when the ruthless submarine campaign failed, the German chancellor and the civilian government knew that the war was lost and wanted to make peace. Hindenburg and Ludendorff wouldn't have it, and they prevailed with the kaiser. The chancellor was dismissed. The war went on to the defeat of the German army. If the submarine war is not having its expected success that's something for Hitler's memory to dwell on.

The third summer on the Russian front is not yielding the needed Nazi victories. It begins to look not unlike the western front in 1918, when the German army's attack was tremendous and sacrificial, but not successful, and when ground had to be yielded to the allies. Then Hindenburg and Ludendorff knew the war was lost and demanded that the Berlin government get them an armistice. When the high command lost its nerve it lost it completely. Hitler sees something like this, and he knows that his satellite states are weakening just as Germany's allies did in 1918.

We do not know how badly the Nazi war production has been damaged by the bombing of plants and the harassment of workers. Certainly Germany's military position is weakened by the continuous pounding of factories, towns, and communications. Hitler's necessary legend is one of success. Success is his title to dictatorship. He has no other legitimacy. If his charmed existence and his imperative will fail, he's just a fellow who ruined a people. There's always a man waiting to tell such a fellow that he is thru. According to reports, Adolf has taken this into consideration. He has organized an army for his own protection. His own security force of specially trained young Nazi toughs is said to number 750,000, men who would kill Germans as readily as they would kill Poles.

Hitler probably remembers that Hindenburg told the kaiser the army could not protect him. The dazed All Highest, on hearing that from the chief of an officer corps whose loyalty to the royal house was instinctive, decided to go to Holland and not to Berlin where, in fact, the social democrats were willing to support the monarchy with the British system as a model.

When the crack-up comes it is like a deluge. Everything goes out with the busted dams.

A TEST OF GOOD NEIGHBORS.

The good neighbor policy is facing a test these days. There had been a pretty widespread assumption that the responsibilities and costs which the policy imposed were to be largely ours and that the benefits were to fall chiefly to the nations to the south. So far that's about the way it has worked out, but the time is nearing when there must be, if not a reversal of the roles, then, at least, a more equal distribution of the burdens.

Many of the sister republics have followed us into the war and the rest, with the single notable exception of Argentina, are listed as benevolently neutral. We enjoyed much the same support in the last war before there was a good neighbor policy, but perhaps without it this time we would not have fared so well. At any rate, all that is beside the point; the question now is whether the sister republics are prepared to assume further responsibilities and make further sacrifices in the interest of good neighborliness.

Since the war began both England and America have been buying heavily in Latin America, but because of the lack of shipping and the curtailment of manufactures for export here the trade has been markedly one sided. We have increased our purchases and reduced our sales. In consequence almost all the Latin countries have accumulated gold and foreign exchange and have large balances to their credit here and in London.

A table published in the current bulletin of the National City Bank of New York shows that eleven of the principal countries from Mexico south had gold and foreign exchange reserves of $775,000,000 in December, 1940. Two years later, last December, the sum had nearly doubled, to $1,325,000,000, and no doubt by this time has more than doubled, for the rate of increase has been rapid. Brazil's reserves, for example, were $68,000,000 in December, 1940; they rose to $239,000,000 in two years, and a month later, in January of this year, to $248,000,000.

One question which arises is whether these countries will voluntarily resume the service of their defaulted bonds sold in this country, now that many if not all of the debtor nations are in a position to pay. The good neighbor policy bound us, in effect, not to use force to collect such obligations. We said we would count upon the good faith of our neighbors to pay if they could. Thus far the hope has not been too amply fulfilled.

Mr. H. C. Wallich, writing on "The Future of Latin American Dollar Bonds" in the June number of the American Economic Review, finds that here and there an issue has been refunded, but for the most part the Latin American governments, insofar as they are doing anything at all about their borrowings from us, are content to pay no interest and buy their bonds back at a heavy discount. Mr. Wallich finds a number of reasons to justify this policy, including the point that after the war the South Americans are going to need dollar exchange to buy from us the goods they have been unable to get for a long time on account of the war; but the fact remains that their behavior is not precisely what might be expected of really good neighbors.

Another test of neighborliness is going to come immediately after the war. There will be starving peoples abroad to be fed and a world economy to be revived. Latin America will be in a position to contribute to the solution of both problems. We may hope that our neighbors will not expect the United States to carry the entire burden.

THE WASTERS GET A REPRIEVE.

Gov. Green let a bad bill become law when he sent to the secretary of state, without his signature, the measure that allows the Cook county government to sell bonds to pay its ordinary operating debts. The governor acted with the greatest reluctance, saying that he withheld his veto only to protect the patients and inmates in county institutions from suffering that would have resulted from the otherwise certain financial collapse of the county.

The law violates all of the rules of sound fiscal policy and it is unlikely to bring more than temporary relief, either to the taxpayers or to the unfortunates in county institutions, from the profligacy of the Cook county board. That group of stooges for the Democratic machine in Chicago permitted the county offices to be made the playground for the machine's precinct captains and doorbell pushers. They are still playing and it is a certainty that nothing will be done in the direction of economy in next year's budget, with the machine entering a national political campaign.

The county government was in desperate financial condition and, obviously, needed legislative assistance in straightening out its affairs. The error was that the legislature gave it the assistance without in any way requiring reform of the practices that caused the trouble. In this matter the Republican legislature let itself be outmaneuvered by the Chicago Democrats and dumped the mess in Gov. Green's lap in such a state that he could give no constructive relief to taxpayers except at the risk which he was unwilling to take, of injury to the institutional inmates.

The county, fundamentally, is in little better financial shape than it was when the legislature met. It has been granted the means, it is true, of paying the debts that its past extravagances incurred, but it is still not on a sound financial basis and will not be until there is a general housecleaning in its offices. That, however, is too much to expect of the present personnel of the board. They are merely stooges. They passed a budget for the present year which all of them who can count above 10 knew was far out of balance. They are still living beyond their means.

During the decade of the Roosevelt depression the county saw its general property tax levy decline steadily, because of the general decrease in the value of real estate in Chicago, and came to lean more and more on the penalties that it received when delinquent taxpayers paid or compromised their bills for former years. Those tax penalties at one time amounted to nearly 8 million dollars a year. They have been steadily diminishing in recent years, a fact which the board has stubbornly refused to recognize, because to recognize it would have meant that they had to get rid of some of their precious pay rollers.

The deficits of recent years have proceeded directly from the overestimates of penalty income, which every one conversant with the county's affairs knew were overestimates when they were incorporated in the budget. Next year it is doubtful whether these penalties will aggregate 3 million dollars. Yet it is almost certain that when the commissioners sit down in December to draw up a new budget they will again make a false estimate of this revenue and start climbing right back into the fiscal hole from which the legislature rescued them at the expense of the taxpayers.

OTTO GETS HIS CHANCE.

Otto Hapsburg, pretender to the discarded throne of Austria, wanted to organize an Austrian battalion within the United States army. He hoped to lead this group of Austrian born Americans. They would have worn American uniforms and carried American weapons, but they would have been an alien group, distinguished by an Austrian badge.

Otto doubtless dreamed of marching into conquered Austria at the head of this little band. A triumphal entry would have given him a leg up on the kingship.

Fortunately, army red tape caught up with Otto. Before he could get commissioned and organized the people heard about Otto's Austrian battalion and a wave of public indignation washed him down. The United States army will never be the tool of a scheming foreign prince. Otto will have a chance to fight, but he'll learn where and when to report from his local draft board.

Otto is only one of the scores of titled refugees who are running around Washington these days, trying to do themselves some good. Every high placed New Dealer seems to have his pet royalty. Until the voters can take care of the New Dealers, the whole crowd will bear close watching.

PUTTING TAGS ON BATTLES.

[New York Sun.]

The final sentence of a Japanese communique dealing with a naval engagement in Kula gulf says, "Hereafter this naval battle will be known as the Night Battle of Kolombangara." This follows the pattern of previous communiques, which have assigned names to earlier engagements, some of which were no more profitable to the Japanese than the latest brush in Kula gulf. Whether this eagerness to provide identification tags springs from concern for the historian or from the traditional neatness of the Japanese does not appear. How much territory the Japanese sense of humor will cover is never clear to occidentals, but could it possibly extend far enough to take in this meticulousness in giving names to naval battles which are making it more and more likely that the Japanese version of the Pacific war will not be very important?

MR. PEPYS ON DICTATORS.

31st July—A curious feeling comes over me at this week-end: Mussolini, that great man who is fallen, is fallen [the world is ringing with this scriptural refrain], is boring me. Have been all agog for a week about what happened to him, but he won't talk, and so my curiosity has dried up into boredom, which is the worst thing you can say about a dictator, present or past. Think the word should be passed among every one that dictators are bores, and when they become aware of how people are feeling, their egos will shrivel up and they will cut their own throats from vexation and disappointment.

Victor Hugo said much this sort of thing, in a larger and better way, about Napoleon at the battle of Waterloo: "God had become bored with him."

One reason why dictators are bores is that they insist upon writing autobiographies, which are full of misleading information and frantic rhetoric, and you have to read them to keep in the intellectual swim and in touch with current affairs. Cannot say which is the bigger bore, Mussolini's book on himself or Hitler's ragout of tortured philosophies, because I have been stopped cold by both of these works in the middle of the volume. Have made a bet with myself, however, that I will finish "Mein Kampf" before this war ends, but will probably cheat by skipping.

Have received hundreds of jokes about Mussolini from my contributors during the last week, but there is one they forgot. It is a joke current among his own people for years. They called him, in secret, Juliet, because he was always on a balcony.

MIDSUMMER RELEASE.

It is good to go out in the bloom-laden fields,
To revel in oceans of sky;
It is good to look up from the strivings of earth
And watch the white clouds go by.

It is good to forget the meanness of men
Who vie in their ardor for gold;
It is pleasant to know there are spaces of light
Where virtue and truth are not sold.

The bluebirds are wise, they drink in the day,
Forgetting that death is at hand;
The poplars rejoice in the summer's high noon—
July is abroad in the land.

But men have no songs; they toil and they fret,
As joyless and glum as a clod.
It is good to go out in the shimmering fields,
To rest in the gardens of God.

History of the Gold Coast—XXXIX.

The turn of the century was the golden age of the gold coast. The hard times of the 1890s, not so gay after all, gave way to a revival of business. The war drums rumbled once more, this time for the war with Spain. Again mansion and cottage answered the call. Dewey's victory at Manila bay and the fighting around Santiago brought it to a speedy, victorious end. Then followed a period of remarkable prosperity.

It requires something more accomplished than the pen of a blunt old soldier to describe the brilliant social life of the period. That we leave to others better qualified. There were signs, however, that the third generation was not up to the standard of their forebears. Many, relieved of the necessity of making their living thru the hard work and foresight of their fathers and grandfathers, had gone in for a life of ease and were having a hard time living it.

Others with the high-brow urge were working overtime trying to make culture hum. Still others had been carefully shielded while young from touch with the common. Faulty education and European travel did the rest.

Many of them shook the dust of Chicago's streets from their shoes and betook themselves elsewhere. Some, finding the paternal fortune not equal to the demands of living here and not wishing to live in the boarding houses of this section, left for the pensions of Paris, Nice, or Rome.

Then there was the horsey set which indulged in pink teas and pink coats and which, with hounds, chased the lazy brown fox not only over the log but over the entire countryside as well, and seldom caught him. When foxes were not available, as they seldom were, they would follow the hounds running after a side of beef dragged across the terrain. They went in for tandems, dog carts, and four-in-hand coaches. One set put on the Blue Dog, a sporty looking coach which ran on schedule from the Annex to Lake Forest every Saturday afternoon.

But changes were in the offing. On Thanksgiving day, 1895, the few gasoline buggies in the country roared by the water tower at about 10 miles an hour on the first automobile race. Some of them stalled making the incline to Rush street bridge. After that they appeared quite frequently on the Drive, making much noise, emitting stenches, and causing runaways. Many smart remarks were leveled at them and their drivers.

These were the days of a more spacious living. Fine large apartments could be had for $60 per month. In the Raymond, the most expensive of all, a whole floor could be rented for $250 a month. This was regarded as the height of elegance, luxury, and extravagance. The secret of living here was not in how much you had, but in knowing how to order at the butchers, bakers, and grocers, and in knowing the right places at which to dine. Captain John.

DIETARY CORRECTION OF PELLAGRA.

THE "rough skin diseases," or pellagra, has been in rapid retreat since a growing knowledge of nutrition has pointed the way to prevention and cure. Known for more than a century, the malady was early associated with diet. It was supposed, however, that the victim had ingested spoiled food and that the fault did not lie in a poorly planned menu.

We now realize that one or more vital materials were lacking. Supplying the missing elements conquered the difficulty. We owe much to Goldberger and Elvehjem for a clear understanding of this hitherto puzzling disorder. No one acquires it if his meals are adequate and if his powers of digestion and absorption are normal.

But some will fall either to purchase or to consume certain indispensable edibles. Our southern physicians have learned to make the diagnosis promptly and accurately. Those in the north, who apparently encounter it less frequently, are often baffled.

What is the ailment and how does it behave? Most patients will complain that the mouth feels hot or that the tongue stings. These manifestations may be associated with increasing nervousness and, as symptoms count, speech may become incoherent. As many victims describe it, "I cannot think straight."

In the meantime, the skin has undergone many alterations. First comes an eruption—resembling sunburn—on the backs of the hands. Later, other parts may be afflicted and the epidermis becomes darker gradually, peeling is present, and tiny cracks or blisters appear. If the proper foods are obtained these blemishes may vanish only to break out anew as nutrition fails. Sooner or later scars will develop which assume a dull red shade.

When nicotinic acid [a fraction of vitamin B] is given in correct doses, response is prompt. Superficial lesions may heal within two or three days. At the same time, digestive symptoms will recede. In a short while returning appetite will bring about a general rehabilitation, with gain in weight.

Naturally, we are interested in prevention and no one of us will be in the slightest danger if we will adhere to a balanced diet. The widespread employment of dried brewer's yeast [an excellent source of vitamin B], which was advocated thruout certain districts a few years ago, did much to forestall the onset of this trouble.

Those who have suffered one attack are apparently prone to recurrences. They seem to lapse into bad eating habits with ease. One cannot live satisfactorily on a daily bill of fare of fat pork, corn bread, and beans. Altho the calories may be sufficient, necessary nutritional factors are absent. Lean meat, fresh milk, eggs, and green vegetables should be added.

More cases occur in rural areas, despite the fact that dairy products should be readily available. But some families make a practice of selling produce of this character, thus depriving their own tables of the essentials of health.

POLITICAL RATIONING.

Chicago, July 28.—The President's speech really smelled with politics tonight. Why should the President, who is supposed to be so busy "winning the war," have to announce the end of coffee rationing? That's politics. I said months ago that during the next year many things will be taken off the ration list to make the people forget for the next election, but O boy! if he gets elected again, look out! I suggest you add another question at the top of your editorial page, "What will be taken off the ration list before next election?" JOHN GREGBRO.

WHAT ISOLATION STANDS FOR.

Chicago, July 22.—The Republican party has the greatest chance in the history of its organization—the saving of America, and it must not fail! It must have no fear of being called "isolationist." If Republicans are going to be so termed by the interventionists or any other group, they must unmistakingly declare themselves for what that "isolation" stands. They never should have had to defend themselves against the term isolation. Thoroly cognizant of world conditions, they stood for the defense of their country so adequate as to withstand attack by any nation or group of nations. Had America been our first concern under such policy there would not have been a Pearl Harbor. But by our present government's misguided policy we invited Pearl Harbor and stepped into the world's chaotic state.

The most vital thing for all peoples is for our country to put its internal affairs on such a firm footing we will be capable of honestly coöperating with other nations on the basic facts to be encountered if what we call peace can happen. If we can prove to the world the success of the Republic of the United States of America, it will be our greatest contribution to the world.

The enemies of the Republic are attempting to sell out America, and the Republican party must come out with its strongest defense. MRS. G. B.

HENRY AND THE PEONS.

New York, July 27.—Happy Henry Wallace, friend of the low-living peoples of the earth, orates that he found that the lowliest peon in South America looks upon President Roosevelt as the symbol of his dearest aspiration in the peace to come. Henry evidently thinks that the word "peon" means a peasant. It doesn't; but Henry, he doesn't know any different. The South American countries will indignantly deny that there is now any peonage in their territories.

Would it be disclosing an official secret if idealist Henry were to tell how many "peons" he interviewed in South America? And just where they were located?

As to President Roosevelt being the symbol of the peon's aspirations for peace—are the particular peons Henry talked with at war with anybody? Possibly they, too, aspire to that quart of milk a day. And some of them may hope that they will be policed, and educated, and regulated by a constabulary composed of Icelanders, Malays, Russians, and Kaffirs from South Africa. Will they be happy? You bet! WHIDDEN GRAHAM.

SEEKING VOTES.

Chicago, July 29.—As an American citizen, I listened to our President's speech last evening. What was it? Simply honeyed words to the soldiers and the rest of the country. He is seeking votes already. J. A. GREY.

A STUDENT'S REPLY.

Chicago, July 26.—We high school students have to take a lot of insults from our elders and I admit we deserve quite a number of them, but don't you think the one printed yesterday written by "An Irritated Citizen" just a trifle silly?

The majority of students attending high schools out of their districts are justified in doing so. After all, a student has to put in four years of concentrated study, why not do so in a school that the student takes pride in attending?

Concerning the transportation problem, why blame it on the student? There is a war on, and millions of people who have never worked before are now doing their part, thus adding to the crowded transportation problem. After all, this permit problem isn't a new one. Students have been attending preferred high schools for years.

If you boil the entire situation down, the fact remains that the majority of the students using the street cars and buses are those students attending parochial high schools, technical high schools, or any type of special high schools found in our city. So why place the blame on politicians? Heaven knows they take plenty of blame nowadays.

I also wish that our older generation would not refer to the younger generation as "spoiled children." A visit to the employment certificate office on La Salle street might convince them differently. After all we, too, are trying to do our share to win this war, so why hint that we are falling down on the job? ADELINE LASCHIAZZA.

CORN WALLACE.

Chicago, July 26.—By his own admission at a press conference in Detroit last week the Vice President is a "practical" idealist. At first, one gropes for an adequate definition. But not for long. Any individual who will preach planned economy, embrace a theory of scarcity and order reduction of agricultural acreage while at the same time make a fortune out of growing and selling hybrid corn, advertised and bought for the purpose of growing more bushels per acre, is, I would suppose, the living example of a "practical" idealist. Very practical.

C. W. STOVER.

FOR HIROHITO BUGS.

Chicago, July 25.—I have seen these bugs with faces like Hirohito, reported from New York, and had them in our house, and they are awful. The way to get rid of them is to buy a large box of borax.

Put plenty of borax around where they walk or get into. The borax gets into their fuzzy legs and in the morning they will be found on their backs dead or still alive with their legs still up. Keep borax around for about six weeks. C. B.

HE FORGOT MacARTHUR.

Chicago, July 29.—Last night over the radio President Roosevelt paid tribute to Air Marshal Tedder, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Adm. Cunningham, Winston Churchill, Gen. Eisenhower, and Gen. Alexander.

How about Gen. MacArthur in the Pacific? Gen. MacArthur has become too popular at home. O. H.

EQUIPMENT TO RUSSIA.

Chicago, July 26.—For the last few months the writer's attention has been called to the fact that the Russian government is receiving industrial equipment which American manufacturers are unable to obtain. While the desirability of furnishing Russia with the necessary equipment to enable her to prosecute the war with the greatest possible vigor is recognized, yet it is obvious that there should be discretion exercised in the type of equipment supplied. This, however, is not being done. Russia obtains what she asks for.

In the matter of steam generating and power generating equipment, Russia obtains the most expensive and the most highly efficient equipment made, and this is certainly not necessary so far as the prosecution of the war is concerned.

In normal times labor in Russia is cheap, also fuel. Highly efficient steam generating equipment is of secondary importance, while in this country the reverse is true. High cost of fuel and high cost of labor make it difficult for our manufacturers to compete with European conditions. After the war we must have the most highly efficient equipment obtainable and this our manufacturers will not have. Even our munition plants cannot obtain the highly efficient equipment that goes to Russia. When the war ends Russian manufacturing plants will be modernized, while American manufacturers must get along as best they can with poorly designed, obsolete, and makeshift installations.

The above matters, combined with the peace feelers that Russia has already sent out to the Germans seem to indicate quite clearly the Russian post-war aims—a sovietized German state and a highly efficient industrial empire created at our expense. If we do not throttle our flow of generosity to Russia it is more than likely to be used to our embarrassment after the war. C. M. GARLAND.

RIGHT OF CURTESY.

Chicago, July 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When a resident of Colorado dies leaving property in Wisconsin, what portion will her husband and 16 year old son receive, they being her only heirs? She died intestate. 2. Is a boy qualified to sign legal papers at the age of 18 or must he be 21 years of age? 3. How does one proceed to have a guardian appointed so that the property may be sold? I. J.

1. The son takes the Wisconsin land subject to "curtesy." [The husband, on death of wife, holds lands of which she died seized, and which were not disposed of by her last will, for his life as tenant by the curtesy; provided, that if the wife at death leaves issue by former husband, to whom the estate might descend, such issue takes same discharge from right of surviving husband as tenant by curtesy. In case of wife dying after Aug. 31, 1921, right of curtesy is extinguished by husband's remarriage. 233.23.]
2. In Wisconsin, not until he is 21.

Swimming Pool Crowds Enjoy Public Beaches

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE public bathing beaches are coming into their own with the groups that usually bathe and sun at club pools in this war time summer of transportation restrictions. A visit to the North avenue beach almost any morning brings a conglomerate picture of Saddle and Cycle, Onwentsia, Indian Hill, and even Chicago Golf bathers disporting with their children on the sands.

Mrs. Richard K. Juergens and Mrs. Robert S. Critchell, who are neighbors, arrive by taxi with their children. Others, who live nearer, wheel their babies over in precious prams and strollers. Looking exceedingly smart in a white suit with a shirred bodice painted all over with flowers, Mrs. Juergens received a call at the beach from Mrs. Morrison Waud, here from Dayton, O., on a visit. Her sister, Mrs. Gardner Brown, stopped by at the beach to take Mrs. Waud on to Lake Forest.

Mrs. Paul Ware and her enchanting blonde youngster often wear mother and daughter suits. One of these combinations are red and white suits, becoming to both.

Beach Outings Popular for Men Bathers, Too.

Beach mornings also are popular with men, and one in particular has captured the imagination of the bathers because he has such fun with his children. He is a war worker on the night shift, his fellow bathers have learned, and his wife works days. Added to the masculine swimmers this week have been Justin A. Stanley, Benjamin Crawford, and Robert Lennington, who have been spending their vacations at home.

Mr. Crawford departed yesterday for service with the army. His wife's mother, Mrs. Jesse D. Whitmore, arrived from Valley, Neb., in time for a farewell party at the Buttery. She will remain with Mrs. Crawford while she puts her apartment in shape for its new tenants, the Howard Rafterys. Mrs. Crawford will return to Valley with her mother to stay until it is possible to join her husband.

Mr. Stanley and Mr. Lennington have been entertaining their small daughters. Robert C. McNamara Jr. often is seen at the same beach with his twin sons, and Marshall G. Sampsell sometimes brings his young daughter there to swim.

Mrs. Manierre Is Back Home After Seeing Son.

One of the war's strangest tales of coincidence was brought back from New York by Mrs. E. Harrison Manierre when she returned yesterday morning from the east. Mrs. Manierre went to New York last week to attend the wedding on Saturday of Mrs. Dorothy M. Whittlesey to David Vaughan Sutton. Walking down Broadway the day before the wedding, she bumped into her elder son, Lt. Cyrus E. Manierre, who was back for 24 hours between secret missions and who had no idea that his mother was in the east. In the excitement of the reunion pedestrians, French sailors, and policemen all formed a circle around the Manierres until a miniature traffic jam developed. Lt. Manierre is a member of the army paratroopers.

Just back from one trip, Mrs. Manierre will be leaving on Wednesday to see her other son, Aviation Cadet William R. Manierre II., in Waco, Tex. Cadet Manierre left Yale last winter to enlist with the air forces.

Saddle and Cycle Holds Hawaiian Party Tonight.

Mrs. Henry Gross has been hard at work making miniature palm trees to be combined with hand painted coconuts and crystal starfish to form the centerpieces on the tables tonight at the Saddle and Cycle's Hawaiian Walakahoo ["hot time" to those unacquainted with the Hawaiian language]. A Hawaiian orchestra will play for dancing on the terrace, and each guest will be decked in floral leis.

Miss Mary Jane Brummel, Miss Priscilla Blackett, Miss Nancy Davis, Miss Helen Clayton, and Miss Alicia Byrne are some of the young women who will distribute programs at the performance of "Carmen" tonight at Soldiers' field. The Illinois Opera Guild will receive the proceeds from the sale of 3,000 box seats.

Following tonight's concert at Ravinia park, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Getz are giving a small supper at their Highland Park home for the guest conductor, George Szell, and the guest soloist, Artur Rubinstein, pianist, and their wives.

Pouring tea at a garden party and musical which the Woman's Symphony orchestra board is giving at 5 p. m. tomorrow in the Evanston home of Mrs. Hugo Dalmar will be Mrs. Charles M. Cartwright, Mrs. Charles W. Wrigley, Mrs. Harry Swigart, Mrs. Robert Blessing, Mrs. Floyd Thompson, and Mrs. Philip Maxwell. The program will be given by Harriet O'Rourke, coloratura, and Margaret Conrad and her string ensemble.

A lady we know went down to a large bus depot here the other day to see her husband off, and while waiting for her friend's bus noticed a tiny, feathery little old lady in a big cape who kept running up to the porter to say, in quavering tones, "Is that," indicating the bus that had just come in, "the bus to Techny?" Each time the porter, a giant of a fellow, would smile politely and say, "No, madam. When your bus comes, I will notify you. Now, you just sit down and wait."

The little lady looked so dejected, lost, and alone, and kept making so many futile totterings back and forth between the porter and her bench, that our friend, after she had disposed of her husband got in line at the ticket window and asked the clerk when was the next bus to Techny. He explored a sheaf of books and finally said it was the Milwaukee bus which left at 5:08.

Our friend hastened back to the waiting room and looked for the little lady in the cape. She was nowhere to be seen, but a bus legended "Milwaukee" was just loading. Our friend peeped inside, and there, ensconced in a nice seat by the window, was the little lady, her cape now in her lap.

Feeling quite relieved, she went inside and walked up to the porter. "I noticed how courteous you were to that old lady who wanted the Techny bus," she said, "and I just wanted to thank you. She seemed so lost, and I was so afraid she would miss her bus, but I see you got her on it all right. I don't believe she has ever been in a bus station before."

The porter smiled. "Madam," he said, "I've been getting that little lady on that bus three days a week all summer. She always wants the bus to Techny. That bus is scheduled to leave every day at five-o-eight. She never gets here later than 4 o'clock, and that bus never gets in earlier than 5:30."

End Voice Tests on West Side; Add 3 Winners

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

With three more vocal winners the Chicago Music festival voice contest for the west side was closed at the Graemere hotel last night. The competitions move to the Grand ballroom of the Shoreland hotel, where, next Tuesday, south and southwest singers will be heard in the lyric and dramitc tenor, contralto, baritone, dramatic soprano, and mezzo divisions.

Rosemary Kuhns.

Another filled ballroom heard the contests last night. Janette Gilroy Taylor, 19 years old, of 3848 Hirsch street, won first place in the lyric soprano contest. A sophomore next fall in the North Park college music school, she had won second place in the 1942 competition. She is a filing clerk in a steel company.

So close was this contest that the judges, Mark Love, Gilderoy Scott, and Richard DeYoung, called back five of the 28 lyric sopranos for a second song. Dorothy Helen Etzkorn, 21, of 2429 South 50th avenue, Cicero, placed second, and Irene Reynolds, 946 North Ayers avenue, was third.

A 38 year old father of a son, 15, was named the best bass-baritone. He is L. Seth Bennett, 4816 Adams street. Bennett is a statistician and sings in the West Central 7th Day Adventist church, Waller and Race avenues. His ambition is to be a radio singer. Second place was awarded to Robert Dalton, 29, of 5905 Ohio street. Martin F. Marshall, 22, of 1046 North Lawndale avenue, won third place.

The winner of the coloratura soprano division contest was Rosemary Kuhns, 19 years old, 4144 North Moody avenue, a bookkeeper and a graduate of Steinmetz High school, who said she aspires to be an opera star. Ann Marie Janda, 17, of 1706 South Racine avenue, placed second. Third place was won by Jeana Gould, 22, of 740 South Spaulding avenue.

War or Escape Films—Which? Magnates Ask

[Marcia Winn of THE TRIBUNE staff went to Hollywood to see what was happening there. The following article is the seventh of a series.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 30.—The great paradox confronting Hollywood now is war pictures. Shall the producers continue to make them at the frantic pace of the last year, or shall they shift almost entirely to pure entertainment?

What does the public want? Many say, "Anything but war!" yet of 185 preview cards returned at the end of the sneak showing of "Sahara," a picture in which Humphrey Bogart conquered North Africa, only five persons said "We've had enough pictures of this sort."

The controversy rages. Do film audiences want escape or realism? Do they want music or munitions? A good war picture still attracts tremendous, ecstatic audiences. So does a maudlin, sadist one, as indicated by "Hitler's Children." Like "The Beast of Berlin," the picture which mowed down the audiences in World War I., "Hitler's Children" is a cheap compound of overweening brutality, leers, and sadism. RKO produced it for what it terms "peanuts," a mere $160,000. Yet so far, and its run is not over, it has grossed more than $4,000,000. It is the great success of the war.

At the outbreak of the war, and for many months beforehand, Hollywood was making a phantasmagoria of war pictures, cheap translations of the old cops and robbers theme. They made so many flagrant inaccuracies as in a submarine picture where a submarine in one engagement fired more torpedoes than a battleship carries, that the army, navy, and marine corps now closely supervise all service pictures.

Gradually the major studios are slowing down on war. They concentrate on one or two fine, careful war pictures, and devote the major part of their output to comedy and light entertainment. With motion picture houses more crowded than ever before in the history of the screen, and 86 million people buying their way into a movie each week [this is exclusive of servicemen, who are admitted without charge or at a discount], their eye is on the box office.

"But it's all a lot of bunk," Harry Cohn, president of Columbia pictures, snorted. "When the poll takers want to tell me what the public wants in titles and pictures, I don't want to know. If a great picture is great, the public sees it. It it's bunk, the public won't want it. Call it anything you please. That means nothing."

"Six months ago I said we were going to stop making war pictures. Actual war pictures we have stopped, but we always will deal with war subjects, war or not. You can say 'Mrs. Miniver' is. I don't think so. There's a story in it. Now we're releasing 'The Heart of a City.' That has to do with the one theater in London that carried on in the blitz. That wasn't war.

"But war pictures I don't want to make. I've made my last one, 'Destroyer.' Some people say the public needs to be awakened. I don't believe it. It may have been true a year ago, but not now. We had a great picture called 'The Invaders.' The big point was that a German sub was in the St. Lawrence. The east and west went for it, but the middle west didn't. They said, 'O, for heaven's sake!' And it happened. If that submarine had only gone in three months earlier, it would have looked like we framed it.

"In general, we find that when people sign those cards we give out at previews, about 39 per cent will say, 'Stop making war pictures.' Then that 'Sahara' thing came up. Interesting. . . ."

Yet Columbia's schedule includes 15 pictures with war backgrounds. These range from "Lebensraum," the post-war trial of the Nazi com-

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Civil service jobs at a salary of $146 a month in the navy department's bureau of ships in Washington, D. C., are awaiting women of the middle west. Lt. [j. g.] Laps McCord, acting under orders of Lt. Comdr. Carl E. Haglund, is in Chicago arranging with the Civil Service commission of this district to recruit and place personnel for clerical work with the bureau in the national capital.

The navy is offering attractive inducements to those who qualify. It will provide Pullman transportation to Washington for the women, meet them at the train there, and pre-arrange housing for them.

Applicants must pass a simple intelligence test for civil service and demonstrate typing and dictation ability at the rate of 35 and 80 words a minute, respectively. Women accepted then will receive special training to equip them to handle navy office details, a course averaging approximately two weeks, depending on the knowledge already possessed. Full salary will be paid during instruction.

Applicants who do not quite pass the tests will receive a special course of training to bring their office technique up to civil service standards. There is no maximum age limit, but applicants must be at least 16. If women interested in these navy bureau jobs now are employed in an essential industry they must obtain a statement of availability from their employers.

Selection of applicants is being made by the Civil Service commission, room 1048, New Postoffice building.

Registration is now open for the Red Cross class in nutrition to begin Monday at headquarters, 529 South Wabash avenue, Mrs. Jana G. Krause, director of nutrition for the Chicago chapter, has announced.

The class, which will answer woman's questions about current food problems, with emphasis on meal planning, preparation, and balanced diets in an era of rationing, will meet in room 405 at headquarters from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. The 20 hour, standard nutrition course will be given in eight lessons. Women who are required to take this nutrition course to complete their training for the Red Cross canteen corps are urged to attend.

Women interested in the course may call the nutrition service at Wabash 7850.

Seven women who have completed an unusual war training course in explosives safety engineering at the Illinois Institute of Technology will be graduated in ceremonies at 10 a. m. today at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. William R. Cutter of the safety and security branch of the office of chief of ordnance, will address the graduates.

The women have been hired by ordnance to train as explosive safety engineers. They've gone to school for nine weeks to learn how explosives are made and the organization of industry. Now they go to work for four weeks of practical experience. Then they'll be eligible for a six weeks' post graduate course. All seven graduates plan to return for this course.

Woman's Job: the Fashioning of Gas Masks

[Miss Geserick is gaining first hand information of new vocations that women have entered to help win the war. This is another of her series of articles. Others will follow from time to time.]

BY JUNE GESERICK.

This is the first story ever to be written by a gas mask factory worker about her job in a plant which produces false faces that may save the lives of America's fighting men. The recent easing of censorship in plants operating under the chemical warfare service made it possible for me to get a job in such a plant—where 100 per cent of the production is accomplished by women.

In response to an appeal by E. W. Jochim, plant manager of Johnson & Johnson, for additional workers in the gas mask division, 4951 West 66th street, I applied for temporary work and started the next day. E. J. Grewe, personnel director, put me thru a series of mental and hand dexterity tests. The tests, which have quadrupled the number of satisfactory placements of employees, proved that my reflexes are average.

I was assigned to do "taping after wiring," one of the last jobs performed on a rubber gas mask.

Following the company's procedure of giving each new employe a standing invitation to go thru the plant's gas chamber, Mr. Jochim suggested that I don a mask and enter the chamber before I began my new job. The chamber is supervised by the Chicago chemical warfare procurement division, headed by Col. Harry R. Lebkicher.

"If the women occasionally wear one of the masks on which they work into the chamber they realize the importance of perfection in every operation," Mr. Jochim explained. "They know that they might some time draw a faulty mask and thus are more careful, more exact in their work."

Once in the room that houses the chamber, I put on the mask—with the help of two second lieutenants. After removing the mask from the heavy khaki container in which it is carried, I pulled it over my head and snapped back in place two taut khaki headstraps. Two panicky eyes stared at me from a looking glass—two eyes peering from a grotesque death gray mask, on which the nose was flat, the mouth—a filtering device—huge, and the chin only the starting point of a two foot trunk which wound down into the gas filter can which I carried at my side in a sack.

My breath came in gasps, caused not from lack of air but from fear of asphyxiation. I fought a desire to tear off the mask and followed a lieutenant into the small anti-room of the chamber.

The door shut behind us and another one opened, letting us into the 9 by 9 foot gas chamber which was filled with the deadly fumes of chlor-picrin war gas.

"Tell me if your eyes start burning," the lieutenant's voice came foggily thru his mask, "that means gas is getting in thru the mask."

Once over my first fears, I enjoyed the visit and examined the portholelike windows, the careful sealing around the doors.

I began my 55 cent per hour job fully realizing its importance. Sitting with dozens of other women beside a conveyor which carried masks from one section to another, I used honsurgical adhesive plaster to tape around the plastic mouthpiece at its base. The tape prevents the deterioration of the wire that secures the plastic to the rubber facepiece.

The huge room in which I worked was filled with women of all ages. Some worked at putting glass eyepieces on the masks. Others attached the head bands. Still others sewed, riveted, and marked the khaki canvas bags which would hold them.

My work was easy and required only dexterity of fingers. Little thought was required for the job and I was able to enjoy the strains coming from the plant's "music while you work" system.

New Handbags Made of Smart and Sturdy Felt

BY REA SEEGER.

New fall handbags are exciting because they're huge, yet casual, and the smartest are made of sturdy, long wearing felt. Since leather is sinfully luxurious, and all the exciting dyes are used for war time needs, felt offers the answer to the problem of housing your money and vanity gadgets. Even felt is limited if you are thinking to make your own pouch. But the supplies of smart, simply fashioned bags for fall are abundant.

The colors are typically fall: lusty golds, strong greens, wines, copper, and several effective all-purpose contrast colors like beige, tobacco brown, and blonde. All of the bags boast practical carrying devices, and many have the long shoulder strap that can be wound around the hands and wrists.

To double for the firm anchoring of a zipper, there are large felt covered buttons and matching large loops, or even well worked buttonholes to snare the buttons. Stitching, in rows or in definite patterns, is the only method of decoration.

Other fabrics are promised for weekly arrival. They include wool crepes, the sturdier rayons, heavy and not so heavy velveteens and corduroy, and all will be made with the same simplicity as the first felt models.

Capacity is emphasized, so that the average shopper can carry all the small sized packages rounded up after the usual shopping expedition. Those pouch models, which are big enough to double for a week-end packing case and are carried with the strong draw string cord, are coming in fabric too.

CONFESSION.

"Where the track curves deep you can see along to the big boulder at the corner. I could see all there was to be seen, and I saw what was to be seen before Mistress Ann got to the bottom. Mark that! There was no living person in the bit of an opening between the cliff and the trees. There was a dead one. The big stone was not 40 feet below me, and I saw the general's body lying at the side of it.

"There it was that Mistress Ann came round the rock from the track. She checked back when she saw the body. She called his name. With the updrift of air I could hear a whisper. He did not whisper. He did not move. He was dead. She bent down to see his face, but the butt of the rifle was in the way, and she picked it up by the lock; and what she must have seen then made her straighten up, the rifle tight in her hands.

"I am finished," said Donald gloomily. "That is the statement I made and signed. I told Angus that I was not prepared to carry it further. I am not. That is all."

"That's so," said Angus, turning back a page of his file. "There's just a'e point, Donald. I don't see here that you had a rifle with you?"

"I had no rifle with me."

"But the sick hind——"

"If I had a rifle I could have eased the hind straight off. I had to wear her down, and get in with the sgian."

Ewan McInnes leaned forward and turned to look at Donald.

"You asked Major Harper if he had heard the shot?"

Donald met his look coolly. "I was trying Major Harper out—God forgive me."

"Are you implying, Gunn, that I was not on Drumdyre," inquired the major.

"I knew all the time that you were not anywhere on Drumdyre the time you said," said Donald.

"How do you know, Donald?" questioned the lawyer quickly.

"I'll tell you. There were five stag on the crown of the ridge where they could see all round them, three lying and two nibbling here and there. I had my eye on them as I stalked the hind. I was down wind from them and they never moved. Any one on the far side would give them his wind, and they would have moved."

"Flimsy evidence!" said Major Harper.

"The strongest there is, any stalker knows. So do you, sir. Moreover, when I charged the hind they saw me and made off over the ridge. Wherever you were, you were not on the ridge at Drumdyre at 4 o'clock."

Ewan McInnes moved his hand rapidly. "Deer have many vagaries. It is not important." He looked up at Aunt Ellen. "Well, Big Ellen! You seem to have proved that neither Henrietta nor Ann fired the fatal shot. Where do you proceed from there?"

"We could be taking another man's statement, Ewan."

"Not yet, my dear. You are forgetting that clever counsel for the prosecution, aren't you?"

"What of him, Ewan?"

"He'll be on his feet cross-examining your witness. You think you have cleared Ann Harper, and I hope you have—but I'm not a clever counsel. If I were, there's Donald before me and no one to tell him where to stop and where to go on. An honest man under oath, he'd hold nothing back, and if he tried the clever counsel would drag it out of him, and show at the same time what a prejudiced witness he was. You see, this clever counsel will assume that the general did not kill himself—not after a cool and, indeed, a callous man fabricated evidence——"

"One man or two, Ewan?"

"Ay! there was Donald also. He is not above suspicion. A minute ago he gave even myself the impression that he had a rifle with him, and every one knows how devoted he is to his mistress. To the extent of perjury? Why was he there at all? What did he know that made him to set there to protect her? Would he kill a man to protect her?" He lifted a hand to silence Donald. "We will not go into that now. I'm not clever, myself, but I'll ask Donald to verify one thing. When you looked over the point and saw your mistress pick up the rifle was Diego Usted at her shoulder?"

"He was not," Donald answered readily.

"He was, later?"

"Later, he was," he answered.

"The laws of evidence in the present court are too original to have any precedent," said the old lawyer satirically.

"'You'll be more particular, Mr. Gunn'," says our clever counsel. "Ann Harper had to come down past you and get out of sight, and you had to go down and crawl out to the point. How long was it from the time you heard the shot until you looked over the edge and saw no one but the dead man? Four—five minutes, Donald?"

"No, nor half."

The lawyer looked at Donald Gunn's grim profile.

"So Diego Usted came to the woman's side later. Not much later?"

"Not much later," agreed Donald. The old lawyer spoke softly as if to himself.

"Donald Gunn was 40 feet above. There was an undrift of air, and he says he could hear a whisper. I wonder what whisperings ne heard?"

"You go to blazes, Ewan McInnes!"

Ewan McInnes threw his hand out toward Hamish McLeod.

"Contempt of court! Your ruling, Mr. President?"

"Donald, you will answer every question Mr. McInnes puts to you. You must trust me."

Donald looked at him steadily and nodded. "I've trusted you 40 years, and I'll trust you now, tho——" He turned to Ewan. "What do you want to know, you old devil?"

"Tut! Tut! You see. Donald, you finished your statement so abruptly that it was evident you heard something that you did not want to repeat. Now you will tell us what you heard and saw from the time Ann Harper took up the rifle."

"There was not much." Donald forced calmness back into his voice. "Don Diego came from the trees to Mistress Ann's side. She saw him and whispered: 'Is he dead?' He sat down on his heels and looked at the dead man, a long time, and then he rose up and said 'He is dead.' And she said: 'An old man and mad; it was evil to kill him.' And after a time he said, 'It was an accident. There was a struggle and the gun went off.' And she said: 'Yes, that must be the way.' Then he took the rifle from her."

There was a note of relief in Major Harper's voice.

"Ah! There you have the confession of guilt. It was Usted who murdered my brother."

"Murder, Major Harper!" protested Aunt Ellen mildly. "Come now! Would you not be merciful and call it manslaughter?"

But Maj. Harper would have none of it.

"Manslaughter! It was murder. Don't you see? He suggested to his accomplice 'It was an accident. There was a struggle. The gun went off.' And she agreed: 'Yes, that must be the way.'"

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	Pass	1 heart
Pass	2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	?

The question we want to ask is, what should be South's next bid? Should he or should he not bid three hearts? I may say that he actually did, was doubled, and took the rap for 1,400 points.

"North insisted that his three club bid was a sign-off, but how could he sign off in a minor suit after originally inviting a major response and never bidding the other major himself? My own opinion is that his take-out double of one diamond was about the worst I have ever seen. Please settle this heated argument."

I heartily agree with my correspondent's opinion of North's take-out double. With support for neither major suit and, in fact, with every reason to be scared to death of the likely heart response, North should have confined himself to one of two courses. First, he might have passed in the hope of trapping diamonds. Second, if he felt there was little chance of the opponents going on in diamonds, he could, of course, put in a two club overcall. This latter would have the advantage of indicating a lead against a possible no trump call by East, but would have the disadvantage of encouraging South to start bidding the major suits.

There is no question that, as the bidding actually went, South should have bid three hearts over three clubs. His suit was strong enough to stand on its own feet, and if North had a fairly sound take-out double, there still was a chance for game despite the fact that North had not supported either one or two hearts.

The drastic punishment was, in my opinion, the result of the atrocious take-out double.

Good Morning!

Sweet and hot, like the high notes that tumble from Harry James' trumpet, is the performance of Harry James' new wife in "Coney Island"——Hollywood's latest technicolor musical.

Betty Grable lacks the spark which would make her a great actress, but she has plenty of what it takes to wow the average audience. She's pretty, she's enthusiastic, she exudes friendliness, and that boogie-woogie list to everything she sings and does makes her tops with those who swoon over her husband's music.

Betty's so ever present in "Coney Island" that, as my friend at the next desk remarked "She ought to be twins." Episodes become merely clothes horses on which to drape her numbers as she sings and dances her way up the grade from entertainer in a Coney Island beer and dance hall to the star of a Hammerstein show.

Rivals for her favor are the owner of the cafe [Cesar Romero] and his ex-partner in several other shady ventures [George Montgomery]. As the story opens George appears all set to take over half of Cesar's business. He is armed with certain knowledge Cesar hadn't known he possessed. . . . When Cesar refuses to scare—George proves he has other resources for getting his own way.

Brawls, much two-timing of each other by the partners, loads of singing and dancing, and considerable fairly good comedy play accompaniment to the knitting and unravelling of romance. . . . Charles Winninger is largely responsible for the laughs. His rendering of "The Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder" is indeed a lovally thing.

See you tomorrow.

Thru the Looking Glass

We're not particularly happy about the experience we've had with many brilliantines, but recently we found one in New York that we think is excellent. It's now available here, and it's pretty much what the dry-haired women always are seeking. It imparts luster and softness without making the hair sticky.

Of course nothing applied to dry, brittle hair will transform it overnight into a gleaming, silky halo. Getting at the cause of the dryness is the first step to correct it. But a good brilliantine helps the hair look much better than it otherwise would and its use is especially advisable in summer.

This one, which, by the way, has a delightful perfume that seems especially suitable for a hair preparation, should be applied lightly. Not even with this, nongreasy as it is, should you make the usual mistake of using too much. A few drops each time you comb your hair will be enough to give your locks sheen and manageability. Our favorite method is to apply it lightly to the bristles of the hair brush, then to brush vigorously. If the hair ends are extremely dry, you can give them an extra touch of it.

Using this, you'll find that your waves are a bit more lasting and that the sheen seems to enrich the color. The fly-away ends won't be so troublesome either.

This is, we think, a good grooming aid, especially valuable now when hats reveal so much of hair. It helps the cause of luster, probably the most important quality hair can have.

Ration Budget Menus to Feed Two for Week

BY MARY MEADE.

(Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.)

A pound of steak is mighty expensive in points, but when it's available, even a family of two with only 32 red points a week to spend, can have a piece, provided their appetites aren't enormous! These menus for the family of two working persons provide for a pound of steak on Sunday. If it's unavailable in your market, try thick pork chops.

SUNDAY
BREAKFAST
Sliced Oranges Cornflakes
Quick Coffee Cake [1] Scrambled Eggs
Coffee or Milk
DINNER
Broiled Steak
Shoe String Potatoes Fresh Peas
Tossed Raw Vegetable Salad
Homemade Blueberry Pie [2]
Bakery Rolls Tea or Milk

1. Cinnamon Coffee Cake: 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, ⅔ cup milk [about] 5 tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon. Mix and sift dry ingredients and cut in shortening until mealy. Add milk, stirring only enough to hold together. Knead lightly for about one minute. Pat dough into an 8 inch square pan, about 2 inches deep. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixed together and dot with butter. Bake in 450 degree oven for about 15 to 20 minutes.

2. Save half of pie for Monday's dinner.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Trapped.

I don't know why it is, but the moment an aspiring white-collar girl walks in the door and says "I'm studying journalism and would like to interview you," your confidence shrinks to midget size and you think, abjectly, "Me? What for?"

But there you are—trapped. The student has come prepared, pencil and notebook in hand.

You show her a chair and remember that perhaps she is nervous, poor child, and then you say to yourself, "O, don't be a boop! She's not nervous. You are!"

"You are not at all the way I pictured you," she begins, but you are ready for this. [You've been thru it before. You are either older, younger, shorter, taller, fatter, or thinner than you seemed in the written word.]

A Few Questions, Please.

She has jotted down a few notes—none of this helter-skelter method you use in interviewing some one.

"Now," she hurls question No. 1 at you, "Will you tell me how you became a columnist?"

How you became a . . .

You attempt a two minute autobiography, from the first childish essay which your father naively showed to skeptical neighbors . . . to the first story brazenly submitted to Harpers . . . to the magazine article you knew was good [it never sold] to the one you knew was poor [it sold immediately] . . . to the ghost writing you never could tell about . . . to a book long since buried and another miraculously resurrected.

More Questions.

"About your business experience," the interviewer continues.

You go to town on this. You tell her about the time there was a $2,000 shortage at the end of the day because a three looked like a five—some one's error and guess whose! You tell about the blizzard and your first lesson in punctuality because the boss was on time. [He had started an hour earlier. You had started for work at the usual hour.]

"About the qualifications for a columnist?" she prods.

You explain hesitantly that to your way of thinking there is one—an ability to live with your readers, to be "the girl next door" to their lives. Hopefully you look into the face of your youthful interlocutor and realize she hasn't quite understood.

"And now will you outline a typical day?"

Shall you tell her about yesterday when you were five minutes behind schedule from morning till night and fell, finally, into bed feeling like the mouse in an animated cartoon, chased by tall buildings?

You bid her good-by at last and watch her walk confidently toward the door. As your glance follows her you wonder, wonder whether out of that smooth and beautifully brushed head will come, some day, a shining phrase . . . a wedding of words . . . a union of fact and fancy. The phone rings. It's a journalism student. . . .

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., July 30.—Orson Welles made a deal with Rita Hayworth's boss, Harry Cohn, that while she's working in a picture Orson will cut her in half before 9:30 each night in his Mercury wonder tent show for soldiers. He and his coworkers are having the time of their lives under canvas. The tent's filled with kids who get a workout from Death Valley Mack, original "Old Ranger" from Death Valley, with his black snake whip. . . . Orson tells me nothing can be decided about his future pictures until Alexander Korda arrives in two weeks. He'll know whether they can do "War and Peace" in England. Thing that would hold it up would be finding stage space in London studios. The idea of their doing it over there is to use some of the frozen English coin that's been piling up by the millions. . . . Darryl Zanuck is going to picturize the life of Woodrow Wilson, so I'm surprised Jack Warner doesn't announce the life of Franklin Roosevelt with the President playing himself. O, gosh! I've given him the idea. Maybe he will.

Heart, Hand, and Hats.

Rosalind Russell's hats for "Nurse Kenny" will be done by the same designer who made Nurse Kenny's when she was here two years and a half ago. They'll follow the same pattern. Nurse Kenny's crazy about hats, always has been. You wouldn't think the same hat would become Rosalind, but it does. Rosalind is putting on a rave about Mary McCarthy's script—says it's the most beautiful one she's ever read. . . . Tallulah Bankhead, once named one of the 10 best dressed women, will wear one dress in "Life Boat." I asked her why she was named in that list and she said, "I don't know. All I got out of it was a fur coat which I had to buy to cover myself with so the other nine wouldn't tear me to pieces." . . . Edith Head is delighted she has been asked by Ginger Rogers to design all her clothes for "Tender Comrade," Ginger's next at RKO.

Poor Little Rich Girl.

Dorothea Kent, who grew up with Deanna Durbin at Universal, plays Betty Grable's chum in "Pin-Up Girl." Poor Betty! She and Harry James haven't yet found a home of their own. They're still sharing one with members of his band. . . . Bob Walker, so good in his first picture, "Bataan," is sure moving up fast. He finished "See Here, Private Hargrove," and he gets the lead opposite Judy Garland in "Meet Me in St. Louis." Judy takes a step up, too. She made "Who's Who." . . . Laird Cregar, who loves those horror parts, has one that's a beauty—Jack the Ripper in "The Lodger." Won't he be a gruesome twosome?

And Why Not?

Twentieth Century would like John Hodiak, who gets lead in "Life Boat," to change his name to something fancy like Cecil Billingsley or Vance Vanderveer. John says nothing doing. "I earned a good living for seven years in radio under that name. Hodiak remains." All he wants from pictures is a little farm and a few more comforts for his parents. He's unwed and eligible. . . . Paramount's going to do the Molnar play, "Olympia." I wonder what actress will smoke those big black cigars. The late Laura Hope Crews did in the play, and was an outstanding hit. . . . It's mighty good news that Fred Astaire has signed a long term contract with Metro. His first picture will be "Ziegfeld Follies" some time after the first of the year. Fred's not only a great dancer but a grand personality.

War or Escape Films—Which? Magnates Ask

missar of Poland, "Appointment in Berlin," the story of Lord Haw-Haw, and "First Comes Courage," a film dealing with the Norwegian underground, to "Mr. Winkle Goes to War," the war adventures of a 44 year old draftee, "Two Man Submarine," "Destroyer," and "Knights without Armor," a guerrilla warfare picture.

Twentieth Century-Fox is making 10 pictures now. Only one, "Guadalcanal Diary," is an out and out war picture. It is the story, as factually depicted as possible, of the marines, and is being made with marine corps supervision in the jungles off Camp Pendleton. The book has been condensed, and the action of the film stays on Guadalcanal, touching upon no other islands.

Two others, Alfred Hitchcock's "Lifeboat," in which all the action takes place on a 26 foot lifeboat, and "Rickenbacker: The Making of an American," are scheduled to be shot soon. The Rickenbacker picture is being done in great secrecy and quiet, for the communist underground out here has sought to keep it from being filmed at all.

"There's so much said that the public doesn't want war pictures," Col. Jason Joy, a Twentieth Century-Fox executive said, "but cripes! We go out with a picture called 'Crash Dive,' a submarine picture, and it breaks records. It even led the army poll for May. Now just who is crazy?"

Out of 32 pictures on its 1942-'43 schedule [pictures being shown now or to be released during the rest of the year], Paramount made 6 war pictures. These were "China," "Five Graves to Cairo," "Aerial Gunner," "Submarine Alert," "Wake Island," and "So Proudly We Hail." The latter, the exceptionally fine picture of the nurses on Bataan and Corregidor, will be released soon. Its 1943-'44 schedule includes four, "The Story of Dr. Wassell" [a portion of its proceeds will go to Navy relief at Dr. Wassell's request], "Hostages," the story of the Czecho-Slovakian invasion; "Hour Before Dawn," Somerset Maugham's story of England at war, and "Hitler's Gang."

"That picture ['Hitler's Gang'] is going to be as tough, as hard, as cruel, as the facts," Y. Frank Freeman, president of Paramount, said. "It is going to be the story of the crowd in Germany. It is going to be without glamor, but we are going to tell a story with true facts insofar as we can establish them. And we do have the facts. At least, we think they are."

Mr. Freeman says Paramount has tried to stay in the field of entertainment, but his definition of entertainment is novel: "I don't mean confined to a belly laugh," he said. "I think 'Wake Island' was entertaining because it reported a subject in which the public was interested. But I don't think they would be interested if I made a great picture and got up and made a speech about politics or how a man should think."

Out of 50 pictures on Universal's 1942-'43 schedule, only two may be classified as definite war pictures. Neither is out yet. Both are produced by Walter Wanger. One, "Corvette K-225", is the authentic, realistic, unsentimental story of what the Canadian corvettes are doing. In filming it five trips were made by convoy. The other, "We've Never Been Licked", basically is the story of Texas A. and M., and much of it was filmed on that campus. It ends with what might be the battle of Midway.

Universal released a British picture, "Next of Kin," originally made to teach men in service that any little thing they say might help the enemy, but it has not been too successful. Two pictures, "Pittsburgh" and a Deanna Durbin musical, "The Amazing Mrs. Holliday," had war backgrounds, as, strangely, did three Sherlock Holmes pictures.

In Universal's 1943-'44 schedule, the three Sherlock Holmes pictures will not have war backgrounds. Maybe this indicates a trend. Maybe not. Wanger will make "Gung-Ho," the story of Col. Carlson's raiders, and "Looking for Trouble," a WAAF picture. Aside from "Passport to Dakar," a romance with a war background, and "Three Cheers for the Boys," a musical to show what the show business is doing for servicemen, all its other pictures will be pure escape.

"This talk that there shouldn't be war pictures is, I think, ridiculous," Wanger said. "There shouldn't be bad war pictures."

In this Charles W. Koerner, vice president in charge of production at RKO, agrees. He contends that lack of quality rather than type has been the cause of non-acceptability. Out of 36 pictures in its 1942-'43 schedule, six were war. These included "The Navy Comes Thru," "Bombardier," "This Land Is Mine" [a story of underground revolt 'somewhere in Europe'], "Hitler's Children," "Army Surgeon," and "Behind the Rising Sun," the first important anti-Jap picture to be made out here.

"In the final analysis, the public is the judge," Koerner said. "We try to anticipate the trend. We think the trend is a little away from the war now. But naturally we're happy to make films that aid in the war effort. When there was a request that we show the important part a bombardier plays, we made 'Bombardier'."

Howard Dietz, an executive at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, says M-G-M is slowing down on war pictures because good stories are hard to find. "That is," he added, "it's getting tougher now to find a story that is more interesting than the headlines." M-G-M's two newest war pictures, on neither of which production has started, are "They Were Expendable" and Capt. Ted Lawson's "30 Seconds Over Tokio."

M-G-M has made more war pictures than most of the other major studios. Since January it has released "Stand By for Action," "Assignment in Brittany" [a Free French spy helps a Commando raid], "Bataan," the uncompromising story of 13 men left behind in Bataan as a delaying action, and "Pilot No. 5," a story of a group of pilots on a small South Pacific island. Still forthcoming this year are "Salute to the Marines," "A Guy Named Joe" [Fliers never die], "See Here, Private Hargrove," "The Cross of Lorraine," a brutal story of the European underground, and "Cry Havoc," a story of nurses on Bataan.

In the latter ["Cry Havoc"] M-G-M is racing to get it on the nation's screens before Paramount comes out with its "So Proudly We Hail." That may be one reason why war pictures are slowing up: the studios are duplicating one another.

Crocheted Party Dress

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This cunning crocheted dress is for baby's first party. It is a dainty, lacy model which is not difficult to create, and is as durable as it is effective. The dress is crocheted in sizes from 6 to 18 months. A delicate pink or soft blue may be chosen for party wear, while soft green or pale yellow is suggested for every day occasions.

For instructions in crocheting the baby's party dress, No. 896, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Weddings

At 9 o'clock tonight in the Oak Park Congregational church, Miss Betty Ann Budd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Budd of Oak Park, will become the bride of Lt. Edward C. Buurma of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Buurma, also of Oak Park. A reception will follow at the church house. Lt. Buurma will take his bride to San Francisco to live.

Miss Betty Jane Olsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf C. Olsen of Forest avenue, and Maurice L. Mulcahy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mulcahy of East 88th place, will be married at 10:30 a. m. today in the Holy Rosary church. Mr. Mulcahy's brother, the Rev. Thomas Mulcahy, will perform the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Southmoor hotel. After a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. Mulcahy and his bride will be at home in Chicago. Miss Olsen was graduated from Loretto academy and her fiance attended Michigan State university.

Writers' Conference Poetry Day Attracts 600 Lovers of Verse

The middle west has an ear for poetry if judged by yesterday's attendance at the Writers' Conference of the Middle West meeting in Scott hall, Evanston. Designated as Poetry day and the third in the four day session, it drew 600 devotees of metrical lines and musical couplets.

As in previous sessions, effort did not go unrewarded. In adult poetry winners of the Mrs. Frank G. Logan awards of $25 and an etching from her own collection were Celia Dimmett of Akron, O., and Mrs. Leon Willien of Evanston, respectively. The children's poetry prizes of $25 and $15, donated by Mrs. Solomon Smith, herself a children's author, went to Kathryn Purcell Johnson of Evanston and Evelyn Cole Peters, 2001 West 103d street. Poetry day and the entire conference will be memorialized in a brochure to contain the work of 12 conference poets.

Fiction day today will end the conference, which has been distinguished for excellent attendance. The final event will be the authors' dinner tonight, at which 20 writers who have books coming out this fall will attend. Vincent Starrett will preside at the evening session, and Harry Hansen will call the role of authors.

Park Concert Is Praised as Best of Season

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Were all of Grant park's concerts of the quality and persuasiveness of the one given last night by a symphony orchestra under George Dasch's direction, the critic's task would be light and joyous. For with no effort except the sincere and expert one of making good music, this took rank as the best of the season.

It had for one thing, rather a remarkable collection of musicians, particularly at the first desks. The concert marked the return to Chicago of Alfred Barthel, for many memorable years the first oboist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and recently retired from his position on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin. Time has brushed lightly over Mr. Barthel, and the exquisite artistry of his solos in Goldmark's "Rustic Wedding" symphony spurred his fellow musicians as well as delighted the audience. He was well accompanied in this orchestra by the sensitive clarinet playing of Domenico Di Caprio and the sparkling flute of Caroline Solfronk.

All honors, however, were not gleaned by the fine woodwinds and excellent brass, for the strings, particularly the first violins and violas—tho the second violins also distinguished themselves in that tricky opening of the symphony's last movement—were of a sheen and pliancy not often attained by an orchestra operating under Grant park's handicaps. Not to be forgotten in mention of the evening's incidental solos was Theodore Ratzer's musicianly playing of the melody in Massenet's "Les Errinyes" suite, which later won world-wide fame as the "Elegy."

But the best musicians cannot play well under a poor conductor and it remains to give due credit to the leadership of George Dasch, whose conducting was crystal clear and grounded in the firmest sort of musicianship.

Freda Draper, the soloist, is in possession of a beautiful voice and a refreshingly unaffected manner of singing. Her way with the "O mio Fernando" aria from Donizetti's "La Favorita" was highly agreeable, if not in the most orthodox vein of Italian opera.

THOUSANDS SEE GIGANTIC PLANE SOAR INTO SKY

Chicago Air Role Hailed at Plant Dedication.

Four powerful engines beat out a rhythmic roar yesterday and the first Skymaster built in the Douglas Aircraft factory at Park Ridge, soared into the sky on its maiden flight.

Thousands of plant employes and guests stationed along the edge of the company's airport adjacent to the great factory, watched the plane, representing the culmination of their year's efforts, leave the runway.

The Skymaster is the army's largest transport plane. The wings are 117 feet 6 inches from tip to tip, the fuselage 93 feet 10 inches, and the top of the huge rudder is 27 feet six inches above the ground. It weighs nearly 65,000 pounds fully loaded, and can carry a small tank slung beneath the fuselage, or jeeps or a 105 mm. howitzer inside.

The plane belittles superlatives. It is not only the largest of the modern American transport, but performance statistics announced by company officials indicate it to be the most efficient.

Cruise at 222 Miles an Hour.

With a full load, it will cruise at 222 miles an hour at 10,000 feet altitude, using only 60 per cent of the power of the four engines.

Dedication ceremonies preceded the first flight. Maj. Gen. Harold George, commanding general of the air transport command, was the principal speaker. Gov. Dwight Green and Mayor Edward J. Kelly were among the guests.

"Geography smiled generously on Chicago," Gen. George said. "One needs only to study a map of the world to see that the city is at the crossroads of many of the great air routes. How important will be the position which this great city will take in the air transportation of the future depends on the vision of its people, on their ability to see what lies in wait just over the horizon."

A. E. Raymond, vice president and director of engineering of the Douglas company, told the throng of workers that Skymasters made in the company's California plant, which has been in production for a considerable time, are flying on transport routes thruout the world.

What They Can Do.

One of the planes completed a round trip from the United States to Australia and New Guinea in less than a week, he said. Another flew from Hawaii to California in 11 hours and 8 minutes.

"Some day we will turn again to the ways of peace," he said. "Then, as now, it will be good common sense to choose Chicago, the geographical and economic transportation center of the North American continent, as the center of production for this and other transport aircraft to follow."

The new factory, like the plane, is staggering in size. Twenty-five acres of ground that grew corn less than a year ago are covered by the roof of the main assembly building. It is the largest cargo plane factory in the world, the largest constructed almost entirely of wood, and the largest building under one roof.

New techniques were invented to construct the 150 foot, 70 ton trusses supporting the building over the main bay in the assembly section. The three main components of the plane, wing, fuselage, and nose section, meet and are joined at this bay.

The assembly line is the moving type, the large sections rolling on monorails.

The main landing tires of the plane are 44 inches in diameter. All the interior fittings, controls and engines are applied after the landing gear. When the plane rolls off the line, it is ready for flight test.

Kenneth Watson, a driver for the Tivoli Laundry, reported to police yesterday that a Negro robbed him of $35 as he returned from making a delivery at 4913 Calumet avenue.

FLAT JANITORS GET FIRST PAY HIKE IN 17 YEARS

Increase Effective for 8,000 Tomorrow.

William L. McFetridge, president of the AFL Building Service Employes' International union and head of local 1 of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, announced yesterday that 8,000 janitors and helpers tomorrow will begin receiving wage increases totaling approximately $3,000,000 a year.

W. L. McFetridge.

The raises were approved by the wage stabilization division of the 6th regional war labor board. This is the first pay raise the union members have received in the last 17 years, McFetridge said.

Pay Rates Vary.

Janitors are paid varying monthly rates, depending upon the size, location, and number of apartments they service. The increase averages more than $30 per month for each worker, McFetridge estimated.

Negotiation meetings for the raise and a new contract were held during the last two months, after which the agreement between the union and employer groups, the Chicago Real Estate board and the Residential Hotel association, was submitted to the WLB.

Loop Rates Undecided.

For many months the WLB has been considering wage increases for 8,500 janitors and janitresses in 300 loop buildings. Appellate Judge Joseph A. Burke, as WLB examiner, recommended that the workers receive a flat increase of 10 cents an hour.

A strike of 125 nonunion janitresses in three loop buildings has been called off by the strikers, Lt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, said.

Chicago Greek Consul Lands; Vows Allied Aid

New York, July 30 (AP).—A Greek army of 40,000 guerrillas is ready to aid allied liberation of Greece, Georges Christopoulos, former secretary-general of the Greek ministry of information in London said, today. Christopoulous arrived here by Clipper, bound for Chicago, to take up new duties as Greek consul.

FATHER PLACED ON PROBATION IN BEATING OF SON

George Stewart, 26 years old, 2222 Orchard street, who, with his wife, Cecilia, 19, was charged with cruelty to a child and contributing to the delinquency of a minor after beating their son two weeks ago, was placed on a year's probation yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in Domestic Relations court. In addition, Stewart had to spend several hours in the Central police lockup.

Mrs. Stewart, who was on probation from Lincoln State school and colony, was turned over to a state agent in court to be returned to that institution. Judge McCarthy denied her application for probation. He suspended judgment and fines totaling $200 and costs.

The couple's son, George, 3½ years old, was in St. Joseph's Home for the Friendless at 39th street and the lake, where he will stay until other arrangements are made.

FREE 3 IN POLICE COFFEE HAUL AT UNDERTAKER'S

Anthony and Frank Salerno, operators of an undertaking parlor at 3153 Harrison street where 2,832 pounds of coffee were discovered last Wednesday, and Edward Hines, a caretaker there, were dismissed yesterday on charges of receiving stolen property. Judge Victor A. Kula in Felony court ruled that the police entered the place without a search warrant and he ordered the evidence suppressed. Hines had told police that the coffee was delivered by two men who said they had been told to leave it there. The Salerno brothers denied knowledge of the coffee, which had been taken from an express truck.

Guards Rest Home

Three health department inspectors and two policemen were denied admittance yesterday to the Aristocrat Home for Aged Persons, 566 Stratford place, from which a blind man, near death from malnutrition, was removed early Wednesday. Mrs. Agnes Peele, a widow, who operates the home, informed the inspectors she would permit no one to enter until Monday.

Three infirm persons were taken from the house yesterday, apparently in compliance with a promise Mrs. Peele made to Judge Erwin J. Hasten in License court, where a motion to vacate a $50 fine on a charge of operating a convalescent home without a license will be heard next Wednesday.

MOTHER OF HERO WILL CHRISTEN NEW DESTROYER

Mrs. Anna Olsen, 238 Ridgeland avenue, Waukegan, will christen a new destroyer to be named after her son, Lt. Comdr. Earl K. Olsen, who was killed in the South Pacific last fall, it was announced yesterday. The ship will be launched in September.

Mrs. Olsen, who is now in the east, is the mother of four other naval officers. They are Comdr. Clarence E. Olsen, Comdr. Charles E. Olsen, Lt. Comdr. Robert Olsen, and Lt. Albert Olsen. Her husband, the late Lt. Hjalmber E. Olson, also was in the navy.

The son after whom the ship is to be named was killed when he attempted to save a seaman from a shell which exploded in the alleyway of their ship during a battle. He was awarded the navy cross posthumously.

Three Boys Flee Training School; Two Are Seized

Three boys, inmates of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles for less than a month, escaped Thursday night. Two of them were recaptured after they had broken into a gasoline station at Geneva. They are Robert Beech of New Lenox and Stanley Cameron of Macomb, both 13 years old. The third fugitive, who fled alone from the cottage at the school's rabbit farm, had not been found last night. He is James Krick, 14, of 7307 Vincennes avenue. Russell W. Ballard, managing officer of the school, said most of his staff is inexperienced, which increases the probability of runaways.

CUBS, BITHORN BEAT DODGERS, 12-3; SOX LOSE

ALL-STARS ADD TWO LINEMEN; SQUAD NOW 53

Bucek and Wolf Are Newest Members.

Volunteers Wanted

COLLEGE and high school musicians who wish to participate in the All-Star band should make their availability known to Ray Dvorak, whose address is University of Wisconsin Bands, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Felix Bucek, a guard on the Texas A. & M. championship team of 1941, who also starred last year, and Joe Wolf, outstanding tackle on the University of North Carolina eleven for three years, have accepted invitations to join the College All-Stars for their game with the Washington Redskins. They will report a week from today at Northwestern university to prepare for the 10th annual charity game in Dyche stadium Aug. 25.

Bucek and Wolf round out a group of linemen which comes from all sections of the nation. The All-Star squad, which still is incomplete, now numbers 53 players. The list of linemen now includes stars from the Southern, Pacific Coast, Southwest, Southeastern, and Big Six conferences, as well as the Western conference, Notre Dame, Marquette, and eastern universities.

Fast on Their Feet.

Many of the husky linemen range from 210 to 230 pounds. Bucek and Wolf, however, do not measure up to this weight standard, but they more than offset this seeming disadvantage by their shiftiness and fast charge.

Coach Homer Norton of the Texas Aggies, in recommending Bucek, called him the "finest guard I ever coached." Unquestionably Bucek wrote gridiron history for the Aggies in his sophomore year—he has one more year of competition after the war—when he intercepted a pass and ran 68 yards for the touchdown which defeated the University of Arkansas. That victory clinched the Southwest conference football title.

Bucek Is Lieutenant.

Bucek is 21 years of age, 6 feet tall, and he weighs 190 pounds. His home is in Schulenburg, Tex., where he attended high school. Like most Texas A. & M. upper-classmen, Bucek is in the army. He is a lieutenant and is stationed at North Camp Hood, where he is training with a tank destroyer battalion.

John Kimbrough, the Aggies' great full back in 1940, is Bucek's favorite athlete. Bucek also competed in track for the Aggies for two years.

Wolf narrowly misses 200 pounds. He is 6 feet tall and 23 years of age. He was graduated from North Carolina this year with the degree of bachelor of arts and a major in mathematics. He is enrolled in the navy's V-7 program and expects assignment in September to officer training.

Wolf's home is in Philadelphia. At the end of his senior year in football he was chosen on all-southern and all-state honor elevens. Wolf is a versatile athlete since he also won varsity letters in baseball and track. Like most linemen, he most distinctly remembers those occasions when he had an opportunity to run with the ball.

Red Sox Send 2 Players to Louisville; Get Pitcher

Boston, Mass., July 30 (AP). — The Boston Red Sox today called up Pitcher Emmett O'Neil, former St. Mary's college star, from their Louisville American association farm team in exchange for Outfielder Babe Barna. At the same time, Lou Lucier, right handed pitcher, was sent to the Colonels on option.

Why?

I've just read of a Hollywood biggie
Whose wrath was a sight to see
When the entourage of his traveling menage
Was cut to a paltry three;
He couldn't, it seems, take his valet along,
His wife, too, rode those long miles
With no bit of aid from her personal maid—
While soldiers stood in the aisles.

This isn't a pot shot at Hollywood,
It's asking a simple "Why?"
Must the government's plea about traveling
Be met with the wink of an eye?
A drawing room and two bedrooms
Must cramp a producer's style,
While boys coming home from Guadalcanal
Stood all those long miles in the aisle!

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The struggle for the handicap championship will be renewed today as the Arlington Park meeting comes to its close at Washington Park. Thirteen horses, a number of them strong contenders for national honors, are scheduled to go to the post in the Arlington handicap, a gallop of a mile and a quarter. With $50,000 posted in added money, the race will gross $61,550 if all 13 start.

Rounders, Thumbs Up, and Alctern, which finished one-two-three in the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap on July 5, will renew their rivalry under somewhat different weight scales and probably under totally different track conditions. The competition will be spiced up a bit by the presence of Salto, a horse which ran second to Market Wise in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap. And there will be quite a few of the regulars which have been campaigning consistently during the Chicago season to date.

Rounders Faces Hard Task.

Rounders' task today will be considerably tougher than the one which faced him on July 5, particularly if the track remains fast. On July 5 he and his two rivals were weighted fairly close together, Rounders toting 116, Thumbs Up 113, and Marriage 116. Today, however, Rounders will be burdened with 124 pounds against 118 for Thumbs Up and 120 for Marriage.

Among the horses which will be shooting at the high weight carriers will be Hal Price Headley's Anticlimax. He was beaten only by a head by Marriage in the Des Plaines handicap and he's getting in at 113. In the Des Plaines he carried 112 to Marriage's 120. He'll run as an entry with Headley's fast filly, Askmenow.

Washington Meet Opens Monday.

Following the close of the Arlington meeting today, the regular Washington Park session will commence on Monday. It will continue until Labor day.

Today's program will consist of nine races, the proceeds of one of which will go to charity or war relief. A similar race last Thursday netted $10,859 for the Illinois veterans service.

A bad spill occurred at the finish line in the fourth race yesterday when Margaret T. fell and two other horses, Compatriot and Transfran stumbled over her. Jockey Pliney Johnson, who was riding Margaret T., was flung violently, and Lyle Whiting, Transfran's pilot, also took a hard jolt. Marc Pena, who was aboard Compatriot was less severely jarred.

Pena Recovers Quickly.

Margaret T. was in fifth place at the time of the accident while Papaloi was crossing the line as winner by a head over Sunnip.

Pena recovered quickly enough to ride in the sixth race. After an examination at the track hospital revealed no major injuries to Whiting and Johnson, they were taken to St. James hospital in Chicago Heights. They later were dismissed after Johnson had been treated for a shoulder injury.

BEARING DOWN

The runs batted in leaders of the National league compared notes before yesterday's game in Wrigley field, and then Bill Nicholson (left), Cubs' right fielder, proceeded to pound Dodger pitchers for three hits which drove in five runs to give him undisputed lead over Billy Herman (right), Dodger infielder, who drove in two. Nicholson now has 72 runs batted in to Herman's 69.

Orlando Gets Four Years as Draft Dodger

Detroit, Mich., July 30 (AP).—James V. Orlando, Detroit Red Wing hockey player, was convicted by a federal court jury today of violating the selective service act, and was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $2,000.

Judge Edward J. Moinet pronounced sentence immediately after the jury of nine women and three men reported it had found the star defense man guilty on two counts of the indictment against him. Orlando was sentenced to four years on each count, but the sentences will run concurrently.

The jury deliberated for less than three hours.

Attorney Indicates Appeal.

John R. Watkins, Orlando's attorney, indicated he would appeal the conviction, and Orlando's bond of $2,000 was continued pending a hearing Monday.

The two counts on which the 27 year old athlete was convicted had to do with submission to his draft board of false letters from Montreal engineering firms alleging that he had been employed by them as a machinist or mechanic in the years 1934-'38.

The letters submitted as evidence in the trial, were signed by Patrick Lynch of Engine Works and Trading, Inc., and W. P. Cassidy, general superintendent of W. E. Walsh, Ltd.

Granted 2-B Deferment.

A 2-B draft deferment had been granted the hockey star as an essential worker at the Lincoln Tool and Die company, a Detroit war plant.

Orlando pleaded that his employers—not he—submitted the letters to his draft board, but that he sought and obtained them only to be used as references in obtaining his job at the Lincoln plant.

PHILS DICKER FOR DERRINGER, LEE

Owner Bill Cox Wants One, but May Get Both.

William D. Cox, temperamental president of the Philadelphia Phillies, came to Chicago yesterday a day ahead of his team, to bid for Pitchers Paul Derringer and Bill Lee of the Cubs. It was said he may get both, tho he came to town expecting to land only one of the veterans.

The fact a deal wasn't closed yesterday, in one of several conferences which Cox held with General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Cubs, was because of dickering over what the Phillies would and could give for the pair, rather than any reluctance about sending Paul and Bill away, it was said.

If only one of the former stars departs, it was said, it will be Derringer. Derringer was brought to Chicago this year on the personal urging of Manager Jim Wilson. Lee has spent his major league career with the Cubs.

Cox is said to have started the bidding with the full knowledge that Derringer has lost 10 while winning six for the Cubs, and Lee has won three while losing seven.

Nicholson and Cavarretta Hit Homers in 3d

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Victory always is sweet, of course, but there was a sinful brutality about the way Hi Bithorn, Bill Nicholson, Phil Cavarretta, and the rest of the Cub performers kicked around the Dodgers yesterday in a 12 to 3 success which gave the Chicagoans a sweep of the series. The unsympathetic dose of torture the Cubs meted out to Leo Durocher's insurrectos was witnessed by 16,169, largest ladies' day crowd of the season, of whom 8,369 paid.

Bithorn was not in his customary shutout mood—the first two batsmen of the afternoon scored—but now it is suspected the senor was out to give the Ladies' day guests a treat. He yielded a dozen hits, as many as the Cubs made, but whenever the faded Flatbushers seemed to be getting too fresh, Hi would rear back and squelch them.

13th Victory for Bithorn.

Bithorn joined Claude Passeau and Hank Wyse as possessors of unended five game winning streaks. Moreover, he brought his total conquests to 13. He has won seven of his last eight engagements, the one loss in the string being a 2 to 1 setback he suffered in Philadelphia on July 4.

The outcome yesterday gave the Cubs a record of seven victories in 14 games with the Brooklyns, the same as the Chicagoans boast against the St. Louis Cardinals. They now have won 21 of their last 30 engagements, and yesterday gained a half game on the fourth place Cincinnati Reds and a full game on the third place Dodgers and the second place Pirates.

The Cubs are 2½ games out of fourth, six out of third, and six and a half out of second.

During the course of the marauding, Nicholson knocked his 15th homer of the year, a double and a single. He drove in five runs to lift his league leading runs batted in total to 72. Nick drew one pass. Cavarretta knocked a homer, a double and walked twice, scoring three runs.

Melton Knocked Out Again.

The Cubs knocked out Rube Melton before the Dodgers effected their first putout. Melton also was knocked out in the series opener Wednesday, but Manager Durocher, who is on a merrygoround, sent him back for a while yesterday. He's saving up for the Cardinals.

Johnny Allen was the second Dodger pitcher. He relieved Melton with two tying runs home in the first inning, the bases loaded and none out. He chilled the Cubs in the remainder of the first and in the second, but Cavarretta and Nicholson led off the third inning with successive homers. This sent away Allen and Max Macon came into the torture arena to take it the rest of the way. Allen, however, was the losing pitcher, his first defeat of the year against five victories.

Here is the detail of the Cubs' five productive outbreaks:

First inning—Stan Hack opened with a double and Eddie Stanky and Cavarretta walked, loading the bases. Nicholson doubled off the top of the right field ivy, scoring Hack and Stanky. Allen went in and abated the fire.

15th Homer for Nicholson.

Third inning — No. 5 homer for Cavarretta, which hit the flagpole. No. 15 for Nick, which went clear out of the park into Sheffield avenue. Macon went in and the fire again smoldered.

Fifth inning—A pass to Stanky, a double by Cavarretta, an intentional pass to Nicholson, and singles by Ival Goodman and Clyde McCullough were good for four runs off Macon.

Seventh inning — Goodman and Peanuts Lowrey walked, whereupon McCullough singled to send Goodman home.

Eighth inning—Hack and Stanky singled and Cavarretta walked. Nicholson singled to right, scoring Hack and Stanky. Goodman singled, scoring Cavarretta. Those runs made it an even dozen.

The Cubs will open with the Phillies this afternoon, with Eddie Hanyzewski doing the pitching. The Phillies beat the Cubs seven times in the first eight games under the management of Bucky Harris. The lads promise that Freddie Fitzsimmons will enjoy no such ecstasy.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The White Sox finally escaped tonight from Clark Griffith's electrically lighted baseball circus, but weren't able to carry off any more loot. After bouncing the Senators around on three successive evenings, the Chicagoans encountered Early Wynn, who passed out a skimpy portion of five hits while his mates were engaged in something resembling a productive harvest off the left elbowing of Thornton Lee. The score was 4 to 1, marking the Senators' fourth success in 13 games with Jim Dykes' tourists.

The general distress created in the Sox batting department by Wynn was particularly painful for Luke Appling, who last night ascended to the No. 1 spot in league hitting circles. Luke's evening was a total loss, the Wynn tricks causing him to fluke out in four appearances. This futile job reduced him to .323 for a tie with Dick Wakefield of the Tigers, but if the mythical crown was to be awarded on the present basis, the Sox veteran would trail the Detroit youth by .3225, against .3229.

Moses Drives in Only Run.

In their effort to avoid sharing their second place berth with the Tigers, the Sox showed only one hit for six innings, at which stage the Senators had already completed their night's scoring. In the seventh, the Sox added their second hit and in the eighth came up with a pair, consisting of a single by Joe Kuhel and double by Wally Moses for their lone run. That was Moses'

Ex-Convict Is Ready for Pro Football Debut

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30 (AP). — Don MacGregor, who developed into an athletic star at Iowa state prison after he was convicted of auto theft, arrived here today to work out with the Philadelphia Eagles—Pittsburgh Steelers club of the National Football league.

The 6 foot, 185 pound back field candidate said he was in good condition and had been running five to six miles a day since his release from prison on July 19, after he served nearly five years of a 10 year term. He was released for good behavior.

A few hours after his arrival MacGregor filed an application for employment as a welder with a Philadelphia aircraft concern. He taught a welding class for two years at the prison.

New York First Baseman Drives In 3 Runs.

New York, July 30 (AP).—With Nick Etten driving in three runs and Ernie Bonham hurling six hit ball for his 10th victory, the New York Yankees made it three out of four for the series with the Cleveland Indians today with a 5 to 4 triumph.

In achieving their 21st success in 31 starts during July, the Yanks got only seven hits off Jim Bagby in seven innings and none off Joe Heving in one but they made the hits count. Etten drove in his three tallies with a long fly, and a double to raise his league leading runs batted in mark to 66.

Paige and Day to Pitch in Negro All-Star Clash

Starting lineups and batting orders for the 11th annual Negro East-West all-star baseball game tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Comiskey park were announced last night by the rival managers, Frank Duncan of the Kansas City Monarchs for the West, and Vic Harris of the Washington-Homestead Grays for the East.

Leroy [Satchel] Paige of the Monarchs will be on the mound the first three innings for the West, opposed by Leon Day of the Newark Eagles.

Four Chicago American Giants will be in the West starting lineup. Selected from the six clubs of the Negro American league, the West batting order follows: Ralph Wyatt, Chicago, shortstop; Lloyd Davenport, Chicago, right field; Willard Brown, Kansas City, center field; Neil Robinson, Memphis Red Sox, left field; Buck O'Neil, Kansas City, first base; Tommy Sampson, Birmingham Black Barons, second base; Red Radcliffe, Chicago, catcher, and Paige.

The East team, taken from the seven clubs of the Negro National league, will bat as follows: Jim Bell, Grays, left field; Henry Kimbro, Baltimore Elites, center field; Buck Leonard, Grays, first base; Josh Gibson, Grays, catcher; Howard Easterling, Grays, third base; Len Pearson, Newark Eagles, right field; Sammy Bankhead, Grays, second base; Horacio Martinez, New York Cubans, shortstop, and Day. The East has nine more players, in addition to Manager Harris, an outfielder, while the West has 13 replacements besides Manager Duncan, a catcher, and Coach W. S. Welch of the Birmingham Black Barons, an outfielder.

A capacity crowd is anticipated. The East's 5 to 2 triumph of last year, its third in a row for a 6 to 4 advantage in the series, was witnessed by 48,000.

FOOD AND DRINK OUTPUT DOWN, REPORTS SHOW

Stocks Low and Demands Increased by War.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—A variety of government reports combined today to spell trouble for alcoholic thirsts and appetites for some foods.

This was the picture:

Whisky stocks are at a seven-year low and going down, beer production is high but unequal to consumption, fishing is about up to last year but far below goals, and prices on canned fruits, berries and juices are to be boosted.

The treasury disclosed that stocks of domestic whisky and other distilled spirits dropped nearly 100,000,000 gallons during the fiscal year ended June 30, or to 439,519,392 gallons against 538,910,306 on the same 1942 date.

Reflecting the ban on whisky and gin production Oct. 1, the total output of distilled spirits during the year was only 39,815,247 gallons, contrasting with 157,981,598 in fiscal 1942.

Beer Consumption Up.

This resulted in rapidly diminishing stocks, no replacements, higher withdrawals from reserves—the tax-paid withdrawals of whisky, rum, gin and brandy were 96,532,128 gallons, or 3,380,512 more than the previous year.

The office of war information said that local beer shortages were not because of production, the highest in history, but because of record consumption. It cited that the output of 67,701,035 barrels last year set a record and this rate was topped in the first half of 1943 with 34,740,618 barrels.

The OWI said minor shortage factors are restrictions on truck use and quarterly quota systems used by many breweries on distribution.

May Cut Spirit Content.

The agency said expansion is limited by the capacity to make malt. It held out some prospects of easier supplies with cold weather and diminishing thirsts, and said that breweries might make malt supplies stretch, thus increasing volume of beer by cutting alcoholic content.

Turning to another shortage [clean shirts, etc.] the OWI found that more than 100 laundries had been forced to close in the last three months, bringing to 600 the number of laundries closed this year. The rest of the nation's laundries are faced with laundry demands which have increased in some localities as high as 200 per cent.

More Soiled Clothing.

The laundry shortage, the OWI report says, results largely from lack of labor, lack of laundry facilities at some military encampments; low wages paid laundry workers; possession of more clothing by some persons; a generally larger wash for families working in defense plants.

In Chicago in the last 6 months, 11 plants serving 13,000 families have closed, the American Laundrying institute says.

The fishing industry, hit by military demands on both men and boats, was reported by Secretary Ickes, fisheries coördinator, as maintaining last year's production levels but falling far behind its goal of six to 7 billion pounds this year.

Canned Goods Cost Up.

The office of price administration said that added costs of raw materials and, in certain states, increased labor costs would be reflected in prices of the 1943 pack of fruit cocktails, canned apricots, cherries, figs, peaches, pears, plums, fresh prunes, blueberries, blackberries, boysenberries and gooseberries.

The OPA announced new price formulas for canners of these products and issued a table of maximum prices for the 1943 pack of canned red sour cherries on a regional basis.

VILLAGE TRUCK KILLS TWO BOYS NEAR MUNDELEIN

Two Lake county boys, Arthur Carlson Jr., 10 years old, and Robert Laycock, 9, who lived on Hickory street, near Mundelein, were killed yesterday when they were run over by a Mundelein village truck.

The truck, driven by Edward E. Roder, 55, Park avenue, Mundelein, struck the boys as it was passing another truck, driven by William E. Sheehan, principal of the Lincoln school in Mundelein.

Michael Trenchard, 8, of 346 South Hale avenue, Palatine, was killed when he was struck by an automobile at Plum Grove avenue and Helen road, Palatine. He was on roller skates. The driver of the automobile, Albert Wilke, 56, of Palatine, a watchman, was arrested on a complaint charging involuntary manslaughter, signed by Michael's father, Ralph Trenchard, a Chicago attorney.

Charles Saulberry, 71, Negro, 5733 State street, was killed by a truck while crossing the intersection of State and 58th streets. John Beltz, Pontiac, Mich., was the driver.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

N. R. W. writes: "I was discharged by the army March 20, 1943, on a C. D. D. [certificate of disability discharge]. I reported to my draft board as soon as I got home and in 10 days received a card classifying me 1-C. On July 20 I received another card putting me in 1-A. I was given to understand by the army I would not be drafted again because if the army couldn't fix me up, nobody could. Has the draft board the authority to reclassify me?"

ANSWER: We had indicated in this column that we didn't believe selective service had the authority to reclassify and attempt to reinduct a man discharged from service after Dec. 8, 1941, on a C. D. D. However, the state headquarters challenged us in a letter as follows:

"As you say, there is no all-inclusive, specific directive of that kind [giving the draft board the authority to reclassify such a registrant], but part 626 of the regulations states that no classification is permanent. It is a common and well understood principle in selective service that a registrant's classification shall be reopened and determined anew whenever a change in the registrant's status indicates such action. Furthermore, it is a common principle that classification shall be determined on the basis of facts which exist at the time of classification. National headquarters has informed us, and we have informed our local boards, that [in spite of section 633.14 (b)] the 1-C classification of a registrant should be reopened and classification should be determined anew if the defect which caused his discharge no longer exists."

Section 633.14 [b] states specifically: "Upon receiving a report that a registrant has been separated from the land or naval forces [1] by discharge on or after Dec. 8, 1941, based on physical disability or [2] by death at any time, the local board shall not change his classification. . . ." This section is specific and "unconditional." The draft board "shall not change his classification"! It is suggested you might effect a protest by an appeal to the board of appeals, by writing to Gen. Lewis B. Hershey and to your representative and senator.

H. F. G. writes: "I am 21 years old and have been in the navy eight months. Before entering I completed two years of college. Could I qualify for additional training under navy V-12, and do I have to take the qualifying examination and where?"

ANSWER: A letter from the navy headquarters states: "A man already in the navy does not have to take the qualifying examinations as is required of civilians; he should apply to his commanding officer for appointment. The applicant must be a citizen and be morally and physically qualified for commissioned rank, including a minimum visual acuity of 18/20 in each eye. The applicant must have been graduated from high school and not have completed more than three years of college. Men having two or more years of college are eligible for the reserve midshipman program [V-7], and candidates must be between the 17th and 23d birthdate on the day application is submitted." We have a data sheet for civilians who may desire to enter the navy describing the V-12 program and we will mail it to interested persons who send us a self-addressed stamped envelope.

THREAT TO CUT GASOLINE RATION SPEEDS INQUIRY

LegislativeCommittee to Meet Monday.

'Need No Reduction'

Bloomington, Ill., July 30 [Special].—"A reduction in gasoline rations for the middle west certainly isn't necessary," said Rep. William H. Wheat of Rantoul, Republican congressman from the 19th district, in a statement today to John H. Dow, president of the American Travelers association, which is fighting the proposed gas ration cut.

"If Ickes [Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator] makes any more wild cuts," Rep. Wheat said, "I think congress will be ready to show him where to get off."

Wheat, a member of a naval subcommittee that conducted a national oil investigation, has recommended that the government "get its feet off the necks of the independent oil operators and let them wildcat." Then, he said, there will be "plenty of oil for every one."

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

The threat of Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes to slash A gasoline coupons for midwestern automobile drivers, last night brought from Sen. Earle Benjamin Searcy [R., Springfield] a call for an emergency meeting of the Illinois joint legislative petroleum investigating committee. He asked the committee to meet in Chicago on Monday morning.

The committee, Searcy said, will open an inquiry to determine whether a reduction in midwestern gasoline rations is necessary for the prosecution of the war or is to be promulgated to help easterners get gas for pleasure driving. First in the order of proceedings, he added, will be an effort to discover whether it is Ickes' plan, as reported by oil men of unquestioned authority, to attempt withdrawal of an additional 100,000 barrels of gasoline—4,200,000 gallons—a day, from the midwest for shipment to the east.

10,000 More Cars for Gasoline.

The new 24 inch pipe line from Texas to New York and Philadelphia, thru Norris City, Ill., was completed yesterday and within a few days it will be delivering 300,000 barrels of crude oil a day to the east. This delivery, the oil men say, will release 10,000 railroad tank cars which have been hauling crude oil and make possible the transportation of gasoline from the middle west to the east.

The 10,000 tank cars will provide a capacity for transporting 100,000 barrels of gasoline a day to the east. Gasoline consumption in the middle west under present rationing is approximately 400,000 barrels a day.

Action Pleases Members.

Searcy last night telegraphed all members of the committee. Senators Walker Butler [R., Chicago] and Nicholas Hubbard [D., Mount Pulaski], as well as Representatives Lyle Prescott [R., Dixon], Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove] and J. L. Wellinghoff [D., Belleville], are expected to be in Chicago Monday morning. The first meeting of the committee previously had been set for next Thursday, but all expressed themselves as gratified that Searcy had moved it forward.

Sen. Butler, after a telephone conference with Sen. Searcy, prepared to request several witnesses by telephone to be on hand when the session is started in the rooms of the Illinois commerce commission at 160 North La Salle street at 10 a. m.

"We hope," said Searcy, "to have a complete picture of the gasoline situation before us when we complete the hearings—and we expect in view of the federal threats of an imminent slash in the value of midwestern A coupons, to push the inquiry as vigorously as possible."

All witnesses will be served with legislative subpenas, probably by the sergeant-at-arms of the senate, either sometime next week or when they arrive to testify at Sen. Butler's request.

Painters Give $10,844 Pay to Red Cross War Fund

Painters' District council, No. 14, has donated $10,844 to the 1943 Red Cross war fund, it was announced yesterday by Martin H. Kennelly, general chairman of the Red Cross drive. This is the largest donation received this year from union membership, Kennelly said. The contribution was made up of a share of the wages earned by union members for working on Saturday, customarily their day off, union officials said.

WPB DECLARES NEW LIMITS ON PAPER ARTICLES

To Save on Pulpwood for War Needs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—New restrictions on the output of hundreds of paper articles were ordered today by the war production board in a move to channel more pulpwood and paperboard into essential uses.

WPB limited production of various civilian paper items to from 70 to 110 per cent of the 1942 output, and authorized unlimited manufacture of many items that are either direct war products or considered essential for civilian use. Previous rulings banned altogether the output of paper novelties such as costumes and confetti, except that materials on hand Aug. 1 for these items may now be used until Oct. 31.

Save 300,000 Tons.

The over-all revision, WPB estimated, will save 250,000 to 300,000 tons of paper a year, or about 2 per cent of the nation's over-all paper products.

Paper articles limited to 80 per cent of the 1942 output, as of Aug. 1, include adhesive tape, barbers' neck bands, bibs, carpets, chair seats and covers, fly paper, games and toys, music rolls, mailing tubes, phonograph record albums, luggage, ribbons, slippers, tea bags, and Venetian blinds.

Those limited to 100 per cent of last year's output include cake boards, dishes, dental pinafores, forks, spoons, napkins, towels, facial tissues, fruit wrappers, hat and cap visors, light shades and reflectors, lunch boxes, photomailers and mounts, drinking straws, window shades, and permanent wave pads.

Production at 10 per cent in excess of the 1942 rate is permitted for artificial leather, buttons, envelopes, stationery, tablets, toilet tissue, sales tax tokens, shingles, and waxed paper.

Military Items Free.

Unrestricted output was authorized for such military items as ration containers, balloons, camouflage paper, targets, surgical bandages, parachutes, and targets; and for such civilian products as abrasive paper, adding machine rolls, tabulating cards, blueprints, milk bottles and caps, and carbon paper, among others.

For all items not covered by percentage restrictions or prohibited entirely, output is restricted to 100 per cent of the 1942 rate until Oct. 1, and to 70 per cent thereafter.

Meanwhile, WPB announced that available supplies of wood pulp had been allocated to paper product mills for August as announced earlier this month.

BOY, 7, DROWNED ON LAKE FOREST ESTATE GROUNDS

William Danko Jr., 7 years old, of Gurnee, was drowned yesterday in a mud pond on the estate of William E. Clow Jr., 310 East Westleigh road, Lake Forest. The boy and a companion, Herbert Lis, 7, had been swimming in the pond, which was formed when dirt was removed to make a fill for a new house in the vicinity. Danko was caught by some underwater obstruction. Montague R. Rasmussen, 274 Scott street, Lake Forest, an insurance salesman, was working in his garden nearby and came to the rescue, but Danko was already dead. The boy was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Danko, 30 East Westleigh road.

NELSON URGES ARMS OUTPUT RISE OF 30 PCT.

Reports June Lag from Schedule.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, warned today that the nation's output of munitions must be increased 30 per cent for the second half of 1943 to meet arms production goals for the year.

Nelson made the announcement in making public the WPB monthly production summary for June, which showed that arms output increased 2 per cent, less than the gain scheduled by the WPB.

June was the second consecutive month in which munitions production lagged behind goals. The output for May failed to register any gain over that for April.

Termed Industrial Challenge.

"American industry faces a tremendous challenge and test in the second half of this year," Nelson said. "In order to obtain additional increases at this stage, industry and government will need to resort to every means of intensifying the production effort.

"Such obstacles to increased production as absenteeism, strikes, delays by management in utilizing full capacity, and overoptimism which reduces working energies must be vigorously attacked with every instrument at our disposal."

Nelson did not mention the government's program of price renegotiations which, manufacturers report, have in some cases reduced profits so sharply as to threaten financial resources.

He reported that output for the first six months was 43 per cent of the year's goal.

Aircraft Gain Disappoints.

He said aircraft output for June, altho gaining 3 per cent on a weight basis, was materially short of expectations. He said the disappointing record was due to "remediable" causes, including faulty performance of certain parts and labor shortages in some plants. The total plane output exceeded 7,000 for the month, but increased only slightly over May.

In other arms categories, Nelson reported the following changes in June output, compared with the May record: Ground ordnance and signal equipment, up 3 per cent; naval vessels, down 3 per cent; merchant vessels, up 11 per cent; miscellaneous munitions, up 1 per cent.

The ground ordnance report said the output of self-propelled artillery was down 13 per cent; combat vehicles, up 2 per cent; artillery, excluding self-propelled, down 7 per cent; and small arms and infantry weapons, up 14 per cent.

Nelson said some segments of the army ordnance program are lagging. In the case of most ammunition, however, schedules have been reduced to absorb excess inventories.

COURT RESTORES ANTI-TRUST SUIT AGAINST A. & P.

New Orleans, La., July 30 (AP).—A federal Appellate court today reversed a Northern Texas District court judgment dismisisng an indictment charging the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act by conspiracy to monopolize interstate commerce in food.

By a 2 to 1 decision, the court remanded the case for further proceedings against the A. & P. on the ground that there was insufficient cause for quashing the indictment. Altho the information was meager, it said, more facts could and should be supplied by a bill of particulars, if requested.

Investors Syndicate SEC Trial Is Delayed to Oct. 4

Minneapolis, July 30 (AP).—Hearing on a petition by the securities and exchange commission for a permanent injunction against Investors Syndicate, Investors Mutual, and Investors Syndicate of America, Inc., originally set for Aug. 30, has been reset for Oct. 4, Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye said today.

Newest Army Craft Is Cargo Plane of Wood

BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., July 30.—The newest departure in military airplane construction, and one that will have an important influence on aircraft making for many years to come, is the army air force all-wood cargo transport called the Caravan.

The Curtiss-Wright corporation is making this radical plane in a new factory here. The Caravan is one of the largest flying machines ever constructed entirely of wood. It is bimotored.

Plastic bonded plywood is the material used in the aircraft. It weighs about 28,000 pounds, of which 75 per cent is accounted for by use of nonstrategic materials.

Immune to Corrosion.

Use of plywood in airplane construction is not new. The material, built of very thin sheets of wood bonded under heat and pressure with special glues, is exceedingly stiff and strong for its weight and is immune to the corrosion that commonly injures aluminum alloys used for airplanes. Until recently, the methods of working with plywood were not perfected to the point that it offered enough advantages over metal to wean manufacturers from metal alloys. Now, new glues and production systems permitting the fabrication of large plane sections and curved surfaces in one piece are in use, promising competition for metal from the standpoint of cost as well as strength.

When the army air forces wanted a cargo plane with certain characteristics not to be had in any current model, the specifications called for plywood construction to conserve strategic materials.

Designed for Small Fields.

The army asked for a plane that would land slowly and take off with a short run, so it could operate from small, rough fields, carry a heavy burden, have a door designed for easy, quick loading, and a cargo compartment free from bulkheads and obstructions to cargo stowage.

Wood construction in the Caravan not only conserved strategic alloys for combat airplanes, but made possible the inclusion of three wood working companies in the chain of direct contribution to war production. The Mengel company of Louisville, large furniture manufacturers, has a sub-contract to make the center wings section, the main cargo section of the fuselage, and the cockpit and control cabin; Baldwin Piano company makes the outer wing panel; Universal Molded Products company makes the after section of the fuselage and the tail group.

"We still have a new airplane, the first of wood of its size, and we must prove to the satisfaction of everyone that it will operate in service as we know it will from our research results," said G. J. Brandewiede, general manager of the Louisville plant.

Could Carry Howitzers.

Flight tests have proven the Caravan possesses good flight characteristics, Brandewiede said. A tricycle landing gear makes for stability and safe landings. Fully loaded, it will clear a 50 foot obstruction 1,200 feet from the takeoff point.

The entire nose section of the plane swings open to facilitate loading, and it is slung low so that heavy objects such as 105 mm. howitzers or full sized automobiles can be rolled into the cargo section.

Two months ago, one of the Caravans crashed on a test flight. Investigation by company and army officials showed that structural failure did not figure in the accident, Brandewiede said.

Two 1,200 horse power Pratt & Whitney engines pull the Caravan at a cruising speed of about 160 miles an hour at its present design loaded weight of 28,000 pounds. Its weight empty is a little over 21,000 pounds. Company engineers believe the plane will prove capable of lifting a larger load, perhaps a gross weight to as much as 35,000 pounds.

WAGE INCREASE DENIED MILLION IN SHIPBUILDING

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The war labor board today denied a general wage increase to more than 1 million employes of 188 shipyards thruout the country.

Formally confirming an unofficial report several days ago that a request for a pay raise would be rejected, the board said no general increase could be granted under its wage stabilization policies.

WLB called, however, for a review of the wage rate structure and job classifications in the industry under auspices of either the shipbuilding stabilization committee of the WPB or the WLB's shipbuilding commission.

STOCK MARKET RESUMES SLIDE

Average Price Lowest Since May 14.

New York, July 30 (AP).—Losses of a point or more were spread thru the stock market today and the recoveries made in yesterday's rally were more than wiped out in the general decline. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost a full point, against yesterday's gain of 0.7, and finished at 49.9, the lowest since May 14.

The trend was slightly higher at the start, but lack of demand and a small but steady stream of offerings soon turned prices down. Activity picked up on the decline, and turnover was 1,224,770 shares, compared with 1,023,590 yesterday.

Meetings of the British war cabinet were the center of interest, speculation being that they were called to discuss Italian peace moves which were said have been made. No definite information was available and traders shied away from commitments.

BOND PRICES SINK AGAIN.

New York, July 30 (AP).—The bond market made a brief rally today, but soon slipped back to close lower. Rails gave up most of yesterday's gains, and losers outnumbered gainers among industrials and utilities. With few exceptions, the foreign list was lower. United States government loans were idle. Total sales were $11,346,500, against $10,096,600 yesterday.

Childs company matured 5s ran up 3%.

CHICAGO PRICES DECLINE.

Prices were generally lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but one of the volume leaders, Adams Oil and Gas, advanced 4¾ to a new peak of 28½. Chicago corporation, Miller & Hart, Aviation corporation, and Libby, McNeill, and Libby were active and fractionally lower. Transactions totaled 37,000 shares.

BEW Export Trade Controls Held Cause of Latin Ill Will

Export trade controls established by the old board of economic warfare to handle Latin American trade have created ill will and dissatisfaction among customers in the affected countries and may cost American exporters some hard won markets, Exporters Digest, foreign trade publication, said in its current issue.

Some Latin American importers already have reduced orders for United States goods and are seeking supplies in other countries, the magazine reported.

BEW—superseded by the office of economic warfare—announced the present control program, known as the decentralization plan, last March. Under the plan the BEW stationed a representative in each of the major Latin American countries to work with an agency in each country.

Double Barrier Described.

A Latin American importer wishing to buy something from a United States exporter must get an import recommendation from the agency before he can order. The recommendation then is sent to the American exporter, who must get a license to export.

"The consensus among exporters seems to be that the decentralization plan is working needless hardship on our export trade, besides creating added paper work and stirring up confusion and ill will among overseas customers," the magazine said.

"Exporters are worried by the mounting flow of complaints from their customers and agents abroad over the delays and expense incurred in futile attempts to obtain import recommendations.

Old Lines Rated "Nonessential."

"Some of the products included in the original nonessential lists [published by BEW and listing items for which import recommendations would not be issued] represent foodstuffs and other items which old established, reliable American exporters have been shipping to Latin America over a long period of years and on which large sums have been spent for advertising and other promotional work."

The exporters believe they not only were being pushed out of hard won markets, said the magazine, but that their own government was opening the door to foreign competition which may be difficult to overcome after the war.

COURT CLEARS WAY FOR UNITED LIGHT'S DISSOLUTION PLANS

Wilmington, Del., July 30 (AP).—Federal Judge Paul Leay today upheld the securities and exchange commission's approval of an amended voluntary dissolution plan of United Light and Power company, Chicago. The commission, at the company's request, had applied for an order enforcing the plan.

SEC approved the amended voluntary plan on April 5. Under it the company would contribute cash and its minor investments to United Light and Railways company, a subsidiary, and would distribute the remaining assets, consisting of all the outstanding common stock of railways, among its stockholders. The company then would dissolve.

The plan provides that common stock will have approximately 5 per cent participation in future earnings of United Light and Railways.

CARNEGIE'S NEW STEEL FURNACE IS IN OPERATION

A new electric furnace, adding 65,000 tons annually to the nation's production of aircraft steels, has been placed in operation at the South Chicago works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, the United States Steel corporation subsidiary announced yesterday.

The furnace, in full production, is turning out 70 tons per heat of steel, and brings to six the number in operation in the plant's electric furnace department.

Pennsylvania Road June Profit Drops to 6 Million

M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, yesterday reported June net income declined to $6,008,016 from $10,023,485 a year earlier. Net income during the six months ended June 30 rose to $29,963,564 from $25,958,329 in the corresponding 1942 period.

OPA ASKS HELP ON HOG PRICING

Confers with Producers and Packers.

The office of price administration yesterday called on the live stock and meat packing industry for advice in formulating price differentials under the forthcoming hog ceiling. The request was made at the opening of a two-day conference between hog producers, packers, commission merchants, and OPA representatives in the National War Agencies building.

Charles Elkinton, price executive in the meat branch of OPA, told the industry representatives they were to discuss the details and mechanics of the ceiling, which is $14.75 per 100 opunds and will go into effect early next month. D. Gale Johnson, consultant in OPA's food price division, said ceiling price differentials would be determined on a seasonal, regional, or weight and kind basis, and asked the industry representatives for aid in their formulation.

Johnson said $14.75 would represent the top ceiling rather than the average, and that any differentials would be under that figure and above the government support price of $13.75.

A majority of the industry representatives was opposed to differentials based on kinds and weights. C. E. Farrington of Indianapolis, Ind., a live stock commission salesman, told the OPA officials the hog ceiling must be simple to avoid enforcement difficulties and confusion.

P. O. Wilson, executive secretary of the National Live Stock Producers' association, Chicago, demanded to know "the government's specific program for the support of hogs at $13.75. Elkinton replied that the answer to that question had to be given by the war food administration.

WLB Admits Wage Policies Fail to Work

The "going rate" formula for determining wage adjustments has been discredited by two months of experimentation, members of the regional war labor board disclosed yesterday. Instead of speeding wage adjustment cases, the new policy has created confusion among employers and employes, stimulated more wage increase demands, and caused numerous delays.

The new method was announced May 30 by Robert K. Burns, regional director of the WLB, as a development from the WLB's efforts to make workable President Roosevelt's "hold the line" order of April 8, which had barred granting wage boosts to correct wage inequalities and inequities between plants.

Authorized to Set Rates.

Under this policy the WLB was authorized to set minimum and maximum "going rates" for each job in a specified labor market. The wages of worker groups could be raised to the minimum wage for their job classification without any restriction imposed by the "little steel" formula.

After two months, however, the WLB has concluded the policy resulted in more complexity and confusion than previous methods.

Publication of the so called "sound and tested wage brackets" for office jobs and tool and die makers resulted in many complaints from unions and individual workers who clamored for wage increases and revision of the wage rates.

The WLB decided against further publication of the rates. Common labor rates ranging from 50 to 80 cents an hour were determined, but never were made public. The WLB was apprehensive that public knowledge of the rates would provoke controversy and wage disputes.

Too Many Classifications.

W. Homer Hartz, president of the Morden Frog and Crossing Works and a member of the regional WLB, was the first outspoken critic of the policy. He said the war would be over and a generation would pass on before the board could establish satisfactory wage brackets for the thousands of job classifications in the Chicago area.

Asserting that determination of standard wage rates was impossible because jobs varied in each plant, Hartz urged a return to the previous method of adjusting wages on the merits of the individual application to correct inequalities that may exist within a plant or among plants in the same labor market.

The task of determining the going rates for about 20,000 to 30,000 job classifications and of constantly revising them has proved impossible. As a result, thousands of wage adjustment cases are jammed in the regional board's wage stabilization division awaiting decision.

FIELD'S PROFIT IN 2D QUARTER IS 52c A SHARE

Increase in Sales Is 18 Per Cent.

Marshall Field & Co. yesterday reported net profit was $1,241,418 for the three months ended June 30, equal after preferred dividends to 52 cents a share on common stock. The adjusted figure for the June quarter of 1942 was $1,117,974, or 46 cents a share.

Hughston M. McBain.

After transferring a half million dollars to reserve for possible future inventory losses, increasing that account to 3½ millions, the profit remaining for the June quarter this year was $741,418.

Earnings for the first six months were $2,464,845, equal to $1.04 a share, against adjusted earnings of $2,158,993 or 88 cents a share in the 1942 period.

Tax Reserve Too High in 1942.

The company's federal tax provision increased to $2,896,643 for the quarter, from $1,932,619 a year ago, and to $5,751,306 for the six months, from $3,732,205.

Profit figures for both 1942 periods were restated, original figures being raised $639,386 for the quarter and $686,193 for the six months, to reflect too large provision for federal tax requirements not accurately determinable a year ago.

Hughston M. McBain, president, said sales and rental income amounted to $32,723,491 for the June quarter, 18 per cent more than a

An unusual opportunity for an

ASSISTANT SALES MANAGER

A man who can control and direct salesmen in the field, who is experienced in territory allocation, and who can call on some large accounts himself occasionally will find this a wonderful opportunity. Our line of kitchen utensils, cutlery and allied lines is the leader in the industry. We sell to hardware jobbers, chain organizations and department stores. Knowing these fields would be an advantage, but not a requirement. What we want is a man who is personable, thoughtful, capable of originating sales plans and directing them. This is a chance for such a man to get set with the leader in the industry and be ready to take advantage of extensive post-war developments.

GRAIN MARKET TURNS DOWN ON PEACE RUMORS

Peace rumors and weakness in security prices caused a grain market decline yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after an early upturn. Liquidation developed in rye on the way down and September sold at $1.00½ a bushel, a new low in about a month. Closing prices were 1 to 1⅝ cents lower. Wheat lost ⅛ to ¼ cent and oats were off ⅛ to ¾ cent.

Announcement that the Commodity Credit corporation would expand its program of purchasing cash wheat at less than the loan price to all parts of the country was primarily responsible for the early buying of that grain.

Mills were seemingly unimpressed by reports that the office of price administration soon will announce a ceiling price on soft red winter wheat, and paid $1.74 a bushel for a car of that variety, 12 cents above the figure mentioned as the ceiling. It was the highest paid for cash wheat on the Board of Trade since 1928.

CATTLE AND HOG PRICES CLOSE MOSTLY STEADY

Prices changed little in the Chicago Stock yards yesterday. Most hogs were steady altho some of the packing sows that dipped on the announcement the government planned to reduce pork buying advanced 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds.

Hog receipts were heavier than a week ago, but many of the other markets reported decreases, with the total slightly below a week ago.

The limited supply of steers, yearlings, heifers, calves, and bulls sold steady. Weakness appeared in beef cows, canners, and cutters. Lambs were mostly steady.

INSURANCE AND TAXES.

What are the tax advantages to the life insurance investor, if any? Can you give me any information regarding the federal and Illinois estate or inheritance taxes on life insurance? Do you consider life insurance a good investment?—W. J.

Answer: An individual's victory tax can be reduced to the extent of his payments of insurance premiums during the year on insurance in force Sept. 1, 1942. The amount of such reduction or credit is limited, however, to the amount of the post-war credit or refund on the victory tax. For single persons the post-war victory tax credit for each year is 25 per cent of the tax or $500, whichever is the lesser, and for the head of a family or a married person the credit is 40 per cent of the tax or $1,000, whichever is the lesser. An additional credit of 2 per cent, with a maximum of $100, is allowed for each dependent.

The proceeds of a life insurance policy are subject to the federal estate tax. Such proceeds are subject to the Illinois inheritance tax only when a beneficiary is not named in the policy.

Life insurance is a prime investment, if the policy is with a sound company. By means of insurance an individual is able to assure his dependents an estate of a certain size even tho his death might occur before he could build up such an estate thru savings and investment. However, it is possible for an individual to buy excessive amounts of insurance. For example, a person might buy so much insurance that the premium payments would prevent the accumulation of an estate to provide for his old age.

FIVE TOWNSHIP REALTY VALUES FIXED FOR TAX

Assessor Shows Increase for 4, Decrease for 1.

Tentative assessed real estate valuations in five country townships, to be used for 1943 tax purposes, were announced yesterday by Assessor John S. Clark. The figures showed no marked change from the present assessed valuations in the same areas, four showing a small increase, the fifth a decrease.

Clark and his assistants said they believed the sample was representative of other townships outside the city limits, but could not be taken as indicating what might happen to assessments valuations in Chicago.

Chicago Values May Drop.

There have been estimates that in certain sections of Chicago land values will be considerably reduced. This is particularly true of the outer edges of the loop district, where many buildings have become obsolete and in some instances earn no income.

"In general, land values in the country towns have not been raised, or only slightly," Clark said. "But there has been an important amount of building in some areas and this is reflected in the assessed valuation total."

War Plant Value May Increase.

He added that there might be increases in the tax values of industrial buildings and the land on which they stand, based on the "use value." War plants, it was assumed, may have their assessments raised.

The townships for which tentative figures were disclosed are Palatine, Elk Grove, Hanover, Rich, and Lemont. The comparative 1942 and 1943 assessments, based on 37 per cent of full value, are:

LAND ONLY.

Township—	1942.	1943.	Change.
Palatine	$2,123,359	$2,130,496	+$ 7,137
Elk Grove	1,517,945	1,548,914	+ 30,969
Hanover	953,861	977,701	+ 23,840
Rich	1,838,889	1,874,231	+ 35,342
Lemont	705,095	696,592	— 8,503
	BUILDINGS ONLY.
Palatine	1,196,670	1,353,407	+ 156,737
Elk Grove	979,683	982,194	+ 2,511
Hanover	571,974	550,527	— 21,447
Rich	1,080,761	1,125,937	+ 45,176
Lemont	497,827	496,538	— 1,289

Combining land and buildings, it is shown that the Palatine assessed valuation is increased 4.94 per cent; Elk Grove 2.04 per cent; Hanover .16 of 1 per cent; Rich 2.76 per cent, while Lemont has a decrease of .81 of 1 per cent.

AIR SHOW BASED ON DVORAK AID FOR IMMIGRANT

A story of an immigrant and how he was befriended by the Bohemian composer, Anton Dvorak, while he was living in America, will be told in dramatic form with the music of Dvorak's "New World" symphony on the Chicago Theater of the Air broadcast over W-G-N, W59C and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

The music will be presented by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

The drama will tell the story of Josef and Minna Jedlicka, who come to make a home in the new world. Immigration authorities proposed to send them back to Bohemia because the Jedlickas had neither money nor jobs awaiting them. Josef was befriended by Dvorak who obtained a job for him.

Dvorak wrote a portion of the "New World" symphony at Spillville, Ia.

BENNY'S TROUPE SAFE IN AFRICA, HE TELLS SISTER

Jack Benny has reached Africa and will entertain American troops for two months before returning to start his fall radio series. Benny sent a cablegram to his sister, Florence Fenchel, 2756 Pine Grove avenue, telling her his entertainment troupe had arrived safely. With him are Larry Adler, the harmonica wizard; Anna Lee, British actress, and Winnie Shaw, dancing comedienne.

Gracie Fields, British comedienne who has been in the United States for the last year, and Bob Hope are among those entertaining troops in Britain. Miller McClintock, president of the Mutual Broadcasting system, while visiting Chicago yesterday, said Miss Fields will make several broadcasts over W-G-N and the Mutual network from Britain during the summer, before she begins her "Victory" show over the Mutual network Oct. 11.

WELDERS SEAL FINAL LINKS IN 'BIG INCH' PIPE

Rahway, N. J., July 30 (AP).—Welders today sealed the last links in the Big Inch pipe line, stretching 1,400 miles from the oil fields of Texas to the refineries of New Jersey.

This accomplishment, however, meant no rest for the veteran crew of workmen. To be completed within 8 or 10 days is a distribution system, fingers of smaller pipe radiating from the terminal to refineries in Linden and Bayonne, N. J., and on Staten Island, N. Y.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

July 30, 1943.

An article discussing the price feeders should pay for fattening cattle has caused a good deal of comment among farm men. The article appeared in the July issue of the Grain and Livestock Herald, published in Chicago.

The article contends that feeders have been paying too much for their steers, thereby denying themselves a chance for profit. It recommends that feeders pay no more than 12 cents a pound in Kansas City. As proof it offers the following feed cost records for a mythical steer purchased this month:

Feed Cost Records.

Average good to choice feeders, 850 lbs. @ $13.55	$115.18
Interest at 6% for five months	2.88
Feeder cost	118.06
41 bu. corn @ $1.05	43.05
1.3 tons silage @ $7.35	9.56
.28 tons clover bay @ $15.00	4.20
.056 tons of 50 per cent linseed meal @ $51.00	2.86
.056 tons cottonseed meal @ $53.00	2.97
.056 tons soy bean oil meal @ $48.00	2.69
Feed costs	65.33
Freight, commissions, labor, salt	9.00
Total costs	192.39
Needed price to break even when marketed week of Dec. 18, 1943	16.72
Current prices of about the same class	15.80

These figures, according to the article, show that the feeder is doomed to lose money working under present price ceilings. Figures for steers fed out and sold this month showed a loss of $183.20 on a carload.

As added proof of the necessity of paying lower prices for feeder cattle, experiments of agricultural colleges in feeding show that at current feed prices it will cost the feeder around $19.10 to put 100 pounds of beef on a steer. This 100 pounds is worth much less today. Pork and manure credits figured in would make the cost of feeding one steer from $66 to $75.

Hold $12 Top Price.

With this figure as a base the article contends that the feeders can pay no more than $12.00 per hundredweight for their cattle. If the OPA succeeds in knocking down fat steer prices to $15.15 a hundred for good to choice animals weighing 1,150 pounds, then it becomes more imperative to keep original costs down.

The men at the farm believe the article hits the heart of the problem if feed costs and ceiling prices are going to remain the same. Stock feeders could force the price of feeders down lower by not bidding against each other and insisting on a better margin. Ranchers have admitted that they are making good money selling feeder cattle and could take less for their animals and still show a profit. One way to help untangle the beef shortage would be to make it profitable once more to stock feedlots. This can be helped along if the farmers can get their cattle at a more reasonable price.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE farm gardener yesterday planted a short row of Nantes half-long carrots. Altho it is rather late to plant carrots of any variety, it is possible to seed them now and get a fair return by using commercial fertilizer to maintain steady growth. The gardener believes carrots planted now will attain sufficient size to be canned whole before killing frosts strike.

Late plantings, especially of root crops such as carrots and beets, require an extra fine seed bed if the seeds are to germinate. The carrots planted yesterday were put in a row from which a crop of beets had been harvested. The gardener respaded the row to a depth of about five inches, then raked the topsoil to a fine consistency.

Since early August usually is a period of high temperatures, the planting practice also is different from that of early spring, when the soil is cool and moist. Whereas the seeds are planted just beneath the surface in spring, they should be planted about an inch deep during early August to better resist the periods of very hot weather. A light sprinkling after planting also is advisable.

Engineers, Two Production Control Men

One of the fastest growing manufacturers of radio equipment in the country with two fully going plants, one soon to start and a fourth contemplated, needs one production control man to plan and schedule materials and manpower for production in the two established plants and the one soon to get under way. His background should be in radio.

The other man is needed for the fourth plant. He should know radio assembly and installation. If you are now employed at top skill in a war industry, do not apply.

You will like homey Stamford, Connecticut on Long Island Sound and Westchester county, New York, where our plants are located.

We still do not have the tight housing condition being experienced elsewhere. And we have definite plans for the post-war period in which you will fit.

This company has operated so successfully for the past 55 years because it has at all times maintained the policy of doing as much as possible for its employees. Our people can all testify to this. Right now we are doing 100% war work, and all our men are putting in plenty of overtime. However, we are particularly anxious to secure men who are genuinely interested in their future and desire a permanent job. We have added several new products to our normal peace time production which virtually guarantee tremendous post-war possibilities. The men selected will work in one of the most modern factories in or around Chicago under ideal working conditions and will be eligible for:

A-1 JOBS AT DOUGLAS

If you feel your future may be in aircraft, DON'T DELAY learning AT ONCE what DOUGLAS can mean to honest, capable men . . . and women.

Many Chicagoans have not realized that this great, new CHICAGO PLANT has been completed and is actually producing the famous C-54—the giant combat transport plane, called the DOUGLAS SKYMASTER. And aircraft production means jobs on almost every variety of machine . . . plus many special skills new to the entire Chicago area.

This organization is young. Opportunity is definite. Advancement is our policy. If you know your stuff—or if you are eager to learn—if you are ambitious and energetic . . . and if you are dependable . . . you owe it to yourself to come out and see what you may be able to do for yourself and for America.

Our tremendous plant has not been publicized. Yet it is wonderful—all new . . . all equipment new . . . all company furnished tools new. Food here is excellent. Good people to work with. The crying need for planes affords opportunity for full time work, with overtime pay at time and a half after 40 hours per week. Group life insurance, health and accident insurance and hospitalization at low cost. A good place to work.

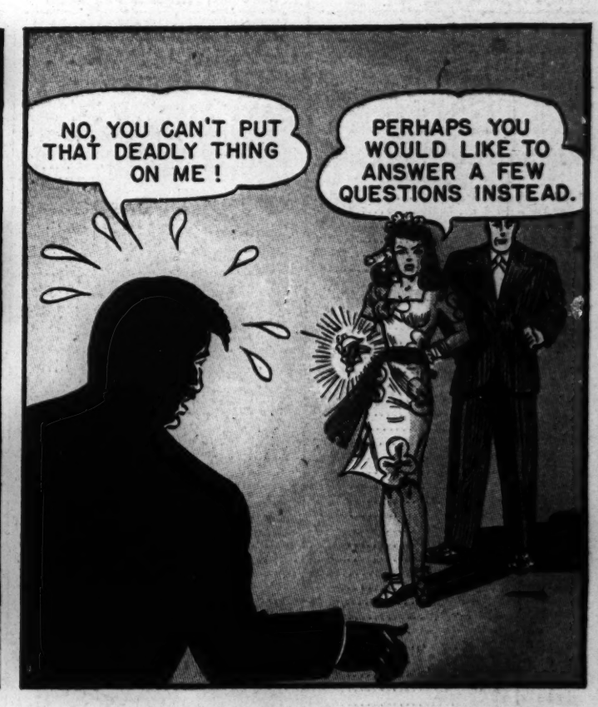
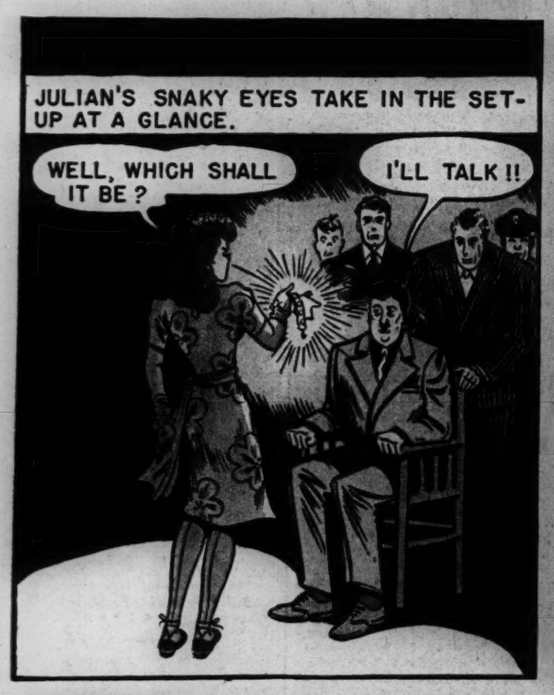
BRENDA STARR REPORTER

By Dale Messick

BRENDA CONFRONTS TED JULIAN. SHE CARRIES THE SEVEN DEATH BRACELET.
BRENDA STARR!!! BUT I THOUGHT KEN M°KEE....
... KEN FAILED TO KILL ME THE SAME AS THIS BRACELET FAILED

THE BRACELET FAILED BECAUSE IT WAS REMOVED FROM MY ARM IN TIME, BY FRIENDS. YOU, UNFORTUNATELY, ARE NOT AMONG FRIENDS.... O.K. BOYS, HOLD MR. JULIAN, WHILE I RETURN HIS LOVELY GIFT IN PERSON.





IT'S A SCOOP FOR THE FLASH!
YOU GUYS HEARD ME! NO SOAP...SO SCRAM!
YOU MEAN A SCOOP FOR STARR! SHE'S THE ONLY REPORTER IN THERE.
....AND WHY SHOULDN'T MISS STARR GET IT? SHE'S HAD ALL THE DIRTY WORK!

SAY, GORGEOUS, HOW ABOUT A HINT, AT LEAST?
SURE, MISS STARR, US FELLER REPORTERS GOT TO STICK TOGETHER.
STARR, DON'T FORGET THE TIME I HELPED YOU....

A Bouquet from Mrs. Catherine Ruckrich and a Bouquet to her from Dean's Floral arrangement of Delphineum and Peruvian Lilies by one of Chicago's leading florists, Fred S. Fredericks.

Presented by Dean Milk Co. to Mrs. Catherine Ruckrich in acknowledgement of her voluntary testimony published in this advertisement

"Tried 3 other brands of milk... none compared with Dean's"

This is the statement recently made by Mrs. Catherine Ruckrich. "Dean's," she continued in the same interview, "has more body and a flavor unmatched by any other milk we tried. My husband doesn't enjoy any milk the way he does Dean's. 'It tastes just like old fashioned country milk,' he says.

"My two sons, one six and one eight, are just as insistent about Dean's as their father. And my own enthusiasm, too, for Dean's quality joins the rest of the family. Furthermore, I appreciate the saving I make as contrasted with home-delivered milk. When a family uses 28 quarts of milk each week, as my family does, buying Dean's means real thrift in terms of actual dollars and cents. In addition, I am thankful for the work-saving feature of the paper bottles. No washing, no extra handling—it's certainly a big help to a busy wife and mother."

Give YOUR family the glorious goodness of Dean's. It's the fresher flavored milk, bottled in the country with all the cream left in.
